Until the Friday before he had enjoyed his usual health, but that evening complained of a pain in the left hip. He did not go to work the next day and gradeally grew worse, suffering great pain, was for several days delirious, and died on Thursday morning. The trouble which caused his demise was of a very mysterious character. He was treated by two physicians without avail. It is believed that blood-poisoning, superinduced by a species of hip disease, was the cause. Frank was a bright boy of fourteen years, a favorite with all. The fourral on Friday afternoon was very largely attended. The sad event was the occasion of an excellent sermon by Dr. Gifford in the Methodist church on Sunday evening from Isa. 41:10 A Week of Weddings. Last week was prolific with weddings. On Wednesday there were two at three o'clock. At that hour liev. J. W. Rae united in the bonds of holy matrimony Mr. John Lawson, of Harriston, and Miss Agnes Anderson, daughter of Mr. Benjamin Anderson. The ceremony was per formed at the home of the bride's parents on Mill street in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives. The happy couple left on Tuesday, for Harriston. Rev. G. B. Cooks was the officiating clergyman at the other wedding on the same day. The principals to the contract were Mr. Louis McBrine, of Berlin, and Miss Carrie Bobson, daughter of Mrs. Susan Bobson, and the rites were performed at Mrs. Robson's residence on Church street. Mr. and Mrs. McBrins left the same even ing for Toronto to spend a few days with friends there. On the afternoon of the Oueco's Birthday at 1 d'clock, Rev. Dr. Gifford made another couple happy. On this occasion Mr. William Murray, of Nassagawers, and Miss Emily Williamson, eldest daughter of Mr. David Williamson of the same township, were joined in holy wedlock at the Parsonage. The newly wedded pair left immediately at the conclasion of the ceremony for Barlington on a visit to friends of the bride. No doubt June, "the month of Boses and Marriages" will add its usual quote to the list.
