The service opened with the hymn " Come ye Thankful People Come," after which the Rev. J. Fennell, of Georgetown, took the shortened form of evening pfayer, including several special prayers suitable to the occasion. The sermon which was preached by the Bev. Bernard Bryan, of Paridale, was listened to with marker attention; It being an exposition of man's dependency on Divine goodness for earthly food and assistance. The farmer was estimated by the preacher as being the most highly favored and blessed; his work and vocation bringing him into such close coutset with God. reflects great credit on the taste and industry of the ladies of the congregation. The chancel and altar table were beautifully decorated with flowers and fruite, while the sisie of the church appeared as a pretty grotto, it being spanned by three welladorned arches. The thanksgiving amounted to about twenty-eight dollars, which may be considered a liberal expression of the sincerity of the heart-felt gratitude to God: On Sanday both services were well attended. In the evening the barvest hymns and prayers were used while Rev G. B. Cooke, the pastor, preached from St. Matt. VI, 11, "Give us this day our daily bread." His sermon was carefully thought, delivered in a very interesting manner and appropriate to the occasion.
