LITTLE LOCAL BRIEFLETS

Which Caught the Eyes or Ears of Free Press Reporters this week

The school bells ring regularly again. Toronto Exhibition closes to-morrow. Most of our citizens labored on "Labor Day."

September has brought frosty nights again. The lawn and flowers are at their best now. The trout fishing season ends a week from to-day.

The Fall Pests to the end of the year for a quarter. Last Friday's rain facilitated the fall plowing and seeding operations.

Harvest Thanksgiving services will be held in St. Alban's Church on Sunday 17th inst. A new sidewalk now leads up to the power house with a crossing on Willow Street.

Owing to lack of a quorum there was no meeting of the council on Monday evening. You can have the Free Press and Montreal Star to the end of the year for 40 cents.

The and fifteen cents a basket has been the ruling price for tomatoes at Milton the past week. Tuesday's rain was not very propitious to exhibition visitors, but it was worth millions to the country.

A large number of our citizens have been making their annual visits to Toronto Fair this week. The Judge's Court of Revision will be held here on Thursday afternoon, 21st inst. Over a hundred appeals have been made.

The G. T. R. has given six special trains daily through here the past few days, for the accommodation of exhibition visitors. Wm. Panton, editor of the Champion, left last week for a visit to his brothers and sisters and their families in Montana and Portland, Oregon.

The amount of rain that fell last Friday was 1.16 inches. This is more than fell throughout the whole month of June, and nearly five times as much as fell during the month of August.

The Crescent Lacrosse Club went to Orangeville on Labor Day to have an exhibition game with Orangeville, the senior champions of that district. The result was 2 goals to 4 in Orangeville's favor.

Auctioneer Hemstreet, the old reliable auctioneer, whose sales last spring were so remarkably successful, is now ready for the fall and winter sales, and is prepared to assure satisfaction to every customer, at reasonable rates for his services.

Firmen John Evans and Thomas Leo represented Acton Fire Brigade at the Convention of Volunteer Companies in Toronto last Thursday. They gave an interesting report of the proceedings at a meeting of the Brigade Monday evening.

A number of thoughtless boys are in the habit of tapping on the windows and otherwise disturbing the week night religious services held in the various Churches. The law provides a heavy penalty for such disturbance and Rev. Pearson and the pastor are prepared to prosecute to the full extent of the law if complaints are made to them.

After completing the foundations of the new Baptist Church up to the floor joists, T. H. Taylor, the contractor, threw up the job. This is not likely to cause any delay as the carpenters are at work on the superstructure and the Building Committee will likely have arranged for the brick work by the time the building is sufficiently advanced.

One of the greatest events of the autumn season is the announced engagement of that truly great newspaper the Montreal Herald and Weekly Star, of 84 pages each week, making 52 books in the year. The Family Herald and Weekly Star is simply carrying everything before it, the circulation jumping by leaps and bounds. It's circulation is without doubt most marvellous, and as far as we can see, every one says it deserves it.

The Fall Term of the Guelph Business College and Shortland Institute, will commence on Monday, Aug. 28th. Students may enter any time after opening with every advantage as no classes are formed. Circulars free. J. Stray, Principal.

TWENTY PER CENT. BELOW.
J. H. Hamilton, of the old reliable marble and granite works, Guelph, announces that he will continue to keep the best classes of granite and marble monuments, tombs, etc. at prices 20 per cent. below the market. He is prepared to receive commissions on all orders and to deliver on short notice.

THE NEWS AT HOME.

Mostly of a Local Character, and every item interesting.

Storoy's Big Electric Sign.

During the past week thousands of visitors passing on the P. E. R. trains have viewed with much interest the immense electric sign which adorns the Canada Glove Works. People are talking about this newly all over the country and Mr. Storoy will be amply rewarded for his invention and enterprise by having "Storoy's Glove" more than over household word throughout the Dominion.

Best and Newest Woman's Invention.

To an esteemed maid of Acton belongs the distinction of winning the gold medal Toronto Exhibition this week for "The Best and Newest Invention by women for household utensils." The invention is a churn with a spring attached to the under part of the dasher, and the inventor is Mrs. Clara E. Humberstone, of Newbrook.

