HAL'S EYES OPENED.

"No, Daisy. You cannot have my roller skates. So there."

"I mean when you don't want them, Daisy," said Daisy's blue eyes gleaming as she looked at Hal.

"I want to clean them, whenever I'm done with them, and hang them up in the bag Aunt Alice is making for me."

"You might let me have them just a few minutes, Hal!"

"You don't know how to use them."

"I could learn. Please, Hal, just let me try. I know I could learn."

"Learn on your own, then," answered Hal, crossing his arms, and looking away matter-of-factly. "I earned the skates with my own money. I'm not going to let Daisy spoil them."

He did not see Aunt Alice on the stoop. Halie Brown was not an ugly boy, but he was inclined to be selfish. He would have been very indulgent if any one had told him he made his cousin, Daisy Holt, unhappy. He really loved her; but she was so gentle that she did not resent any of the ungenerous, ungracious things that he did.

When Halie left Daisy she walked slowly home with a very sorrowful heart. She could not understand how Halie could refuse so small a favor. She could not conceive of refusing Halie anything; enjoyment that depended on loaning anything she possessed.

After tea Halie sat in the sitting-room with the family who he suddenly thought of a new illustrated set of Irving that Aunt Alice had received at Christmas. He said: "This is a fine evening, Aunt Alice, may I have your Irving to look at?"

"No, Hal. I've made up my mind to be very careful of my Irving and keep it in the box when I'm not using it."

A surprised angry look came into Hal's face. Aunt Alice, sweet Aunt Alice, had never refused him anything before. Daisy who had come in with her mamma was as much surprised and puzzled as Hal was. No one else seemed to notice Aunt Alice's answer but the children. Hal took down Brantford from the shelves, but he could not interest himself or overcome the unpleasant effect of the refusal to his simple request.

"I'll sharpen up my new pencils and have them ready for Monday," he thought. "Daisy's knife is sharper than mine; I'll borrow it."

"Daisy," he said aloud, "please lend me your knife. I want to sharpen my new pencils."

"No! I've made up my mind not to lend my knife. When I'm using it I'm going to wipe it off and keep it in my pocket. No, I cannot lend my knife; earn one yourself!"

"Daisy," Hal almost burst into tears. Never in his life had he received such an answer from his father's daughter, mortified and angry he buried his face in his hands for some minutes. A soft, gentle touch roused him and Daisy said: "Halie, I brought over my new game. Do you want to see it?"

He looked at the gentle little girl, whose face was full of sympathy. Just beyond was his father's, full of reproach, and Aunt Alice's sorrowful, and saying so plainly, "Do you desire my kindness?"

A blush covered Hal's face as he remembered the scene of the afternoon and his refusal to grant a favor to the little girl who was always ready to share every pleasure, every gift. The lesson was not forgotten.

R. B. JERMYN, ACTON.

We have great pleasure in announcing the arrival of our Fall Stock.

Since early spring we have been ransacking the immense stocks of the Dry Good centres of Canada, besides placing many import orders, and the result is we have gathered together an array of fabrics which in point of excellence and variety far surpasses our former efforts, nor have we forgotten that "goods well bought are half sold." Money and experience can not buy reliable goods. It is always better to be prepared to compete with the largest concerns in Canada, we mean it. All that is necessary to convince the knowing ones is a personal inspection now in.

Dress Goods.

We have realized it takes every color, make and material to please everybody and then sometimes we will. This season large checks and plaids are among the correct things, while Dove Gray seems to be the reigning shade and is much sought after in the centres of fashion. We show nice goods in the different colorings at 12 1/2 cents, better ones at 15, 18, 20, 25 and at 80 85 cents and up. The cloth is double width and embraces all the new things. Don't fail to look through, it will pay.

Cloaking and Ulster Cloths.

