The enterprise, taste, and strength o this frem is observable in their well appointed store long before the millinery and mautic show rooms are reached, only in these the interest of the firm has been centred this week, and the result of their labors has been most gratifying. Skirting the large room is a wealth of material pertaining to these departments. Hows of cases of plames, ospreys, wings and feathers in every variety and color, as selected by Mr. Bollert from the English manufacturere; fine mantle clothe and fars; the richest and most beautiful of rilk velvots, bandsome wide broche sash ribbons, and other garniture make, with the elegant array of hate and tonnels, a pretty sight. Among the hate are an original Paris pattern. pearl velvet with double rim faced with moss velvet, and adorned with large banches of ostrich tips, under which birds are peetling; the Evons, a large hat of black Lyons velvet, crown of cornflower velvet, with wide rim covered with black ostrich plumes and cornflower osprey; a French pattern hat, with flat crown of seal brown velvet, trimmed with ostrich feathers and bird. Among bonuets are an original estiern one of sage velvet, faced with aplique and tiusel, and the Eurenie, velvet with jet crown orprey and jet ornament for face. In the children's and misses' depertwent are white beaver hate, with strich feathers and white birds; flat crowned hate, shirred with surah and velvet; and Aberdeen bonnets of tartan silk. Cornflower, prone, emeranda, buttercup. pearl grey, and black are the leading fashionable shades this season. This firm is also very proud of their selection of mentles, bought dreet from German and English manufacturers and containing all the latest povelties. Three quarter length menties with faucy facing and braidings or astrachan are taking the place for fashionable wear of the abort coats worn last season, is Mr. Bollert's experience. They show an elepant brocaded camel's bair cloth mentle, in the form of a loose wrap, with yoke and flowing siceves of rich beaver plash, trimmed with kactted silk fringe; a rich dolman, of brocaded silk, made up in Russian circular style, lined with squirrel and shot surah, teimmed with black sable; and a Venetan cape of green box cloth, double front, garnitured with tinsel braiding. READY FOR BUSINESS

Our Millinery Opening is over. We could say a great deal about its success, and also the many complimentary remarks made concerning our display, but so much loud talking and writing is indulged in by many merchants on such occassions that we prefer to say nothing about this part of it, preterring to leave it to the public to decide as to its success or otherwise. We might state, however, that this department is under the management of the same lady who has so long and ably managed it, and the stock has been selected by Mr. Ryan white in Europe, having been purchased there for three reasons, viz: Better value, a Larger Assortment to choose from; and, that we do not care to show our customers precisely the same goods as our neighbors.

We have just opened up another case of Mautles and D. Imans from the Old Country, beautiful goods, which we are anxious to have you see. Our stock is unusually large in these goods, and you will find all the latest styles represented there. You may perhaps not be aware that we have greatly enlarged the space devoted to Mantles this season, and we have now a room 60 feet in length by 20 in breadth, which requires over 180 yards of Carpet to cover it. These figures will serve to give you a clearer idea of the size of our Mantle Room and when we add that it is filled with Mantles, Dolmans, Jackets, etc., you will be able to form a better estimate of the extent to which our trade in these goods has grown: Fashionable Dressmaking a Specialty, and all work guaranteed. G. B. RYAN & CO, Guelph.