The Rector Homo Adans.

"There was a general rejoicing at St. Alban's Church on Sunday because of the return of Rev. J. E. Godden, M. A., the beloved pastor of the flock, after his three months' rest. Both Rev. and Mrs. Godden returned last week much improved in health. The past month spent in the lakeshore at Oakville was much enjoyed and proved very beneficial to both of them. It is hoped by all that Rev. Mr. Godden will continue permanently to enjoy his present improved physical vigor.

A Drawing Business Scheme.

The Camden, Michigan, Advance town of 600 inhabitants together one day in each week offer a prize of $5 to the farmer who drives the greatest distance to town on business. He must market some product of the farm, or do some trading either by some hardware or general merchandise, get a shove or patronize the doctor or dentist. He must prove the distance he came, and the farmer who has made the longest trip gets the prize. It has proven the drawing card for the town, and men with families come a distance of forty-five miles to get to town.

Rev. Joseph Edge Seriously Ill.

Rev. Joseph Edge, pastor of the Wellington Street Methodist Church, and President of the London Conference, was taken ill last week, but it was not till early last week that physicians realized that he would be confined to his bed for two or probably three months. His condition, though not serious, is one that has caused considerable alarm among the members of the congregation, and arrangements have been made for supplying the pulpit during the next three months. The many friends of Rev. Mr. Edge and family in Acton will regret to learn of this serious indisposition.

Schools in Agony.

After the long summer vacation of nine weeks the Public Schools re-opened at nine o'clock Tuesday morning. The teachers were mutually pleased to meet each other again and the staff cordially welcomed Miss E. Jean McPhail, B. A., the newly engaged teacher of the third department. The scholars really seemed glad to get back to school again and their bright, well-tanned faces and active movements gave evidence that the holidays have been productive of both pleasure and good health. The janitor during the vacation had given the various rooms a thorough cleaning, and as the schools assembled everything was sweet and clean and in a sanitary condition. During the vacation the trustees have had neat new railings and new seats put on the stairs and a neat picket fence now separates the school grounds from the school grounds. A number of new faces are to be seen in the various departments, especially in the primary, where a new batch of five-year-olds have been installed.

Flower Sunday at the Methodist Church.

On Sunday, J. A. McPhail, M. A., announced that the next Sunday will be "Flower Sunday," with a special sermon in the morning to the old people, the congregation felt that an unusually interesting day was in store. Such it proved to be. The sermon was based upon Matt. 5: 23, "Consider the lilies of the field." Many important lessons were added from the flowers and the amplification was very interesting and helpful. The floral decorations were highly creditable to the Social Committee of the League, who had the master in charge. There were banks of beautiful flowers, plants, palms and ferns, adorning the pulpit, platform, communion railing and choir alcove and the effect was very attractive, especially at night when the electric light was turned on.

Harvest Home and Antecessary.

Last Sabbath marked the commencement of the fourth year of the pastorate of Rev. H. A. Macpherson at Knox Church. The occasion was made memorable by a series of very interesting services. On Sunday Rev. Mr. Macpherson preached sermons having special reference to the anniversary, speaking particularly of the pleasant relations which exist between pastor and people, and exhorting all to cooperate in the efforts for future success and growth. On Sunday afternoon a very interesting flower service was held in the Sunday School. The programs embraced a series of responsive scripture readings, appropriate hymns, a solo, and an address by the pastor. In the absence of the Superintendent, Mr. Wm. McPhail, the service was conducted by Mr. John Cameron, the Associate Superintendent. The harvest festival on Monday evening was very largely attended. The tea in the basement from six to eight was much enjoyed. The large quantity of money assembled in the afternoon and the pastor took the chair. Humorous and eloquent addresses were delivered by Rev. A. Blair, D. A., of Nassagoyes, on "Patriotism"; Rev. J. Mullin, of Vergara, on "The Pastor's Pleasures," and by Rev. R. E. Knowles, of Oak, on "The South." The addresses were all enjoyed. A feature of the evening was the solo and score by Miss Leslie Clark. Her rich contralto voice, pleasing manner and perfect articulation were all appreciated and gave evidence of Miss Clark's rich gifts and attainments. The choir rendered a reliable service both on Sunday and Monday. The harvest decorations gave the church a very attractive appearance. In addition to a beautiful display of flowers skillfully arranged, festoons of evergreens decorated with garlands to the effect of hanging from beams to cornice add at the arch of each window. The whole presented a very artistic effect. The services throughout were highly successful.

