

The Young Folks.

THE OLD TRUNDLE BED.
O, the old trundle bed, where I slept when a boy!
What countless things might not nestle in its folds!
The glory and peace of that slumber of mine!
Like a long graceful rest in the bosom divine!
The quaint, homely couch hidden 'neath from the light,
But freshly drawn from its hiding at night,
O, a spot of delight from the foot to the head,
Was the queer little, dear little, old trundle bed!
The stars through the window, and listened with care,
To the sigh of the winds as they trembled with fear,
Through the trees where the robins so contentedly slept,
Where the lark sang the dawn-song of the dawn,
And the katydid lazily chirruped its note,
Till my eyelids grew faint, and I was slowly
led through the maze of the dreams of the old trundle bed,
O, the old trundle bed, O, the old trundle bed,
With its plump little pillow and old-fashioned spread,
Its canopy white, and the blankets above,
Smoothed down and tucked round with the tossing of love,
The voice of my mother to tell me to sleep,
With the old lady stowing my memories deep,
With a push as the little old trundle bed,
Once bowed over my own in the old trundle bed.

WHY HE DID NOT GO BACK.

One of the traveling men connected with a leading Philadelphia grocery house recently told his experience with a typical grocer in a small village in the western section of Pennsylvania. It is interesting, in that it throws a strong light on the grocery trade as it is worked in the rural districts.
"I got the place by stage one morning," said the salesman, "and made my way to the only grocery store there is in the place. I found the proprietor sitting on a box in front of his door. He had a goatee, and was leaning back against the building with a boom split in his mouth.
"Good morning," I said.
"Hello," was the reply.
"Want to do little business with you?" I said.
"Oh, I guess not," he replied, "I'm pretty well stocked up."
"How about currants?" I said, "I've got some nice ones here that will put you at a low price."
"Don't need none," said the grocer. "I bought a big bag of them back in '91 and I got considerable of them on hand yet."
"I asked to see them and he took me into his place and led me to the currants. They were certainly a big show. Enormous with dirt and dust and actually at least a quarter of them looked to be de-seated. They fully bore out the man's statement of having been bought in '91."
"I can't beat them," I said as I walked away.
"None, they're pretty fine berries," said the proprietor.
"While in the store, a country lunkhead, who filled in lines of a clerk, was sweeping furiously away at the store floor, without sprinkling a drop of water on it, and the open boxes of cakes that stood on the shelf had a perfectly visible layer of dust and dirt on them.
"The crowning feature of this progressive establishment," said the salesman, "was the store cat. You always find one of these beasts in a country store. This one was sitting on the cheese box, and its tail hung over the side. I thought the appendage had a peculiar appearance, and in passing looked closer. I found that the animal's tail was actually dripping with mucus! It had apparently been depositing some luscious customer's ketchup on the hanging through the bangle of the barrel.
"It was a great store, reminding me forcibly of Finley Acher's or Tom Martin's. But I didn't do my business, and I'm not going back."
THIS IS HOW THEY RISE.
A young woman recently found employment in a queeneater's store. She immediately began a course of study to her leisure moments, upon glassware and china. She then read some recent work upon the appointments of the table, and in a short time, by applying herself to her business, became the most valued employee in a large store.
In a military establishment the young woman who found time to read a book or two on colors and their harmonious combination, found her own taste greatly improved and her ability to please patrons much greater. She was soon a favorite with the employers and customers.
The young woman who, to earn an honorable living, went into my lady's kitchen, and instead of gossiping every evening found time to read a few good books and household papers, was soon so valuable a housekeeper to be kept in a subordinate position in the kitchen. She knew how a table should look for a formal dinner, she knew what dishes were in season, she knew how to serve a meal in the proper course, and she knew what to do before one half the bottle was used, my hearing was completely restored. I have heard of other cases of deafness being cured by this medicine."

A GREAT MEDICINE.

Cod-liver Oil is useful beyond any praise it has ever won, and yet few are willing or can take it in its natural state. Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil is not offensive; it is almost palatable.
Children like it. It is Cod-liver Oil made more effectual, and combined with the Hypophosphites its strengthening and flesh-forming powers are largely increased.
Don't be persuaded to accept a substitute! Scott's Emulsion, 50c. and $1.

THE BIBLE SAVED HIS LIFE.

A most interesting story is told of the recent Chital campaign. It is of one of the King's Own Highlanders having his life saved by his Bible. The man was wounded by a Captain Mackenzie of that regiment. It was during the forcing of the Matakand Pass that the borderer fell, being hit heavily in the chest. Captain Mackenzie ran to him, and, opening his coat, found that the bullet, the impact of which had forced him to the ground, was buried in his Bible. The volume had been given to him by one of the nursing sisters in the hospital at Pindi, where he had been a patient.

The Tired Feeling.

It is a common complaint and it is a dangerous symptom. It means that the system is debilitated because of impaired food, and in this condition it is especially liable to attacks of disease. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the remedy for this condition, and also for that weakness which prevails at the change of season, climate or life.

Hood's Pills suitably, yet promptly and efficiently on the bowels and liver.

Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Asthma, Bronchitis, and all Lung Troubles, are quickly cured by Hagedorn's Pectoral Balsam.

Every man is as God made him, and oftentimes a great curse.

There are more than one sort of korns. Some korn is planted in the ground and the other sort don't need planting; they grow quite naturally on men's toes and don't need hoeing. This kind of korn is called corns, and is a great nuisance. Bill Jones steps on your foot, when it gets hot and swells like everything; the other is hard headed and makes a row all the time, especially when your boots are worn. I don't like korns, and use the extracting medicine, Putnam's Painless Corn Extract, which removes them painlessly in twenty-four hours.

Why we are here, let us think carefully of the few brief phrases remaining to us, they grow fewer every hour.

Man's A Young Man

When from over-work, possibly assisted by an inherited weakness, the health fails and rest or medical treatment must be resorted to, then no other medicine can be employed with the same beneficial results as Scott's Emulsion.

As Parmelee's Vegetable Pills contain Mydrate and Dandelion, they cure Liver and Kidney Complaints with unerring certainty. They also contain roots and herbs which have specific virtues: truly wonderful in their action on the bowels.

Mr. E. A. Cairnes, Shakespeare, writes: "I consider Parmelee's Pills an excellent remedy for Biliousness and Derangement of the Liver, having used them myself for some time."

Totally Deaf. Mr. E. Grandell, Port Perry, writes, "I contracted a severe cold last winter, which resulted in my becoming totally deaf in one ear and partially so in the other. After trying various remedies, and consulting several doctors, without obtaining any relief, I was advised to try Dr. Thomas' Kidney Pills. I warned the doctor and poured a little of it into my ear and before one half the bottle was used my hearing was completely restored. I have heard of other cases of deafness being cured by this medicine."

The Medicine for Liver and Kidney

Dr. Victor Anger, Ottawa, writes: "I take great pleasure in recommending to the general public, Parmelee's Pills, as a cure for Liver and Kidney Complaints. I have doctors for the last three years with leading physicians, and have taken many medicines which were recommended to me without relief, but after taking eight of Parmelee's Pills I was cured, and now I feel as free from the disease as before I was troubled."

Stark's Powders, each package of which contains two preparations, one in a round wooden box, the cover of which forms a measure for one dose, an immediate relief for Sick Headache and Hiccough, and for all kinds of nervous pain, and another in a capsule, (from 1 to 4 of one is an ordinary dose) which acts on the Bowels, Liver and Stomach, forming a never failing perfect treatment for all Head and Stomach complaints. They do not act as most pills and so many other medicines do, have their effect or produce after constipation, and are not to take 25 cents a box, at all medicine dealers.

REDUCED TO A SHAADOW.

Saved by Strawberry Extract.

GENTLEMEN.—Feeling it my duty to give you an unqualified testimony for the direct benefit I have received in my family from the use of Dr. Fowler's Strawberry Extract, I am happy to say that I have been a sufferer of a similar ailment, and that while we resided at "Fowick, Ont., my little daughter had an attack of Dysentery or Bilious Flux, by which she was reduced to a mere shadow and became quite helpless. I was happy to say that I had a quantity of a Strawberry Extract, and that I had taken it, and the child promptly recovered. We always have had Strawberry Extract in the household to be ready for emergencies. It is a most valuable remedy for the effects of fruit, and I would just as soon think of losing my right eye as being deprived of Dr. Fowler's Strawberry Extract. This is a testimony of the benefit derived from it, and myself and family have recovered from this great remedy.