All makes and colorings are here. Beavers and chevots predominate for early fall wraps and jackets, three quarter length will lead while Dame Fashion says Marine Blue will be the most popular. Housekeepers wanting real fine lines should inspect our stock. It is always better to keep in our staple department a class of goods we can recommend and feel that every dollar worth sold is a standing advertisement.

Fancy Goods and Small Wares.

Largo lines, Hosiery, Gloves, Corsets and Underwear, just passed into stock today.

THE MASTER OF THE HOUSE.

He cannot walk, he cannot speak. Nothing he knows of books and men. He is the weakest of the weak. And has not got strength to hold a pen: He has not pocket and no purse. Now ever yet has owned a penny. But has more riches than his cure. Because he wants not any.

He rules his parents by a smile. And holds them captive by a smile. A deep, strong, throaty laugh. A king from lack of guile. He lies upon his back and covers. Or looks with grave eyes on his mother. What can he mean? But I suppose they understand each other.

He looks out on early or late. They're no limit to his sway. For 'twas in baby robes of state. He governs night and day. He knows he has his share of dress. And 'twas in baby robes of state. He subjects head before him, too. I'm one of them. God bless him!

OCTOBER.

October: when's your friend, Jack Frost? You always come together. With lovely leaves. On all the trees. And heavy, dreary weather.

"I set down to write that which I hope may be pleasant to read when returned. Autumn smiles his smiling, and through all the woods the sparks are flying, and it needs not a prophetic eye to see the mountains from base to tip-top filled with horses and chariots of fire. Indeed June and October, if they could see each other, would soon be married. No much difference between their ages: the one fair and the other ruddy; both beautiful to look upon and typical: the one budding a bunch of flowers, and the other a basket of fruit. The south winds would harp at the nuptials, and against the uplifted chalice would dash the blood of strawberry and grape. To that marriage alas! January would bring the cups of crystal, and April its strong buds of snow; and July its golden crown of wheat. If ever Earth turns her face upon her arm, And sleeps within the golden air, it is when autumn's ripe loveliness is spread over her, a covert soft than down.

The sun is kissing the maple leaves and causing them to blush; the wind whirrs asleep in the sea; amidst and above the noise of political strife we hear the music of the Fall; the farmers have gathered in the last load and thanks go up to the Giver of all good for a bountiful harvest."

THE SAFEST

AND most powerful alternative is Ayer's Sarsaparilla. For old ailments benefited by its use. For the eruptive disease peculiar to children, nothing else is so effective as this medicine, while its agreeable taste and easy administration.

"My little boy has large eruptions on his neck and throat. He has been suffering terribly. The physicians have prescribed various remedies without effect. The number and character of eruptions. A physician was called, but the same continued to multiply until in a few days a marked improvement was effected by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. In a few days a marked improvement was effected by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. The eruptions were gradually diminished, and finally ceased altogether. The child is healthier, brighter, and his appetite better than we have observed for months."—Frank M. Griffin, Livingston, N.Y.

"The formula of Ayer's Sarsaparilla is purely vegetable, and almost entirely free from any of the medicinal poisons."—D. M. Wilson, M. D., Weymouth, Ark.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla, PREPARED BY Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Price 25 cents a bottle. Sold by all druggists.

Timely Wisdom.

Great and timely wisdom is shown by keeping Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry on hand. It has no equal for cholera, cholera morbus, diarrhoea, dysentery, colic, cramps, and all summer complaints or looseness of bowels.

This latent fever or fluid, which pre-mates all matter, and which bears the conventional name of Electricity, is widely appreciated and recognized as a means of cure in various diseases. Its effects in the form of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil are shown by the relief of pain, both Neuralgia and Rheumatic, as well as the throat and lungs, and in various other healing ways.

Infammation of the Eyes Cured.

Mr. Jacob D. Miller, Newbury, writes: "I was troubled with inflammation of the eyes, so that during nearly the whole of the summer of 1882 I could not work; I took several bottles of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, and it gave me great pleasure to inform you that it cured me of my affliction. It is an excellent medicine for Constipation."

