The young Jolks.

Youth and Love fell out one day. Baid Youth to Love "I'll go my way And leave you broken hearted. I'll go through life without your aid, I'll gaze on neither man nor maid."

And foolishly they parted. Off went haughty youth alone. He hummed a tune in merry tone And never looked behind him, While Love at home was sad and sore

And longed for merry Youth once more Alas she could not find him. But Youth had not been walking long Before be hashed his merry song-His beart was full of sorrow. He found it hard to stay away From Love, if only for a day,

He came back on the morrow. For Love and Youth spart would die Like flowers without dow or sky. They'd fade if they would sever. As long as there are tide and time In every land, in every clime,

Youth and Love will be together. -Joseph P. Galton, in Philadelphia Times

WHY OLD SOLDIERS LOVE EACH OTHER

The affection of the old soldiers who fought in the Civil War for their comrades has often been remarked in the North and South. Father McGovern, of Great Barrington, Mass., in an address before the G. A. R. posts recently, revealed one of the scorets. He said :

"An old soldier one day brought a letter to me to read for him. He was wounded at Gettysburg and his sight almost entirely destroyed. Many a long year had he groped his way through the world. The letter told of a comrade's death. When the old soldier heard it he wept with the heart of a obild.

'Why do you weep?' I said; he was not your brother.' 'No,' he answered, 'Nor a near relative ?' 'No.' and why doyou feel so badly?

'Ab, father,' the old man said, 'you can't go to war with a man and fight by his side, and face death with him, and share your rations with him, and lie down to sleep on the cold, damp ground with him, without loving him. "And then I understood why the old man shed tears. So it will ever be."

AN INJURIOUS BENEFACTION. It is well known that missionaries in China do a great deal in the way of alleviating suffering among those who cannot obtain the service of a doctor. Quite recently Chinaman lost his sight, and some sympathetic neighbors came and enlisted the services of the local missionary in his behalf. The missionary found his patient suffering from cataract and succeeded in removing it and restoring sight to the Chinaman. The obliging neighbors then, however, represented to the missionary that' he had robbed the man of the means of carning his living (he was a "blind" beggar) and that in future he would be expected to

HAVE YOU A MATCH. A man whose feet do not track stoppe us on the street the other day and said "The phenomenal good health of smokers is not due to tobacco alone. Smokers carry matches loose in their pockets and i is the sulphur on the matches that surrounds the body with an sura of protection. What smoke and sulphur won't do in the way of killing microbes is not worth mentioning." We offer this for the benefit of the old chronics "who can stop smoking any time they want to," but who never bump up against the time when they want to .- Denver Road.

GREATEST DIVING FEAT.

The greatest diving feat that was even schieved was in moving the cargo of the ship Cape Horn, wrecked off the coast of South America, when a diver named Hooper made seven descents to a depth of over 200 feet, remaining at one time 42 minutes under the water. An authority states that the greatest depth to which a man has been known to descend does not expeed 220 feet, which is equivalent to pressure of 881 pounds to the square inch.

DO ANGLO-SAXONS TALK TOO

"Carlyle thinks Anglo-Saxons talk too much. He belittles speech, exilts books, and unveils ideas as the giant forces," in the Angust Ladies' Home Journal. "Yet no great reform was ever ushered in through an idea bound up in calfakin and placed upon the library table. It was an idea flaming in the fiery speech of Benard that kindled ardor in the Crusaders. When the old hero stood forth before the host it was as if the skies, long slient, had as last broken into speech. The Reformstion "also represents not simply the lightning of Luther's thought, but the thunder of Luther's throat. The orations of Clay and Webster lent position to these statesmen, just as Liucoln's speeches made him President. The great abolition movement progressed but slowly so long as its sole instrument was Garrison's printingpress. It, was the elequent voice Wendell Phillips that made the idea o freedom invincible."

STOPPING A TRAIN. A trick that can only be played once on the same conductor, was perpetrated on the gentleman who ran the 5.40 train from New York last Thursday. A gentleman on the train who lives between New Rochelle and Mamaronic, and who evidently wanted to get home in a hurry, came to the conduotor, and with feigned excitement and carnest tones, said that the train had just run over a man, and for God's sake to stop. The conductor at once pulled the bell-cord and the train came to a standstill. A number of passengers got off and ran back y-richer blood and firmer some distance, but could see nothing of the mangled remains the inexorable iron-horse had made. After the train had sgain to the cheeks and stronger, started, the only passenger left behind was. the man who gave the information, and he having thoughtfully taken his bundle under ain in weight is substantial; hie arm, was seen crossing lots toward hie LAXAhome. THE WIFE, A BUSINESS CON-FIDANTE.

"It is a man's duty to acquaint his wife with every business matter of mutual interest," writes Frances Evans in the August Ladies' Home Journal. "She should be given an louight into the purpose of his hasiness or profession; her sympathetic interest in these matters should be encouraged, not turned aside; moreover, she should be taught the meaning of at least the ordinary business expressions and technicalities. Then if she fail do her part the man will be in nowise responsible for

HIS PROFESSION. The effect of red tape on the official mind seems to be experienced by all who are brought up under the Influence of the Circumicontion Office. A Parisian flaneur has picked up the following particulars of a conversation which passed in an emigration office:

The father of a family presents himsel and asks for tickets: "How many are you ?" asks the agent. "Three-I, my wife, and my child."

"Good ; your age, your profession ?" "Thirty years, carpenter; my wif wenty-four, needlewoman," "The boy ? asks the sgent. "Seven months."

"His profession ?" The father's eyebrows formed Gothio arches on his forehead. "His profession, I say ?" repeated

There never was, and never will be, unliversal panacea, in one remedy, for all of many curatives being such that were the germs of other and differently seated diseases rooted in the system of the patient -what would relieve one ill, in turn would aggravate the other. We have, however in Quinine Wine, when obtained in a sound unadulterated state, a remedy for many and grievous ills. By its gradual judicious use, the frailest systems are led into convalescence and strength, by the influence which Quinine exerts on Nature's own restoratives. It relieves the drooping spirits of those with whom a chronic state of morbid despondence and lack of interest in life is a disease, and, by tranquilizing the nerves, disposes to sound and refreshing sleep, imparts vigor to the action of the blood, which, being stimulated, courses throughout the veins, strengthening the healthy animal functions of the system, thereby making activity a necessary result, strongthening the frame, and giving life to the digestive organs, which naturally demand increased substance-result, improved appotite. Northrop & Lyman, of Toronto, have given to the public their Quinine Wine at the usual rate, and, guaged by the opinion of scientists, this wine approaches nearest perfection of any

The Red Bird-Best To-Day and Good for Years.

The Wilson Chain

When bicycle manufecturers and riders the world over were having trouble with their bicycle chains, which, in spite of all they could do, would wear and stretch, it was a Canadian who found a way out of the difficulty.

The Wilson Chain with which Red Birds are fitted

This Canadian was Mr. Wm, Wilson, one of the experts paid by this company to bring the Red Bird nearer a state of absolute perfection. This invention consisted of a patent, whereby the centre part of the pin was hardened, giving the hardened steel pin. So well was this received that the largest chain manufacturing establishment in the world purchased the American right to produce it. Since then there have been many imiations, but as is always the case with imitations, none are so good as the genuine article, such as Red Birds are fitted with to-day.
