Suggestion to Farmers.

A valuable suggestion has been made to the Face Parse to the effect that if each farmer would put up a small sign bearing his name on the feuce or gate in front of their farms it would be a great convenience to parties driving along the roads. The idea is a good one and we would like to see t adopted for the townships adjoining us. Who will make the start ! Women and Missions.

Mr. Ele Snyder, & former citizen of Acton, now reending at 32 Park road, Toronto has recured a patent, dated Sept. 9th, 1890. for his "Improved Stove Pipe Collar," which is certainly an improvement on the old style. The patentee effectually obviates all discoloration of walls and spoiling of carpete, by making the lower surface of the coller to incline downwards towards the inside of the chimney, which causes al accumualated moisture to run in that direction. This improvement is one that will be welcomed by all builders, as the beaufits to be derived from its use is appar enf to every one. It has been highly recom mendel by twenty-nine leading architects in the city of Toronto, who have agreed to use it in all buildings under their direction. Shop rights for the manufacture and sale of the new coller will be sold at a reasonable price, on application to the patentee.

HALON COUNTY SHOW. A Good Show And a Large Attend ance After the Showers Were Over.

Halton county agricultural association held its thirty-eightli annual exhibition on on Thursday and Friday. The first day was devoted to speeding on the half-mil track and the judging of all exhibits excepstock. Although the track was beavy, caused by the rain, the time was good and the races all well contested. On Friday the big day of the fair, a beavy shower fel in the morning, which had the effect keeping many away; but it cleared up about ten o'clock, and the people from the surrounding country began coming in by handreds, each train also bringing its share, until between four and five thousand entered the grounds. By two o'clock the exhibition was in full swing. The large hall was well filled with all kinds of ladies' work, domestic and agricultural products, fine arts. musical instruments, fruit, vegetables, flowers, etc. The horses formed the center of attraction. A finer collection of road and carriage horses and colts it would be hard to get together. Cattle, sheep, pigs, poultry, carriages and implements were all well represented in their various departments. Pakirs were scared off; the society doing all in its power to prevent them infeeting the grounds.

> Where you can get anything you want in FOOTWEAR.

When we consider the many weary hours spent in sewing, and the amount thought that is given to each garment, we feel very much surprised that more attention is not paid to the quality of the material selected. Some in their eagerness to buy thesp, (which almost always means a lower grade of goods at a lower price,) seem to forget the great amount of labor that will be put into the garment before it is finished, in many cases bringing it up to almost three times the cost of the material. For example, take two ladies buying a dress, one goes to a store which is called cheap, because they handle only an inferior line of goods which were intended to be showy, but never to wear, and pays say 20c. per yard. Her neighbor, who deals where only reliable goods are handled, pays say 5c; per yard more. After the dresses are bought, the same thought and labor will be given to each, and when finished there is only a trifling difference in the cost of the dresses, but one will wear almost half as long again as the other. New if this were all the difference, it would be quite sufficient to convince any thoughtful person of the folly of purchasing so called cheap goods, but it is not all. The difference in appearance is as marked as the difference in the wear. . When on the street one will be noted as baving a stylish appearance, while the other will never have anything but a shoddy look, and yet the one cost but 1 5 more than the
