"To say the loast," he said, "this refer ence is very unkind and very queharitable was corry to see it purport to be sent the paper from Acton. It insinuates that converts in the Methodist Church count good many but don't smount to much. and that evangelistic work in the Methodis Church is not very effective. I hope none of the young converts will be discouraged by such an uncharitable reference." Attractive Commercial Stationery.

Business men generally approcia attractive and well-printed stationery, and the Face Pages job department has pleasure in filling all orders for letter head statements, cards, onyelopes, sto., in the most artistic and appropriate manuer Mr. J. Sunday. Business Change. Mr. A. L. Hemstreet has disposed of his grocery and orockery business, at the T. C. Moore & Son. Mr. Hemstreet has done a very good business at this stand but his inherited love for farming is so strong that an unconquerable drawing to the old homestead in Trafulgar possesses him and he will return thence in a few weeks. The new firm is composed of Mr. Thomas Moore, one of Acton's oldest residents, who has been identified with Acton's progress for half a century, and his son, Mr. N. F Moore. The latter has a thorough busi ness education and will have the management of the store. They hope by supplying the best End freshest goods at all times to merit a large patronage and consequent success. The removal of Mr. Hemstreet will be regretted by many friends.

The "Haymakers" Cantala. It is with much pleasure that our citizens anticipate the presentation of the popular cantata "The Haymakers" in the town half on Monday evening. An excellent company in Rockwood has had the cantata misfortune a couple of weeks ago through | in assistous preparation for several months and have attained a high degree of excell ence in its performance. It will be given in Rockwood on Friday evening and in Acton pext Monday evening. The "llaymakers" was given in Acton about fifteen years ago by Prof. Harrington, then o Guelph, and a local company and many remember the captala with pleasure. As and incidents connected with the hay field the farm house and the hay making season It is given with characteristic costumes scenery and surroundings and umbraces volume of excellent music and abundance of appropriate pantoming. The company includes over forty persons, and the leading parts are taken by the following caste Fermer, Mr. John Strachan; Farmer's

The System Has Outlived its Day "Charge this up." How often do the nerchants of our town hear this sentence as a customer slides some parorla into basket and goes out again with little expectation perhaps of ever paying? Why should we expect a merchant or manufacturer to give us credit? We pay cash, at the post flice and at the railway station, and at public entertainments, then why not at the groonry, the dry goods store, and other mercantile establishments? Credit forters extavagance and the purchase of goods that could easily be done without, and is responsible for more events than affects the financial and business agencies combined It is cortainly worth a trial to see if this credit system could be eradicated.