Messrs. McCausland & Sons, of Toronto, the well-known makers of fancy fags for building, have an exquisitely arranged room for the display of paper hangings, and their assortment is today beyond a doubt the finest in Canada. We understand the firm make samples with prices attached.

When you need a good, safe laxative, ask your druggist for a box of Ayer's Pills, and you will find that they give perfect satisfaction. For indigestion, torpid liver, and sick headache there is nothing superior. Leading physicians recommend them.

What is a Day's Labor?

One day's work for a healthy life is to exceed three and a half pence of his. If the bill is deficient, constipation, enures; if profuse, biliousness and jaundice arise, Burdock Bitters is the most perfect liver regulator known in medicine for preventing and curing all liver troubles.

Equal Rights.

All have equal rights in life and liberty, and the pursuit of happiness, but many are handicapped in the race by dyspepsia, biliousness, lack of energy, nervous debility, weakness, constipation, etc., by completely removing these complaints Burdock Bitters confers equal benefits on all sufferers.

Advice to Mothers.—Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the pain of Cutting Teeth? If so send at once and get a bottle of "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup" for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures Dysentery and Diarrhoea, regulates the Stomach and bowels, cures Wind Colic, softens the Gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup" for children teething is pleasant to the taste and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Drive away the evil spirits. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

Professor Gauthier, of Paris, states that certain vital processes of the body develop putrefying substances in the tissues, which, if not speedily eliminated, produce disease. Ayer's Sarsaparilla effects the removal of these substances, and thereby preserves health.

Rest and Comfort to the Suffering.

"Brown's Resolving Panacea" has no equal for relieving pain both internal and external. It cures pain in the side, back, or bowels, sore throat, rheumatism, toothache, lumbago and any kind of pain or ache. "It will most surely quicken the Blood and Heal as its acting power is wonderful." "Brown's Resolving Panacea," being acknowledged as the great Pain Reliever, and of double the strength of any other Elixir or Liniment in the world, should be in every family handy for use when wanted, "as it really is the best remedy in the world for cramps in the stomach, and pains and aches of all kinds and is for sale by all druggists at 25 cents a bottle."

M. Sheehan, of Omaha, Neb., writes: "I have used Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil on horses for different diseases and found it to be just as you recommended. It has done justice to me every time, and is the best oil for horses I ever used."

Mr. H. B. McKinnon, painter, Mount Albert, says:—"Last summer my system got impregnated with the lead and turpentine used in painting; my body was covered with scurf spots as large as a 25-cent piece, and in such a state that I could scarcely walk. I got a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, and commenced taking it in large doses and before one-half the bottle was used there was not a spot to be seen, and I never felt better in my life."

If your have a cough or cold do not neglect it; many without a trace of that hereditary grave by neglecting what was only a slight cold. Had they used Bickel's Anti-Consumptive Syrup before it was too late, their lives would be saved. Mr. A. W. Levy, Mitchell, writes: "I think Bickel's Anti-Consumptive Syrup the best preparation on the market for coughs and severe colds. About six years ago I caught a severe cold which settled on my lungs, and for three months I had a cough. I had a physician attending me, but gradually grew worse until I was on the verge of Consumption, and had given up hopes of being cured, when I was induced to try Bickel's Syrup. Before I had taken one bottle I found myself greatly improved, and by the time I had finished the second bottle I was completely cured. I always recommend it for severe colds and consumption."

WHAT IS A GREENBACK?

A "greenback" is a statement engraved and printed in the limit of a bank note that "the United States will pay to the bearer—dollars." It bears on its face the engraved signatures of the Register and Treasurer of the United States; a memorandum that it is issued under the act of March 3rd, 1863; and that it is a legal tender for—dollars. A fac-simile of the Treasury seal is printed upon it in red ink and by a separate impression. In an open space on the back is a statement that "this note is a legal tender at its face value for all debts public or private, except duties on imports and interest on the public debt," with a note of the punishment denounced against its counterfeiting or alteration. Originally it bore a certificate of its right to be converted into bonds of the United States bearing interest at six per cent, per annum. This right was withdrawn by the act of March 2nd, 1865, as to all notes not presented for exchange before the 1st day of July in that year.

