THE CEM OF THE ROCKIES." Description of Ouray, Odlorado-A Mining Town-By A Former Citizen.

Mr. El. A. Hemstreet, has sent us the following interesting description of the mining centre in Colorado, where he spent the past three years :-Oursy is named after old obio! Oursy.

the only friendly leader of the Indiane, t the whites, and it is unique in fte situation. It is about 8,000 feet above the level of the sea, 2,000 feet above Denver, and on a level with the capital of old Mexico, which is the loftiest city of its size on the continent. Oursy to-day, with its hot springs in many places gushing out in great volume, of corative chemical mixture of salts and alkalies, and at a temperature of 140 degrees winter and summer, so that the river which runs through the valley never has a film of ice upon its surface, and the Dr. Forster, of Hamilton, speut Sunday vast sweep of steep ampitheatrical rocks and mountain sider, is a favorite spot for > These points and many others, which the pen cannot portray, combine to make Oarsy the drinking cap, panch bowl, or Theatre Pit for the "Play of the Gods." Whatever figure you liken the place to, you will not find another place just like it on the round globe at least, so say the best travelled tourists who visit here from sammer to sammer.

Out of the rocks forming the walls of the canon through which we ride at a dizzy height above the valley below, the skilled engineer has bewn and blasted a rock bed for travel, and as we wind the pass on the decline, the scene that bursts upon the snow capped peaks that glitter in the blue sky, down, down down to the beautiful little nests of hamlets in the valley below is of the grandest and sublimest descrip tion. In fact description is useless quiess seen. The sense of its immensity is overin her mountain springs, only equalled by Maniton and Glenwood. Oursy has the most potent of commercial attractions-Gold. "Gold, hard and cold, spurned by the young and hogged by the old." The gold belt of the Oursy mining district is daily expanding. Numerous lumps from . the mines are visible from any point you may gaze from anywhere in the city. But it is a tedious and tiresome travel, by a lonely and zig-zag route, to get upon the mountsin side where they lie, and to pick up and smelt out the rich metal, involves much labor. Very rich ore is being brought down into the city, however, to the assayers, offices. Oursy has been so far removed from railway connection, or approached in past years, that she has not received the scrutinizing attention by prospectors that other sections of the state have had. The nearest shipping point being nearly 400 miles away for Sears. However favorable the ore might took, the prospect of getting out, treatment and market was discouraging to say the least, but late years have brought better facilities. The piencers who have shown such pluck, ratience and endurance are now reaping better returns than in the gloomy years gone by. Some of them are rich to-day, and they will tell you they knew all the while, where he pay steaks were, and that they would 'pan out " rich, and they staid with it till ow. Not only prospectors, saloon-keepers and gamblers are to be found in large numbers, but merchante, mechanics, specplators and men following every line of trade and bosiness are to be met with. Osray has now close and quick connection with the outside world by means of the Denver and Rio Grande Branch railway, connecting with the main line at Montrose and Silverton. This of course gives to the great growing camp all the advantages of commerce and cheep and easy market supplies. It also adds intensely to the tourist's travel and occasionally visitors become investors and determine to settle down to make this their permanent rssidence. The streets are now crowded daily with a class who are inquisitive about mining developements, and who either for themselves or as agenta for eastern capital are on the lookout for "points" on good mining property. The dividends paid on individual infnee have been enormous and prosperous mining camp in Colorado. Il has all the esatern city improvements in waterworks, electric lights, telephone, etc., and an astonishing feature is that the heavy liceuse tax ou liquor dealers brings sufficient revende to pay all the municipal expenses, so that no tax levy has been imposed since 1883. . C.

The mising industry on which all this rogress and prosperity depends, has grown
