MARY AND HER LITTLE LAMB.

A very fat and good-natured but extremely dull German boy was a popil in a school I taught in a country neighborhood some years ago. The lad's name was Jakey Siefert, but his mother, who came with him on the first day, called him "Shakey," and as "Shakey" be was known from that time forward.

He proved to be as dull as he was goodnatured; in fact, although he was ten years old, he was still unable to read.

We were going to close the term with a little exhibition at the school-house in the evening : Nearly all the boys and girls were to have short recitations or parts in dialogues, while others would sing or read

Jakey had not been able to attend school appeared at the exhibition, and early in the | English Bi-Carb Soda. evening came up to me, his round face all agiow with excitement.

"Teacher, oh, teacher," he said, "I haf a piece I vould like to speak, too. I hal been a veek learning it."

" Very well, Jakey," I said, "you shall speak your piece." And when several boys about his own age had spoken, I

" Jakey Siefert."

He came quickly forward, and stepped upon the stage, a comical picture of overgrown boyhood and childish excitement. His fat body was clad in a pink calico waist to equal it. We highly recommend it. and around his neck was a huge embroidered white collar, such as used to be worn by our great great grandmothers. His face was shiny as soap and water could make it. After a jerky little bow, Jakey commenced: "Mary had you leedle lamb." Then he stopped short and began twitching at his trousers leg with the thumb and forefinger of either hand.

"Mary had von leedle lamb." He stopped again and fell to twisting around on one lege His lips moved rapidly, but no sound came from them. Some of the other boys began to laugh. Then

A WIFE'S PRAYER.

A wife's prayer, nearly as beautiful as the prayer of Naomi, is expressed in these cousin, "Can you tell me what a fop is words :- "Lord bless and preserve that "Oh, ves," she replied : dear person whom Thou hast chosen to be my husband; let his life be long and blessed, comfortable and holy; and let me also become a great blessing and a comfort unto him, a sharer in all his sorrows, a meet helper in all his accidents and changes in the world; make me amiable for ever in his eyes, and for ever dear to him. Unite his heart to me in the dearest love and holiness, and mine to him in all sweetness, charity, and compliance. Keep me from all ungentleness and discontentedness and unreasonableness, and make me hamble and obedient, useful and observant, that we may delight in each other according to Thy blessed word, and both of us may rejoice in Thee, having our portion in the love and service of God for ever. Amen."

A BOY'S ENEMY.

Once upon a-time-to tell when and where would be a breach of confidence-a. bright-eved, well-fed, well-housed boy told me that he "believed it was easier for a fellow to really amount to something if he had rather tough time of it, than for us fellows who have everything so outrageously easy right straight along."
