THE LITTLE GIRL THAT GREW UP. She was sitting up straight in a straight-backed There wasn't a spart in her shining hair, There wasn't a speck on her dainty dress; And her rosy face was full of distress. When I draw near to this malden fair, She suddenly rumpled her shining bair, And dropping down"in a heap" on the floor, Uplifted her voice in wall most sore. "Now, what is the matter, my pretty maid?" "I'm all grown up!" she dotefully said, "And I'm lonesome, as lonesome as lonesome

WHY SHOULD HE?

How any young fellow can have the face to walk into your family; and deliberately. ask for one of your daughters, passes me That it is done every day does not lessen ny astonishment at the sublime impudence of the thing. There you have been, sixteen, or seventeen, or eighteen years of her life, combing her hair and washing her face for-'him!' . It is lucky the thought never strikes you while you are doing it that this is to be the end of it all. What if you 'were' married yourself? That is no reason why she should be bewitched away into a separate establishment just as you begin to lean upon her, and be proud of her ; or, at least, it stands to reason that after you have worried her through the measles, and chicken-pox, and scarlet fever, and whooping cough, and had her properly baptized and vaccinated, this young man might give you a short breathing spell before she goes. He seems to be of a different opinion; 'he' not only insists upon taking her, but upon taking her immediately, if not sooner. He talks well about it -- very well; you have no objection to 'him', not the least in the world, except 'that'. When the world is full of girls, why couldn't he have fixed his eye on the daughter of somebody else? There are some parents who are glad to be rid of their daughters. Blue eyes are as plentiful as blue-berries; why need it be 'this' partioular pair? Isn't she happy enough as she is? Don't she have meat and bread and slothes enough, to say nothing of love? What is the use of leaving a certainty for an uncertainty, when that certainty is a mother, and you can never have but one? You put all these questions to her, and she has the saucinese to ask if that is the way you reasoned, when her father came for 'you'. You disdain to answer, of course; it is a mean dodging of the question. But she gets round you for all that, and so does he, too, though you try your best not to like him; and with a-"Well, if I must, I must," you just order her wedding-clothes, muttering to yourself the while; 'Dear-dear-what sort of a fist will that child make at the head of a house; how will she ever know what to do in this, that, or the other emergency-she who is calling on "mother"-fifty times a day to settle every trifling question?" What folly for her to set up house for herself." How many mothers have had these foreboding thoughts over a daughter's wedding clothes; and yet that daughter has met life, and its unexpected reverses, with a heroism und courage as undaunted 'as every girlish tear had not been kissed away by lips, that, alas ! may be dust, when this baptism of womanhood comes upon her .-EANNY FERN.

Make a Note of This.

Every little while we read in the papers of some one who has stuck a rusty nail in his foot, knee or hand and that lookjaw resulted therefrom, of which the patient died. If every person was aware of a remedy for all such wounds and would. apply it, then all such reports must cease. The remedy is simple, almost always on hand, and can be applied by anyone and what is better, it is infallible. It is simply to smoke the wound, or any bruise that is inflammed, with burning wood or burning cloth, Twenty minutes in the smoke of wool will take the pain out of the worst wound; repeated two or three times, it will allay the worst cases of inflammation arising from the wound.

MARVELLOUS MECHANISM OF THE HUMAN BODY.

The human body is an epitome i Nature of all mechanics, all architecture all machinery of every kind. There are more than three hundred and ten mechan ical movements known to mechanics of to day, and all of these are but modification of those found in the human body. Here are found all the bars, joints, pumps, pipes, wheels and exles, ball and socket movements, beame, girders, trusses, buffers, arches, columns, cables and support known to science. At every point man's best mechanical work can be shown but to be adaptions of processes of the human body, a revelation of first principles used in Nature.

HARPER BROS.

The story is told of the firm of Harper Brothers that on one occasion a much respected but dry old friend of the family caffed on James Harper, and, after a time, daked him how he and his brothers distributed the work between them. "John," Mr. Harper said, good humoredly, "attenda to the finances, Wesley to the correspondence, Fletcher to the bargaining with authors and others, and don't you tell anybody," he said, drawing his chair still closer and lowering the tone of his voice,

In the winter the majority of men and women have lived hothouse lives. Thousands of homes are badly ventilated and without proper sanitary arrangements. The air is full of poison germs that are inhated by the inmates, and we find sickness and disease holding sway.

This is the month when the blood mpure, when eroptions, boils and skin diseases make life a misery. This is the month when we see the sallow fages, the hollow cheeks and sunken eyes, betokening ill health and weakness. This the month that demands physical repairing and cleansing, in order that the seeds and germs of disease my be eradicated from the Paine's Celery Compound is the medicine needed by every broken down and diseased mortal at this time. Its marvellous virtues have been noted and commended by the ablest physicians in the world, and its best and strongest advocates are those whom it has restored to perfect health.

Dr. A. W. K. Newton, an eminent physician and surgeon of Boston, eays: "Paine's Celery Compound is not patent medicine, and it must not be con founded with the ordinary nervines, bitters and sarsaparillas. It is as much superior to them in formula and results as the dismond is superior to the glass. It purities the blood, strengthens the nerves and i nature's food for the brain.

"I had some trouble myzelf from blood poisoning received in a very delicate surgical operation. The formula of Paine's Celery Compound led me to try it, and was much pleased with the result. I prescribe it for men and women who have no appetite, cannot sleep and are weak and run-down. For this condition, and for disorders of the blood and nerves, it has no

Long Remembered Trouble, Now Thing of the Past.

A Boaforth lady gives an account of her escue from a lifelong ailment :

SEAFORTH.

"Ever since I can remember I have suffered from wonk action of the heart For sometime past it grow constantly worse, reducing my health to a very low state. I frequently had such sharp pains under my heart that I was fearful if I drew a long broath it would cause death In going upstairs I had to stop to rest and regain breath. When my children made a noise while playing I would be so overcome with pervousuess and weakness that could not do anything and had to sit down to regain composure. Oftentimes my heart would seem to swell, and give me great pain. My limbs were unnaturally cold, and I was subject to severe headsches and dizziness. My memory became uncertain and sleep deserted me.

"I have been taking Milburn's Hoart and Norve Pelle, which I got at Mr. Foar's drug store, and as a result am very much better. I have improved in health and strength rapidly; since commencing this treatment. The blessing of sleep is restored to me. My heart is much stronger, and the oppressive sensation in it has vanished. I can now go upstairs without stopping and with the greatest of case, and I no longer suffer from dizziness or licadacho. It seems to me the circulation of my blood has become healthy and mormal, thereby removing the coldness from my limbs. can truly say that Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have done me a world of good.' PRICE 350 There never was, and never will be, niversal panacea, in one remedy, for a ills to which flesh is heir-the very nature of many curatives being such that were the germs of other and differently seated diseases rooted in the system of the patient -what would relieve one ill, in turn would aggravate the other. We have, however, in Quinine Wine, when obtained in a sound unadulterated state, a remedy for many: and grievous ills. By its gradual judicious use, the frailest systems are led into convalcacence and strength, by the influence which Quinine exerts on Nature's own restoratives. It relieves the drooping spirits of those with whom a chronic state of morbid despondente and lack of interest in life is a disease, and, by tranquilizing the nerver, disposes to sound and refreshing sleep, imparts vigor to the action of the blood, which, being stimulated, courses throughout the veins, strengthening the healthy animal functions of the system, thereby making activity a necessary result aircnethening the frame, and giving life to the dignative organs, which naturally demand increased substance-result, improved appetite.
