Acton as a Produce Centre.
There are few places in Ontario where there is such a good demand, and consequently high prices, for farmers' produce, as in Acton. There is always a market here for any quantity of butter and eggs at satisfactory figures. On Saturday, for instance, when butter was selling at 17 and eggs at 20 cents in Georgetown, Milton and other places in the vicinity, merchants were paying 14 and 10 cents respectively. As a result, farmers are coming long distances to Acton with produce. They find that encouraging prices rule and they make this their market place.

He called himself "The Prince of Humbug" and a series of subjects of special interest to teachers will be presented. Primary work will have a prominent place in the institute.
