NOTES AND COMMENT

The amount of life insurance in force in Canada at the close of 1889 was $231,946. and fatal treatment at the hands of the 270 an increase of 20 millions over the previous year. The premiums for the year were $8,227,530, an increase of $1,665,682

It is proposed at Toronto that when the city assumes control of the street railway a special low rate of fare should be fixed for working girls on their way to and from the places where they are employed. The idea is a good on and worthy both of adoption and imitation.

The import duty on whisker has been raised from $1.75 to $2 per gallon. This, with the excise daty and its manner of collection, will, it is said, improve the quality of the article. Those who are supposed to know whereof they speak say there is room for improvement, and that it can stand the tar.

The conditions on which the United States Government are willing to enter into negotiations for reciprocity with Canada are simply that we shall take the initiative by agreeing to admit American manufactures free as an offset to the admission of our products. In other words unrestricted reciprocity. It is well to have this clear on derstanding of the attitude of our neighbors. The despatch which conveys this information concludes by saying that "in the present state of feeling in both countries Mr. Blaine and those whom he most consuits are disposed to await events at presest.". So are the people of Canada -Star.

THE RILTIC OTTEME. The "Baltic" outrage, which has been ventilated in the House three or four times this session, received another hearing yesterday. It will be remembered that a young man on board the steamer received harsh crew. After being subjected to a coat of tar and feathers the victim, in a fit of desperation, jumped overboard and was drowned. Mr. McNeil wanted to know whether the official report would be discussed this session. Hon. Mr. Colby, in reply, said that upon Commander Gordon's report Captain Robertson's certificate had been suspended for a year. THE LADIES' FAVORITE. When the popular fashion journal is poken of among the ladies it is not difficult to understand that The Delineator is alluded to. It is now exactly a year since The Delineator for May, 1889, was referred to but having the then unprecedented increase in its subscription lists during the preceedhalf year; but so great as was the growth which we then announced that the resent month's number, as shown by the following-figures, has been even more gratilying and remarkable. The circulation of The Delineator for May, 1889, was 250,000 copies; while the first edition of the Issue for May, 1890, numbers $25,000 copies, each one of which represents a bond ade, paid subscription. In other words, during the past year the circulation of The Delineator. has shown a natural and bealthy increase of 75,000 copies, or over 6,000 for each month in the year. The ladies are evidently not yet tired of fashions as practically portrayed by The Delineator.

THE CARE A WATCH SHOULD GET.

On the care that any machine gets depends greatly its lasting and its proper rocking, and particularly is it so with a watch. They have to undergo so much ough handling, and are subject to so many changes of temperature and position, it seems to me that they are the worst used machine in the world, they are often allow-The life of Christ illustrates the royal law ed to run day and night, year in and year. of love, and Christ is the friend of sinners out without any attention in the way of oil. when every other machine about the place is oiled nearly every time it is used for a few hours. If you only knew it, it costs you more to let your watch run more than 20 months without cleaning, than it does to have it cleaned that often, because left this city on his way to England at 10.80 it is bound to wear put in half the time, and then you have to be spending money all the time tinkering it up and then get no satisfaction. Some people Loxdox, April 28 .- Mr. Stanley arrived | never oil any of their machinery until it begins to squeak. Dover was 3.55 o'clock. Disgraceful con. It is really a shame to see first class watches spoiled by pure thoughtlessness. because a person who can afford to buy a good watch can surely afford to keep it in proper order. To give you an idea how much work the wheels have to do. I would state that American watches have 300 beats per minute. That mesos, the balance wheel turns three-quarters around and back 150 times each minute. If the balance turned in one direction always, the wheel would revolve 225 times each minute. Figure up that speed for your waggon and and see how far you would travel in a day of 24 hours, and tell me how often your axle would want greating. The weight of the balance wheel is much heavier in proportion to the size of its pivot, than your waggon axie has to support. The lever makes 300 movements per minute. The scape wheel 500 revolutions per hour, and the other wheels in proportion. No two pieces of metal can rub together without wear unless there is oil between them and oil will wear out in time. It is always best to wind your watch as near the same time each day as possible. Keep it in as near the same position at night as in the day when carried. Don't let the baby play with them, it may quiet the child but it is hard on the watch. When you are winding them do not twist them around, but hold the watch steady and turn the key only and you will be less likely to break the ruby pin. No harm can arise from turning the hands either backward or foward. Whenever you notice the bow getting loose get it tightened as dirt gets in around the ends when loose. An open face case will keep the movement cleaner than & lighting case. If you find the winding commencing to slip back get it attended to before something worse happens.
