Our I's and.... Other Eyes.

Our I's are just as strong as they were fifty years ago, when we have cause to use them. But we have less and less cause to praise ourselves, since others do the praising, and we are more than willing for you to see us through other eyes. This is how we look to S. F. Boyce, wholesale and retail druggist, Duluth, Minn, who after a quarter of a century of observation writes:

"I have sold Ayer's Sarsaparilla for more than 25 years, both at wholesale and retail, and have never heard anything but words of praise from my customers; not a single complaint has ever reached me. 1 believe Ayer's Sarsaparilla to be the best blood purifier, that has been introduced to the general public.". This, from a man who has sold thousands of dozens of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, is strong testimony. . But it only echoes popular sentiment the world over, which has, "Nothing but words of praise for Ayer's Sarsaparilla."

Any doubt about it? Send for"Curebook" It kills doubts and cures doubters. Address J. C. AYER Co., Lowell, Mass,

MYSTERIOUS FIRES EXPLAINED

Many of the mysteries of "spontacous combustion" are being cleared up by the advance of science. There was a time when the fact that a heap of coal can take fire of its own accord, so to speak, was regarded as almost miraculous. After many serious accidents of this kind had occurred, involving not infrequently the loss of vessels at sea, an explanation was suggested to the effect that the fire was caused by the oxidation of the pyrates of iron and sulphur, which are frequently found in coal, and which are popularly called in L'ngland "coal brasses." When the pyrites are exposed to moisture a rapid chemical change occurs in them, accompanied by the production of heat. But it was afterward shown that many coals liable to spontaneous ignition when collected in immense heaps passed such slight traces of pyrites that their presence could not be regarded | more than a few minutes at a time.

as the cause of the ignition. A more careful study of the phenomenon, based upon a consideration of the nature and structure of the coal itself, led to the theory which provails to-day. This is that the oxidation of the coal, and not of the pyrites, is the real source of the disastrous fires which occasionally break out in the holds of ships laden with coal, and in the vast heaps contained in coal yards. Coal possesses a surprising power of ab.

sorbing oxygen. Some kinds of coal will rapidly absorb when exposed to the air. Bituminous coals, in particular, always contain considerable hydrogen, forming volatile compound with the carbon. When oxygen is absorbed from the air

it begins to combine with both the carbon and the hydrogen; and this chemical action produces heat. The heat in turn | Renewer. Merit tells. quickens the chemical action; and if, in addition, the coal inwhich thi action is going on is heaped to gether in a large mass, the heat quickly accumulates because it cannot readily escape, coal being a slow and poor con-

The smaller the pieces of coal the greater the danger, because a small piece has, ed to try Hood's Sarsaparilla and after in proportion to its mass, a larger surface area exposed to the air, and consequently to the absorption of oxygen, than a large picce; and when small pieces are heaped together they form a porous mass which may be thoroughly permeated by oxygen from the atmosphere. - The presence of moisture also accelerates the chemical action of the oxygen in the coal, so that the temperature of wet coal rises faster than that of dry coal. In the process of loading ships with coal, a serious dauger is often invited by pouring the coal, height by means of shoots. The coal at | time ago, he has never since been troubled the bottom thus gets broken smaller and smaller, until it is in a fit state for combustion to be set up.

No doubt the mysterious loss of many slips is to be explained by a spontaneous ignition of the coal that they

Paine's Celery Compound Brings New Life to a Roxton Pond

Lady.

The medicine that can rescue and save human being after the best efforts of medical men prove unavailing, should merit the careful consideration of every sick and diseased man and woman. Such a medicine is a boon to the world, an anchor of hope, protection and joy to those who have been told they are in a hopeless condition and incurable. Up to the present, medical science has devised but one remedy that fully meets the wants and desires of all sufferers This wonderful medicine is Paine's Celery Compound, to which thousands in Canada to-day owe life and good health. Here is a statement from a lady, 'Miss Marilla A. Bullock, of Roxton Poud, P.Q., a sufferer from liver trouble, that is in every way sufficiently strong to convince the despairing, despondent and doubtful.

"I think it a duty and a pleasure to write and tell you what your Paine's Celery Compound has done for me, a sufferer from liver trouble.

"Two years ago I had a very bad attack of it, and called in a doctor who relieved me of the trouble, but I still remained weak and ailing, and had another and more severe attack. I was under the doctor's care for four months, and received

We hear a great deal about purifying the blood. The way to purify it is to enrich it. Blood is not a simple fluid like water. It is made up of minute bodies and when these are deficient, the blood, lacks the life-giving principle. Scott's Emulsion is not a mere blood purifier. It actually increases the number of the red corpuscles in the blood and changes unhealthy action into health.

There never was, and peyor will be, universal panacea, in one remedy, for all ills to which fiesh is heir-the very naturo of many curatives being such that were the forms of other and differently scated discases rooted in the system of the patient -what would relieve one ill, in turn would aggravate the other. We have, however, in Quinine Wine, when obtained in a sound unadulterated state, a remedy for many and grievous ills. By its gradual judicious use, the frailest systems are led into con valescence and strength, by the influence which Quinine exerts on Nature's own restoratives. It relieves the drooping spirits of those with whom a chronic state of morbid despondence and lack of interest in life is a disease, and, by tranquilizing the nerves, disposes to sound and refreshing sleep, imparts vigor to the action of the blood, which, being stimulated, courses throughout the veins, strengthening the healthy animal functions of the system, thereby making activity a necessary result, strengthening the frame, and giving life to the digestive organs, which naturally demand increased substance-result, improved appetite. Northrop & Lyman, of Toronto, have given to the public their Quinino Wine at the usual rate, and guaged by the opinion of scientists, this wine approaches nearest perfection of any on the market. All druggists sell it. Robert-When I get into my new house mean that everything shall go like clock-
