THURSDAY, PEBRUARY 26, 1831. NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The Massachuetta State Supreme Court has affirmed the decision of the Coart of Quarter Sessions in the case of the Commonwealth v. Waldman, and thus upheld the law against barbers shaving on Sanday. They intimated that while shar. ing on Sanday might be a necessity they had nothing to do but lo interpret the law as they found it.

After having paid all possible claims there still remains in the Cuited States treasury a considerable balance of the fifteen millions paid by Great Britain in accordance with the Alabama award. This fact demonstrates Sir William Vernou Harouget's contention that the award was excessive. If the Washington Government were actuated by a find sense of honor it would not retain this balance, but refurn it, as any honorable man would the balance of an overpaid account.

ELECTIONS NEXT WEEK

The Country Full of Political Excite-ment in Every Province, THE CAMPAIGN IN HALTON.

A week from to-day the people of this Dominion will render their verdict and the ballot boxes will then reveal whether the policy of the Government continues in popular favor or not. As election day adrances the fever of excitement among those most active in political circles become greater. . The rural constituencies and the civic centres have slike felt the unusual air incident to an election campaign. By the end of the week very few polling divis one will remain that have not been visited by the candidates of the respective parties. Public meetings have been held at numer ous points in every riding and the policies of the leaders, and the promises of the candidates have been widely proclaimed.

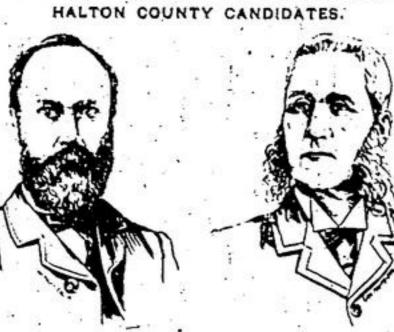

Just now, when the contest is waging hotter as polling day approaches, it will be well for both Grits and Torics to remember the Republic to the south of us? thank you The your welcome and your hearing and trust that you will elect a candidate who will support me in the House of Commons." (prolonged cheers) and calls for Bir Charles Tupper. The Chieftain inormed them that Bir Charles had gone to Windsor. By this time there was a great deal of jamining and crowding to get a hearty shake from the hand of the Old Man. It seemed rather significant that Col. Allan, the chairman of the executive of the County of Halton Reform Association hould be the first to secure the hand grasp of the Premier, but this is explained by the fact that he and the Colonel were boys together in Scotland, and companions at school. The Colonel was followed by a number of the old Tories who had served Bir John faithfully for many years through thick and this and now approached for a fare well shake. As the train moved out there was vocilerous cheering. CAMERION PLINIES. Next Thursday is election day.
