The Young Folks.

WHEN MOLLIE BATHES THE BABY.

When Mollie bathes the baby
Fix my bookstande
And watch the operation
With deep paternal pride.
I scan the dimpled body
Of the struggling little elf
For motherly-ological points of
Resemblance to myself

When Mollie bathes the baby
She always says to me
"Isn't he just as cunning
And sweet as he can be?
Just see those pretty dimples!
Aren't his eyes a lovely blue"
And then "You precious darling
I could bite those arms in two"

When Mollie bathes the baby
I always say to her
"Look out now, don't you drop him"
And she answers back, "No, Sir!"
Then I talk about his rosy cheeks,
The muscles in his arms,
His shapely head, his sturdy legs,
And other manly charms.

When Mollie bathes the baby
The household bends its knee
And shows him greater deference
Than ever it shows to me.
But I feel no jealous pooling,
As they land him to the skies
For every one assures me
That he has his father's eyes

THE "MONEY-MAKING" SPIRIT

The game of money getting all the world over is, after all, only another name for exertion, emulation, ambition, adventure and dependence, success, joy or woe. We can see no reason to expect its disuse nor even to wish for it. It is so general, so universal, its good is so practically acknowledged that a thousand platitudes from preacher to skeptics do not damage it in the least. The skepticism and the platitudes only prove its utility the taunts of failures only demonstrate its worth. The world will have it the world must have it.

It is always wanted sometimes for good oftentimes for evil. But the good and the evil weigh in this instance only on the same scale as in all other human arrangements. It may be called for to ravage a continent, it may be required to civilize one it may be wanted to hollow out a mountain range that too long has made enemies of nations, its potent forces may be asked to build hostile barriers on a peaceful plain, but in all these cases it only stands up to represent hate or human passion, human enterprise or human love, husbandcraft for the inevitable strife alike against physical foes or social evils.

FATHERS OF GREAT MEN.

The father of Samuel Pepys was a tailor.
The father of James Mill was a cobbler.
The father of Verne was a day laborer.
Oliver Cromwell's father was a brewer.
Epictetus was the son of a day laborer.
Socrates was the son of a day laborer.
Glotto, the artist, was a peasant's son.
Talma, the actor, was a dentist's son.
The father of Pius V. was a shepherd.
Schumann's father was a bookseller.
The father of Cowley was a grocer.
Charles Lamb was a servant's son.
Mozart's father was a book binder.
Milton was the son of a copyist.
Pope's father was a merchant.
Neander's father was a carter
Lucian was a sculptor's son.

WORK AHEAD.

Old Gentleman—"Why are you crying, my little man?"

Little Man—"Boo hoo! Papa gave me some money to buy an express wagon."

"Did you lose it?"

"N o."

"Then what's the matter?"

"It's spring, an' we've got a garden."

A WISE SCARECROW.

"I say," said the tramp to the scarecrow, "let's swap clothes."

"Not I," said the scarecrow. "Fact is it would never do."

"Why not?" said the tramp.

"Well, the crows seeing me are scared. They think I'll run after 'em. But if they thought I was like you they'd know I'd rather fall asleep. I tell you, old man, crows know a thing or two. They judge by appearances.

AVOIDABLE EXPENSES.

It costs money to let the cows become poor in the winter, and take all summer to recover condition.

It costs money to let the manure lay in piles all winter, when labor is cheap and work scarce, and draw it out in spring, when labor is high and work abundant.—American Agriculturist.

Dyspepsia and Debility Easily Banished.

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND MEETS THE WANTS OF ALL.

No troubles are more common and prevalent in our midst than dyspepsia and nervous debility. These horrid ailments make life miserable for thousands, and many die every year because they have received improper treatment and bad care.

Hundreds of lives during the past year have been saved by Paine's Celery Compound, that wonderful medicine that copes so successfully with dyspepsia, indigestion and all nervous affections.

Mr. H. G. Porter, merchant, of Belle dune, N. B. writes as follows:

"It gives me very great pleasure to say something in favor of your wonderful remedy, Paine's Celery Compound. My object is to let others know what a valuable medicine it is for those who are afflicted with dyspepsia and nervous debility. For years I have been a victim of these dreadful troubles, and have suffered terribly from time to time. I have tried to get relief and cure by using various advertised medicines but all failed to give the desired results. I fortunately gave your medicine a trial some time ago, and soon found I had got hold of a valuable and honest agent. It soon commenced to do me good, and after using it for a time it has cured me.

I know of nothing I can so strongly recommended to the suffering dyspeptic, if it is faithfully used it will give him a new and enjoyable life instead of misery and woe. I cannot say too much in its favor and would urge all to give it a trial at once."

ALL ALONE,

both in the way it acts, and in the way it's sold, is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

A long procession of diseases start from a torpid liver and impure blood. Take it, as you ought, when you feel the first symptoms (dizziness, loss of appetite, dullness, depression). As an appetizing, restorative tonic, to expel disease and build up the needed flesh and strength, there's nothing to equal it. It rouses every organ into healthful action, purifies and enriches the blood, braces up the whole system, and restores health and vigor.

MRS. GODBERT.

Mrs. Godbert, of Hite, Berkeley county, Illinois, writes: "I have taken three bottles of your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and feel quite well and strong now, so that I am able to do my work without the least fatigue."

It was the right in years gone by that the stronger the remedy the better its effects and value.