The greenback, then, is the naked promise of the United States to pay the bearer a certain number of dollars, unsecured except by the national credit, without date or time of payment, which, for all ordinary purposes, is money, equal to the gold and silver coins authorized by law.—Harper's Magazine.

CONQUER BY DISPLACEMENT.

One way to defeat sin is to crowd out of our minds every evil thought with a good one, out of our homes every evil publication with a good one. Impurity of thought or reading appeal to the lower instincts of man, and enslave him really by hiding his eyes from him, and making him think well of himself. In view of the facts it is essential that we be instant, in season, and of one season, to contract this literature of sin.

None but good and valuable books should be bought and read. It is principally through them that we have intercourse with superior minds of present and past times, and this means of communication is within the reach of all. Every young person should lay the foundation of a choice and well-selected library. The Bible and approved Sunday-school helps should form its basis, and then works on history, biography, travel, science, art, and secular and religious literature should be added as means as to circumstances will permit. By this method a good library may be secured, entertaining and useful information gathered, and culture of head and heart obtained.

HER MISPLACED CONFIDENCE.

"Maad, I should like to know the meaning of this reception."

"Mr. Hazard, you shall," answered the proud country girl, freely. "I have found you out, girl. That is all."

"What do you mean, dearest?"

"Don't come near me, sir. Stay on the other side of that table. I have found out that you have been amusing yourself at my expense."

"For heaven's sake, Maad, explain."

"I know I am treacherous, sir," she said, with flashing eye, "but I did not think you capable of joking about it with your friends."

"I haven't done anything of the kind, Maad," protested the young man.

"You have, sir! After you had proposed to me last night, and I— I had said 'yes,' and you had gone, I overheard you telling Mr. Delichamber that on the front porch what glorious fun it was to go into the mountains in August and catch speckled beauties."—Chicago Tribune.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of consumption, bronchitis, catarrh, asthma and all throat and lung affections, also a positive and radical cure after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellow-men. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Send by mail by addressing with stamp naming this paper. W. A. NOYES, 820 Powers' Block, Rochester, N. Y.

THE MODERN HUSBAND.

It is the one who sometimes thinks of his wife's pleasure and comfort as well as his own. The average husband is not very much at home, and of whom comfort, elegance, refinement and enjoyment he receives there he cares but little, who spends her time at home—her kingdom. When a wife asks her husband for new furniture, greatly needed, he too often replies:—"Oh! his good going for me, goes I can stand it." Go to, thou selfish wretch. Have you no thought beyond yourself? Just think that your faithful wife spends her whole time amongst ricketty furniture. Think how she brushes it up, rearranges it and makes every shift to give it a respectable look. Think how she blushes through and through as she sees her callers till their noses in contempt at the antiquated rubbishness you think good enough for you. Shame on you! Make amends. Get your faithful, hard-working, patient wife the set of furniture she wants, and go to Speight & Son's Furniture Warehouse, Acton, for it. Here you will find a good assortment of furniture of every description and style, and all of excellent quality. All made from thoroughly seasoned wood and finished in the best style. Now ye careless husbands, make your wife happy, make your home bright and cheerful. Remember that Speight & Son's is the best place, and the only place, where you can get anything you want in the line of furniture and at reasonable prices. Act at once.

MISSIONARY.

Dr. Leonard writes: "Do you ask 'What's the news?' We answer, 'The morning cometh.' The white shafts of gospel sunlight bespangle the eastern horizon. The bright, unclouded Sun of Righteousness will soon ascend the sky of every land and drive away the dense darkness of heathen superstition and cruelty which has prevailed through so many dreary centuries. Everywhere the doors are wide open, and the missionary of the cross may enter with the message of peace and good will to men. Everywhere there is success."

