The Young Folks.

ONTHE CATHEDRAL RAFTER. In one of the old Cathedrals in Europ the golde bids the visitor watch a certain spot until the light from a window fall supon it. There he sees, carved on a raiter, a face of such marvellous beauty that it is the gem of the great building The legend is, that when the architect and masters were planning the adornment of the cubedral, au old man came in and begated leave to do some work. They felt that his toftering steps and trembling hands unfitted him for any great service, so they sent him up to the roof, and gave him permission to carve upon one of the rafters. He went his way, and day by day he wrought there in the darkness. One day he was not seen to come down, and going up they found him lying lifeless on the scaffolding, with his sightless eyes turned upward, and there they saw a face carved on the rafter, a face of suc exceeding beauty, that architects and greatmen bared their heads as they looked uponit, and recognized the master in him who lay there still in death. In the Church of the living God we are all sel to carve the beauty of the face of Christ, not on the rafters or walls of any cathedral, but on our own heart and life. Be it ours to do this work with such care and skill that when our eyes are closed in death, men may look with reverence upon the beauty of the face our hands have fashioned. Some of us may feel ourselves too feeble or too unekilled, to do any great work in this world for Christ; but nomeare too unskilled to carve the beauty of Christ in our life. And it may be that in the time of great revealing, it shall appear that some trembling disciple among ne, limid and shrinking, whose voice is not beard in our meetings, whose work is in some quiet corner, out of sight, has wrought the beauty of Christ's likeness in an erquisiteness which shall ontehine all that any even of the greatest of us have saWhy, what about, mother?" innocently inquired her fair young daughter. "What about? You know perfectly well what about. When you started out sleighing, I fold you distinctly not to let that young man kies you, put his arm around dome all these things. Oh, Mary, Mary !" Ablush burned Mary's cheek, but what could the poor girl do?

"Mother," she bravely said, "tell me how you know these things, and I will own up." "Certainly," said Mrs. Wise, maternal grief giving way to the logician's pride. "First, there's no powder on your upper lip. His mustache did that. Secondly, the back of his collar was marked by a stresk of black, conclusively showing that he had the lines around his neck. There's snowall over your jacket except a narrow strip around your waist. Then you wore no gloves, and your hands are perfectly sofs and warm, not chapped a bit." "I own up, mother" despairingly exclaimed Mary .- New York Journal.

AN EXCELLENT GRINDSTONE.

Do you want a grindstone which one man can turn and grind with comparative that of the Rev. W. A. Dunnett. Mr. ease! If so, read what an Ohio correspondent tells Rural New Yorker about his machine:-

I planned a machine at small cost that will do the work. To make one take the small sprocket wheels and chain from an old worn binder or other farm machinery and gear it two to one that is, the lower, or crank, shaft wheel must have twice as many cogs as the one on the stone shaft. Use a stone 20 or more inches in diameter and be sure to get a good one. If geared higher than two to one, it will run hard, and much less gear would not turn fast enough. LOOKING INDIAN.

Somebody dropped a stickpin in the hall the other day and had hard work to find it. She hunted high and low, and on her hands and kneer, and with a candle epecially procured for the purpose, but it was no use; the pin was very tiny and unperceivable, its value being that of association rather than size or brilliancy. The somebody, after a final shake of the rugs, was just about to give it up forever when one of the children chanced to come along. "Why don't you look 'Indian' for it?" he asked. Before the somebody realized what was meant down dropped the youngster on the floor, his head and his whole body lying sidewise and just as close to the dead level as possible. In this position his eyes roved rapidly over the floor. "I have it," he shouted presently, and sure enough, right in the middle of the floor, in so plain a place that it had escaped notice, was the missing stickpin. The youngster then explained that looking "Indian" meant putting the head to the ground in order to catch sight of the smallest object between one's self and the borizon. "They do it on the plains the time," he said. "That's why they can always tell who's coming. But works in houses just as well as on plains. Why, we never lose anything in the nursery nowadays-we just look 'Indian' and find it right off."-New York

HOW BEE WAX IS MADE.

One of the most taxing of the bee industries is the making of wax. Bees gorge themselves with honey, then hang themselves up in festoons or curtains to the hive, and remain quiescent for hours; after a time wax scales appear, forced out from the wax puckets. The bees remove these scales with their natural forceps, carry the wax to the mouth, and chew it for a time, thus changing it chemically. Thus it may be seen that wax-making is a great expense to the colony, for it costs not only the time The appointment was not made, but the of the workers, but it is estimated that where they remain as evidence of Lincoln's make: one pound of wax .- The Chau friendship and Stanton's obstinate nerve. | tauquan.

In all these cities and towns the newspapers freely mentioned his affliction at the time. M Dunnett said he had consulted many physicians, though he said, to be entirely fair, he had never been any great length of time under treatment by any one doctor because of his itinerant mode of life. I the early part of the summer of 1806, while in Brookville assisting the paster of the Wall street Methodist Church in evangelis been going from place to place pursuing the services, he was speaking of his trouble to a friend who urged him to try Dr. Wi liams' Pink Pills, and next day presented him with a dozen boxes. SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemiate, Toronto-Only a few years ago people gazed in wonder at the first gas light. Now they gaze in wonder at their last gas bills. There never was, and never will be, universal panacea, in one remedy, for all ills to which flesh is heir-the very nature of many curatives being such that were the germs of other, and differently scated diseases rooted in the system of the patient -what would relieve one ill, in turn would oggravate the other. We have, however, in Quinine Wine, when obtained in a sound unadulterated state, a remedy for many and grievous ills. By its gradual judicious use, the frailest systems are led into convalescence and strength, by the mucho which Quinine exerts on Nature's own restoratives. It relieves the drooping spirits of those with whom a chronic state of morbid despondence and lack of interest in life is a disease, and, by tranquilizing the nerves, disposes to sound and refreshing sleep, imparts vigor to the action of the blood, which, being stimulated, courses throughout the veins, strengthoning the healthy animal functions of the system, thereby making activity a necessary result, strengthening the frame, and giving life to the digestive organs, which 'naturally demand increased substance-result, improved appetite. Northrop & Lyman, of Toronto, have given to the public their Quinine Wine at the usual rate and, guaged by the opinion of scientists, this wine approaches nearest perfection of any

You help those who most need help. While all suffer, both rich and poor, Consumption is especially a disease of the poor.

REV. J. PEAREN, a well known Methodist minister of Toronto, in writing to the Medical Superintendent, says :-

"I am desirous that all sufferers should know of the good work that the Sanatorium is doing. When I sent my daughter to the Institution I felt that it was our last hope so far as human help goes, but after spending about three months there she returned with a new lease of life upon her face. The benefit she received seems also to be permanent, for she has increased in weight since her return a month ago. J. PBAREN.
