THE VILLAGE WIFE.

Why, I pray you, honest John Smith, I have heard that you were a great success in the village.

Yes, my dear lady, I have had some success in the village.

And you have had some success in the village.

Yes, my dear lady, I have had some success in the village.

And you have had some success in the village.

Yes, my dear lady, I have had some success in the village.

And you have had some success in the village.

A SUCCESSFUL HINT.

When Murray came home to supper, he found that in an unusual state, by no means as much as he had expected.

There was no one in the room, and he was alone.

He looked at the clock, and saw that it was late.

He looked at the door, and saw that it was closed.

He looked at the window, and saw that it was dark.

He looked at the floor, and saw that it was clean.

He looked at the table, and saw that it was set.

He looked at the chairs, and saw that they were pulled up.

He looked at the door, and saw that it was open.

He looked at the window, and saw that it was light.

He looked at the floor, and saw that it was dirty.

He looked at the table, and saw that it was empty.

He looked at the chairs, and saw that they were pushed away.

A BLIND MARE'S EXPLOIT.

David Hattie, Noah Gross, proprietor of the Clarkson House, has a bay mare, which just now is causing a lot of comment over an exploit a few days ago, of which it is the heroine.

The mare is a fine specimen of her kind, and is now in the hands of a private owner.
