The Young Folks.

THE CLOUDS IN SUNLIGHT.

A cloud in sunlight sent to trace Across the sky's celestial face At the light true for rigid form, Too subtle, sweet for night and storm.

A seed for poems yet unsung; A gardens of the fancy find; A banner o'er the sea outblown The pilot's signal to His own.

Savene the wavering image gleams Across the poet's lake of dreams, Until a breath of fancy wakes it takes.

It glows, it changes, now 'tis gone, But still its glory lingers on, For, rapt, I heard the poet cry, Sweet cloud thy beauty shall not die!

QUITE DIFFERENT.

In some parts of Canada it is customary to call the justice of the peace or local magistrate squire. One of these worthies a very estimable man, who always enjoyed a good story, even at his own expense, used to be fond of relating an experience he once had with an uneducated English farmer.

After transacting some business the squire and the Englishman sat down to enjoy a smoke together. When they had lighted their pipes the stolid Britisher started the conversation by remarking: "I notice as 'ow folks calls you the 'Squire."

"That's because I am a justice of the peace," replied the Canadian.

Indeed?

HIS BLUNDER.

"Say!" she cried suddenly, as the bashful young man backed into the deepest chair. "You must think you're a bird."

"Bez pardon," he stammered, "I don't understand what?"

"You're on my hat!" she shrieked, Philadelphia Press.

It makes a fellow feel cheap to be told that every man has his price.

Summer underwear is on and there's no gain in cough syrup.

NEURALGIA.

We suggest curing a pain in the face by taking Scott's Emulsion into the stomach. Usual way of treating neuralgia is to rub liniment on the outside. That's only a makeshift.

Scott's Emulsion is nerve food. Scott's Emulsion feeds and strengthens nerves.

For an obstinate neuralgia, for nervousness, for nerve weakness take Scott's Emulsion. It's nerve food and nerve strength.

We send you little try if you like. SCOTT & BOWME, Cleveland, Ohio.

HONESTY IS THE BEST POLICY.

The office cat was dead. Caught in the act of devouring the head clerk's lunch, it came in contact with his boot and died suddenly. The questions were: "Where could it be buried in the heart of the city?" and "Who would bury it?"

Bob, the office boy, offered to get rid of it for a consideration, and proceeded to consult a friend of his at a neighboring hotel.

After the office closed, Bob took his seat on the outside of an omnibus, carefully carrying a parcel (containing the cat), from which protruded the cat's feathers of a pheasant. The parcel was carefully labelled; but Bob left it under the seat when he got off the bus. (Boys are forgetful.)

Soon another passenger noticed the parcel, and gradually shifted his seat until he was able to lift the parcel, when he very speedily took his departure, taking it with him. Bob got rid of it, but to this day, no one in that office knows who buried the cat.
