WHERE KITTY CATS HANG IN A ROY There are trees where the kitty cats grow They hang by their tails in a row, If they happen to fall They don't mind it at all they land on their feet, as you know.

The fish swim around in the sky With pollywogs woggling by, While frogs hop around On the clouds to the sound Of the lobsters devouring mince plo. The birdies all swim in the sea And the wasp and the bungleing bee, If you dangle a worm With a wiggly squirm

You might catch a chickadoo-doo. It's strange, but the apples and pears Live in houses with carpets and chairs, They go rolling around With a rollicking sound And come bumping and thumping down

LOVE, THE PARENT OF SYM-PATHY.

It is not necessarily poverty or trouble which makes people sympathetic; often i makes them quite the opposite. I think it is just love. The person who loves most understands most and forgives most. Though you have not had troubles of any kind, yet down deep in your nature I know you are capable of great love. I think it is because your life has been so full of it. Love like that broadens and strengthens one as sunshine strengthens flowers; it is better to have than wealth or blue blood .-"The Autobiography of a Girl" in the Decombor Ladies' Home Journal.

THE PASSING OF ALCOHOL.

In the medical world the amount o liquor given to-day is not, it is declared, one-tenth of that prescribed forty years ago. In private and hospital practice its use is steadily declining. Life insurance companies look askance at the moderate drinker, and either refuse outright accept the risk or take it with certain qualifications. Railway companies turn a col t shoulder on all applicants for positions when the faintest suggestion of whiskey is detected, knowing to their sorrow that even a moderate indulgence in slookel clouds the brain, and places a leaden hund upon muscular power. Numerous churches which formerly used wine at the communion service now use the unfermented juice of the grape. Public and State ceremonies are often orlibrated without liquors of any kind. The inauguaration of the President of the United States and the Governors of States -once little more than bacchanalian revelcie E-are now dignified occasions inspiring respect and patriotism. Social gatherings of all kinds are frequently held without wine, champagne, or other intoxicant. Alcoholic liquors, as a beverage, have never been so unpopular, so disreputable as to-day, and no one, man or woman, can habitually indulge in them without losing business or social casts. It is a source of some encouragement also

PROGRESSION; RETROGRESSION

The eader of a German orchestra had mentalists who persisted in coming late for rehearsals. Finally he said to him : "Dis will not do no more. Dis vas a pusiners pandt. You come lade some more vonce and I pounce you quick." Hoffman was on hand earlier the next night, still earlier the following night and kept on improving his conduct in this way until at the end of a week he was the first man to report to the leader. The leader was greatly pleased. "Die vas pedder, Hoffman," said be. "You was pehindt pefore, aber you was early of lade, and now you vas fierat and last alretty."

PLUNGED TO HIS DEATH. neidlous Disease Lurks Every-

A bright young man in Grey County, Ont., thoughtlessly plunged into the lake at a summer resort when the blood was above the normal heat. The shock stopped the kidney work. Poisons which should have been carried off were circulated through the system. Dropsy was the result, and one bright autumn the mourn ing badge was on the door, and a promising young life was snuffed out. He trusted himself to skilled physicians, but they failed to do what South American Ridney Cure would have done. It clears, heals and puts and keeps the kidneys in perfect action. There never was, and never will be, unliversal panacea, in one remedy, for all ills to which flesh is heir-the very nature of many curatives being such that were the germs of other and differently seated diseases rooted in the system of the patient -what would relieve one ill, in turn would aggravate the other. We have, however, n Quinine Wine, when obtained in a sound unadulterated state, a remedy for many n , the frailest systems are led into convalescence and strength, by the influence which Quinine exerts on Nature's own restoratives. It relieves the drooping spirits of those with whom a chronic state of morbid despondence and lack of interest in life is a disease, and, by tranquilizing the nerves, disposes to sound and refreshing sleep, imparts vigor to the action of the blood, which, being stimulated, courses throughout the veins, strengthening the healthy animal functions of the system, thereby making activity a necessary result, strengthening the frame, and giving life to the digestive organs, which naturally demand increased substance-result, improved appetite. Northrop & Lyman, of Toronto, have given to the public their Quinine Wine at the usual rate, and guaged by the opinion of scientists, this wine approaches nearest perfection of any the market.
