PROHIBITION DEMANDED.

By a Majority of 100,000 the Electors say they want Whiskey Abolished.

THE MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.

New Year's morning dawned bright and clear and the weather throughout the day was excellent. As the election drew near body and spirit were well.

There was no excitement, but a manifest earnestness and determination to give the part of the supporters of prohibition and the candidates for controllers. A large vote was polled. Prohibition was carried by a majority of 100, and all the members of the church were returned, except Councillor Curry. Jerry does the new.

THE LATE MRS. ALEX. BROWN SH.

The widow of Charles Alexander Brown, who came from a well-to-do position May 20th, 1894, to Guelph, to express his want of the electors who were kind enough to give him a home in his half. He would, if elected, willingly have expended all necessary time in the interests of the municipality, but regretfully satisfied with the results.

From the Waterloo Examiner:

To be dragged to the edge of the grave in the grasp of a dread disease is an experience that comes to us all, but to contend with it after having been in life, held up by life and all its sweetness, and then to be snatched from the brink of the grave, to be restored to health, strength and happiness again, is a gift few may enjoy. We hear and read of such cases well attested, that doubtless small space for it, however, but hereof we can have, and more, come under our notice in Peterborough with such directness as to "make annals doubly sure." Such a case how ever exists.

Many persons have heard of the illness of Mrs. Anna Ranger, who lives with her parents, at 19 Parrott street. She was brought down with the very gales of death and kept a week in bed, but recovered during the course of that time, and again went about her house, though still weak. Her melancholy case excited much commotion, and a representative of the Examiner was detailed to obtain the particulars, and the result of the investigation is to verify the reports that have been current. On calling at Mr. Ranger's home the reporter was met at the door by a bright eyed healthy looking young girl, who readily consented to give the particulars of her illness and cure. She remarked that her mother had been ill for some time past, and added with a little smile, "that she was keeping the house and playing at cards, a thing that would have been impossible a year or so ago, as she was then as ill that instead of taking care of the house she needed constant attention herself."

"I have been sickly from the time I was four months old," she said, "and as I grew up, the weakness and ill health became more pronounced. My blood was bad and my heart could do nothing but suffer. Nothing could be done for me was of any use. I was given wine and water. Father spent a farm in front of us, and as far as he could help, and father and mother gave me up and felt that I was going to die. I expected to die myself. I had no idea I was as pale as you see, and so weak I could hardly walk. My heart also gave me very much trouble and if I lifted my hands, my heart would jump until I thought I would die. About two years ago we heard of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and got a box, but they did not seem to do me any good. I didn't know what to do, so I went to the doctor, and the doctor told me nothing, so I determined to try the Pink Pills. At first, the time I made up my mind that I would give them a fair trial, I got eight boxes and before the third box was done I felt better, and my appetite was better. I kept on taking the pills until I had taken the eighth box, and all the time kept growing stronger and stronger. My color turned, my heart trouble left me and my appetite was better than it had ever been. I began to feel strong again, work about the house, and feel strong again. In a short time, it is a great change since July last when I could scarcely walk across the floor without falling. I believe Dr. Williams' Pink Pills saved me from going to the grave, and I am very thankful I took them. There was no doubt in my mind that Pink Pills saved my life. A younger sister corroborated what was said, remarking, "when Anna was very ill, she was pale, and when she was not so bad, she was pink." And mother did not think she would live a month."

In evidence of the success of the addition of Miss Ranger, a couple of health conscious girls were shown. These girls and their mothers are reported to be in the better country towns our vicinity.

The following five daughters and two sons survive them: Mr. John Matthews Acton, Mrs. Joshua Peacock, St. Martin, Mrs. Thomas Somerville, Leamington, Mr. D. R. Freeman, West Lorne, Mrs. J. P. Brown, Niagara Falls, James Acton and William P. of Toronto. Misses are as follows:
