Conservative majority at boundary dispute is developed by the last election, 19. announcement that the Canadian Government has let a contract for the carrying of the mails from Juneau, Alaska, to Forty-Mile Creek, which is in the territory claimed by the United States, but which Canada claims. This move is taken as an indication of Canada's determination to possess the disputed territory. The mail service will begin December 13th.

An interesting judgment and one which workingmen generally are concerned was rendered in the Montreal Court of Review the other day. A stonecutter who proof coat, is dying at Wissbaden. had incurred the displeasure of the union had been boycotted, called a "soab," and anyone employing him. In this way his employers were compelled to dismiss him in order to get others to stay at work. He appealed to the courts in a suit of damages and the result is that he gets a judgement against the union, and may again sue whonever the persecution is renewed. His right to an opportunity to carn a living thus vindicated.

A Provincial Treasurer Harcourt has ex prossed his willingness to meet a deputs tion from the Hotel keepers' Association with reference to the sanitary reforms for which the commercial travellers of the province are pressing, upon Thursday, the 19th inst. & Wagnalia Co What is the Higher Criticism as a method of study; applied to the Bible? Is there any legitimate sphere for such a thing? Elementary as these questions may be to the wall informed, they are asked by many thousands of carnest, intelligent, fair minded men. This new book, "The Elements of Higher Criticism." by professor Zenos, is essentially an exposition, yielding conche and non-controversial answers to the above questions. The scope of the work is not to advocate or oppose any set of results, but to state and explain the principles and methods of the higher criticism, with reference to the large and growing periodical and book Mterature on the subject, and as an aid to students who are about to approach the oriticism as a part of their perparation for teaching and presching the Bible , also, as a book of information for any intelligent and interested reader. It is safe to say that there is no other book of this kind on this subject. It is the book for students text-book for theological seminaries, a book for the intelligent general reader, and for every library having books on pertinent
