KINDNESS IN A STREET CAR.

One warm spring morning a poor woman entered's heavily laden down-town cable car in one of our large western cities. Besides ber large market basket she bad two small children, hardly more than babies. A glance at her careworn face and the shabby, although clean, attire of herself and children told at a glance of many a struggle with poverty.

She was evidently on her way to market, and having no one to leave the habies with at home, had been forced to take them with her. Perhaps this had been the case before for with a glace at the "rules and regulations "-all fares five cents cash, and only infants in arms free-she put down ber basket on the floor in front of her and took both the children in her arms for that long and weary ride.

Shortly afterward there entered the car two daintily dressed school-girls as fresh as the June morning itself. Their merry faces sent a thrill of pleasure to the hearts of the other passengers, so much of youth's booyancy and happiness did they seem to bring with them.

. They found seats next to the poor woman and after a minute or two the one nearest soid to ber, " Let me hold the little boy for you," at the same time transferring the little bundle of humanity from the over crowded mother's lap to her own.

.The words were spoken so gently, and accompanied by a smile so winning, that the little fellow made no objection, but was happy and contented all the ride; especially when a rosy cheeked apple from the pretty lunch-basket found its way to his tiny

THE ART OF GIVING WISELY.

The secret of success in gift-giving is not in the expending of large sums, but in loving thought upon each gift provided. Everything is usually successful in proportion to the amount of thought that has been put into it, whether it be a banquet. a costume, a book, or the making of a simple gift. If you are cramped for money, do not think you need to spend much for Christmas gifts. The thought shown in loving Christmas letter, a simple verse, or a pen and ink sketch, may give as genuine pleasure as a present of pearls. Reflect well upon the peculiarities and needs of the friend whom you wish to please. Then choose your gift carefully. Finally, after it is chosen and delivered, do not refer to it again in the way of self-congratulation upon your cieverness. This was a peculiarity of a certain old lady who was not ungenerous. If we were allowed to look into the future and see the fatal consequences that follow a neglected cold, how differently would our course be; codid we realize our danger, how speedily would we seek a care; but with many it is only when the monster disease has fastened its fangs upon our lungs that we awaken to our folly. What follows a neglected cold? Is it not discases of the throat and longs, bronchitis, asthma, consumption, and many other diseases of like nature. It is worse than madness to perfect a cold, and it is folly not to have some good remedy available for this frequent complaint. One of the most efficacious medicines for all diseases of the throat and lange, is Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. This medicine is composed of several medicinal berbs, which exert a most-wonderful influence in curing concomption and other diseases of the lungs and chest.
