OAKVILLE

At the last meeting of the Epworth League a series of books descriptive of the Wesleys and the places of education in American Methodism, was completed Seven members took the responsibility o preparing a synopsis of these books. Some gave them in the form of addresses, while more timid ones wrote essays and read them. These meetings are refreshing and never have the young people of the Methodist church entered so heartly into any work as that involved in the League. Messrs. C. W. Anderson & Son have purchased the lot adjoining the Star office, on which they intend erecting a new bank Mr. C. Armstroog has presented St Jude's S. S. with a very beautiful and artistic window, in the centre of which is the full life size figure of Queen Victoria in her royal robes, as she appeared in her inhiles celebrations. . At the bottom of the window are the words, "Jubilee Memorial, June, 1887." It will be remembered that St. Jude's church was erected during the jubilee year, bence this window. Mr. John Waldie, M. P. and wife, spent explaining how the children in one of their schools, in Toronto, had been successful in this plan. In their case they were each provided with a cent, but as the school here only have seven weeks before they have to report it was thought advisable to begin with a larger amount. Each one i required to buy five cents' worth of material, make it up into something and sell it; then with that amount buy more, -make and sell, and so on. The cent system has been adopted in the Presbyterian S. S. This is no doubt a good plan and we hope