Let no one think that because his contribution to missions is of necessity a small one, it is of little importance whether it is given or not. A little offering, when given for God's blessing upon it, is better than a larger gift brought without thought. Let us all give as generously as possible, but let none of us be discouraged or feel that our lesser gifts are valueless, since God can make them to increase an hundredfold.

It is said that a lady was filling a box with India when a child brought her a cent, with which she bought a tract, and put it in the box. It was as length given to a Burman child and led him to Christ. "The child told the story of his new God and great happiness to his friends. They also believed and cast away their idols. A church was built there, a missionary sent, and fifteen hundred converted from heathenism was the result of that little seed."

BE-DIME STORIES.

A missionary, recently returned from India, was entertaining a group of farmers the other evening; some of them were children. The conversation had turned upon the snakes of India, and he had just finished an account of how snake worshippers appeased the supposed divinity in the cobra before killing it, when Kenneth, a boy of seven, with an imperative expression exclaimed:—"Stop right here! I've got to go to bed in a few minutes."

The whole gist of what he has to say about bed-time stories is in that exclamation. Of course, the boy's vivid imagination would point on the darkness of his bed-chamber as a background for the pictures portrayed by the missionary, and the snake would come wriggling and perhaps stinging as they came, and he would see the position in which he would lie in the night, and all the frightful panorama might repeat itself in his dreams (as, in fact, it did, for he was a strong healthy boy and full of outdoor vigor).

It takes even grown up people, supposed to be posted about such things, a long while to learn that for some time before going to bed the engine of the brain should begin to "slow down" and the "coarsers" to cool a little. The arteries of the brain should be allowed to carry less blood, and whatever stimulates them to activity should be avoided. Especially is this the case with children. Take a little child in year arms and croon it to sleep. You may know when it is just "dropping off" by its becoming warm all over. The blood is diffusing itself evenly throughout the body, the brain is at rest, and no longer filled with surging currents of blood. A good, hearty sleep is good for children before going to bed, but all the stories told them should be soothing, pleasing, gentle, and such as may lead them in their dreams into green pastures and by still waters.

FORCE OF CHARACTER.

There are two essential elements of force of character, wisdom and spirit of fairness. No man can be really strong who has not mastered to control himself. He cannot master others, except in a brutal and dishonest way, until he has first mastered, not merely learned how to conceal his own temper. In fact the bully or any other pretender rarely ever attains permanently a position in life which belongs to real merit. He is often seen in subordinate positions and is recognized by his propensities to give instead of take directions; to complain when in some exigency more is required of him than usual; to criticize when he cannot think, and to impose in various other ways upon those around him.

Nor can his influence be of a lasting kind unless he is disposed to be fair and honest in dealing with antagonists. He may have those qualities and yet be without force of character; but having them he is possessed of two of the primary elements that make up the leader or ruler of men. Contrary to general belief, then, the man of real force is never a bully, is never arbitrary or unjust, is never passionate, though he may be, and generally is aggressive, and may, as occasion requires, give exhibitions of temper, that is, nevertheless, kept in perfect control. Force of character brings with it self-reliance and imperatibility manner. Just as the really courageous man remains cool in the presence of danger, the self-reliant man keeps his temper under provocation, because he feels confidence in himself. The coward grows excited and loud-mouthed to conceal his real feelings.

A NOVEL RAT TRAP.

A farmer's wife recently set a novel trap for rats. She took a wash boiler and filled it about half full of water and sprinkled a quantity of oats over the top. She then placed the trap in the barn and fixed things so the rats could easily get at it. The strange rat had a strong curiosity as a woman is said to have, and of course they had to take a peep into the boiler, and then got down on the innocent-looking oat to see if they were the ordinary every day kind. The result was forty-two drowned rats the first night.

We cannot all be rich, or great, or powerful, but we can all build for ourselves inviting palaces of wisdom and pain to many persons. Happy disease now holds low sway.