A FRIENDLY LETTER IN RHYME.

The following letter was written fifteen years ago this summer by Mr. Archie Lynd as San Francisco, Cal., to Mr. W. H. Storoy. It was found in the scrapbook of the late Mr. Storoy, and Mr. W. A. Storoy handed it to the Free Press on Monday. It will be read with interest by old residents, especially as they were well acquainted with Mr. Lynd during his residence here thirty years ago, as well as with the various persons and places mentioned:

Dear Willie, old friend, I now to you send My love, my heart's best wealth; Hoping that you, and your family too, Are enjoying the best of health.

I, of course, Willie, had, I have treated you bad— But you bear me no malice, I know, And my heart beats as true today towards you.

As it did in the days long ago, In memory's book, where I oft take a look At the names of my friends of old, Yours shines out as bright as the noonday light.

In letters both large and bold, And I fancy I see you looking at me With that old spark of fun in your eye; And Willie, my lad, it makes me feel sad, Indeed I could weep to-day.

But how is it? Do you laugh and joke still? And are you as sunny as ever— At cracking jokes with good stories told? You were always remarkably clever. Do you remember the day—Twenty-fourth of May, The Grand River went you and I? With never a doubt, but we could out-trout.

And so we resolved to try, And at the time our books to the coast took, Expecting our baskets to fill, But not a trout did we pull out, Poor Baberms, Arthur and Will.

Does Charley Hill play checkers still, And Jimmy Mathew, too? They both you know, in the long ago, Could really beat me two.

These Charles and James played many games, By wire as you remember, 'Twas a pleasant way to while away An evening in November, And many a night by candle light I've watched those games by wire; And so have you, and others, too, And would you mind to let me know, For we wanted to know just how it would go, When Charles Hill could not keep still, When their game was getting hot.

Col. Allan, I suppose, still blows his nose And takes his pinch of snuff, May be always having plenty, his box 'n'er to empty, But always full of good stuff, And Jack, where is he? Do you now ever see Or hear about him? If so, I would thank you to let me know, Is Doctor McGavin still living and carvin' his fortune out of lime? Or has he gone back to the medical track, And is he making good time?

Does Johnnie Aherm keep abreast or astern Of the times at keeping hotel? Does he put each guest in a good bed to rest, And does he feed them well? Does Doc Morrow still with his drop and his pill Prescribe for all human ills, And try to cure the rich and poor, Of aches and pains and chills?

Mr. Dixon—the tailor—Mike Speight, the sailor; The carpenter, his brother John; Mr. Cameron, the preacher, Mr. Little, the teacher; How are they all getting on? I assure you old boy I would give you joy To see the old place once more, And I know that you, and your good wife, too, Would open wide your door, And with some such job, as the prodigal boy, Was received from the life of sin, You would, I am sure, when I reached your door, Say, Welcome, thine welcome, come in!

Well, perhaps I may at some future day Be permitted to give you a call, And that will be better than writing a letter, For then I could tell you all, But if no more an this earthly shore We see each other's face, Then, I hope to meet you, and kindly greet you In heaven, a better place, For believe me, Will, I love you still, And now as this letter I end— I wish to say I shall always pray, God bless you, God bless you, my friend, Amen.

A. Campbellville, be accepted, and the Secretary is hereby instructed to notify Miss McPhail as once and request her to report for duty on Tuesday, 5th inst., at nine a. m.—Carried.

Good Threshing.

While threshing on the farm of W. E. Smith, Esq., Lot 10, Con. 5, Erasmos, late of Acton, last Saturday, 2nd Sept., the farmer, McFay, of Nassagoyes, in their usual way of threshing and not knowing that they were timed, while threshing out for four hours, threshed five bushels per minute, three hundred bushels per hour, or at the rate of three thousand bushels per ten hours. The machine used was a Farm separator and a White engine and the grain was cleaned fit for market.
