A certain woman was well-known among her circle for her simple faith and great calmnesss in the midst of many trials. Another woman living at a distance hearing of her said: "I must go to see that woman and learn the secret of her strong, happy life." She went and accosting the woman said: "Are you the woman with great faith?" "No," she replied, "I am not the woman with great, faith, but I am the woman with a little faith in the great God." THE NEW HOME.

There is nothing but the old-fashion religion that will take a woman through the trials of home life. At first there may be a romance or a novelty that will do for a substitute. The marriage hour has just passed and the perplexities of the household are more than atoned by the loy of being together, and by the tact that when it is late they do not have to discuss whether is time to the The mishaps of the hou hold, instead of being a matter of anxiety and reprehension, are a matter of merriment: the loaf of bread turned into a geological specimen; the slushy custards; the jaundiced or measly biscuits. It is a very bright sunlight fliat falls on the cutlery and the mantel ornaments of a new home. But after awhile the romance is all cone and then there is something to be prepared for the table that the book called "Cookery Taught in Twelve Lessons" will not teach The receipe for making it is not a handfu of this, a cup of that, and a spoonful of something else. It is not something sweet ened with ordinary condiments, or flavore with ordinary flavors, or baked in ordinary ovens: It is the loaf of domestic happiness, and all the ingredients come down from heaven, and the fruits are plucked from the Tree of Life, and it is sweetened with it new wine of the kingdom, and it is baked the oven of home trial. Mrs. Graham says: "During the six months prior to taking Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills I had a serious trouble arising from wrong action of the heart. One of the symptoms was that I could not lie on my left side, for if I did so my heart throbbed so violently as to give me great pain. The smallest noise or the slightest exertion would start my heart palpitating terribly. It was impossible for me to go up a short flight of stairs without stopping to rest and regain my breath. I was excessively aervous, and my limbs would tremble as if with ague. My hands and feet were unnaturally cold, and I suffered from sharp pains in the back of my head. The slaming of a door would nearly set me wild. Frequently I would wake up frightened, and then was unable to get to sleep again I lost flesh and became very week and despondent. Barr's drug store, corner James and Merrick-streets. These pills are the only medicine that has done me any good, or given me relief. I am happy to say that they proved that the doctor was mistaken in saying that heart disease could not be cured. Since I commenced taking Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills I have been daily getting better. I can now go upstairs without trouble and attend to my daily duties without the slightest distress. I have gained in flesh, in health and in strength. My blood circulates more freely. Lying on my left side causes me no inconvenience or pain, and I enjoy health and restful sleep. My nerves are strong and vigorous, and there has been such a radical change for the better in my condition that I can say these wonderful pills have practically made a complete cure.

When you become convinced that you have done a wrong thing, it is not a sign of weakness for you to make a prompt and explicit acknowledgement of the fact. There never was, and never will be, a universal panacea, in one remedy, for all ills to which flesh is heir-the very nature of many curatives being such that were the germs of other and differently seated diseases rooted in the system of the patient -what would relieve one ill, in turn would aggravate the other. We have, however, in Quinino Wine, when obtained in a sound unadulterated state, a remedy for many and grievous ills. By its gradual judicious use, the frailest systems are led into convalescence and strength, by the influence which Quinine exerts on Nature's own restoratives. It relieves the drooping spirits of those with whom a chronic state of morbid despondence and lack of interest in life is a disease, and, by tranquilizing the nerves, disposes to sound and refreshing sleep, imparts vigor to the action of the blood, which, being stimulated, courses throughout the veins, strengthening the healthy animal functions of the system. thereby making activity a necessary result, strengthening the frame, and giving life to the digestive organs, which naturally demand increased substance-result, improved appetite. Northrop & Lyman, of Toronto, have given to the public their Quinino Wine at the usual rate, and, guaged by the opinion of scientists, this wine approaches nearest perfection of any
