

Your Hair

Two years ago my hair was falling out badly. I purchased a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and soon my hair stopped coming out.

Miss Minnie Hovey, Paris, Ill.

Perhaps your mother had thin hair, but that is no reason why you must go through life with half-starved hair. If you want long, thick hair, feed it with Ayer's Hair Vigor, and make it rich, dark, and healthy.

100 bottles. All druggists.

If you have any trouble with your hair, we will express the name of your druggist.

A PRUDENT POLICY-HOLDER.

ONE DAY AT A TIME.

We carry too often the burden that never leaves us for this day, nor the next day, to bear.

How often we borrow the ill we deplore,

And shrink from the woes that never such worry's shift; let's be quit of the crime.

By living one day, just one day, at a time.

A day at a time—that's enough, if we know,

To spend all our strength on, and anxious thought, too;

Its tasks and its trials, its varied demands,

All easily handled with one pair of hands.

Each day it lives makes the record sublime;

God's works abundantly—one day at a time.

Then let tomorrow stand waiting, I say,

And deal with each one when its name is To-day.

Life's highest and best, that's the peak

By faithfullest footsteps—one day at a time.

JAMES BUCKHAM.

DON'T FAIL TO PLATTER.

There is a flattery, that is commendable, and pays big dividends. If you can say a kind word or praise any good point, don't hesitate to do it. Don't be afraid to tell a girl she is pretty, that her eyes are like violet or her voice like a bird's. It won't spoil her; it will do her good, especially if she is having a struggle with the big world, without a smile and a pleasant word. It may be flattery, but it is the kind that makes sunshine between soul and it. If the boys are to win their hearts, warned, perchance, by a pride in their gallantry. If they make a good appearance they like to keep about it, as well as girls. If they have brains don't fear to tell them; it will only encourage them to use them. The business man likes to know you appreciate the part he is playing in the world. If he is your father, let him know you know he is carrying his burden, and maybe you are making it heavy. A smile when he comes and a kiss, an inquiry of how the day has gone and a thousand little flattering attentions, although they may not lift the load, it lubricates the wheels and is flattery that should not be withheld.

NEVER HAD A CARRIAGE DRIVE.

A party of those who never enjoy the luxury of a carriage save when the death of some one makes for a free ride to the cemetery, the Rev. John Watson (Rev. MacLaren) told of a little girl standing at Fifth avenue and Thirtieth street. She was a ragged little thing, and she was watching the carriages rolling past with the most wistful eyes. "Well, little one," he said, "would you like to own one of those carriages?" The blue eyes turned up and there were tears in their corners. "I never rode in a carriage," she said, softly, "my little brother died before I was born."

Seasons change. We can't change them. We can't prevent the coming of cold and damp air.

But we can prevent the sore throats, the coughs, colds and lung troubles by taking Scott's Emulsion. Nothing does more to make the tender throat tough. Nothing gives such strength to weak lungs.

Don't take risks—when it's easy to be safe. Now is the season for taking Scott's Emulsion in season.

IN THE LUMP.

The Agonizing Pains of Rheumatism.

There is a disposition on the part of many people to sit up till religion, work or in bed. With the latter season comes they seem very devout. They read so many chapters in the Bible, abstain from so many evil practices, and say so many prayers, and then think they can talk it easier for a while in the service of God. They forget that the Lord looks upon the heart and requires them to walk humbly, have mercy, and do justly day by day. The special religious activity upon which they may have had place and relation, but they cannot dispense with true spiritual feeling, dependence upon the Lord Jesus Christ as the shining example, and a spiritual and godly life year by year. We are not to be so religious on specific occasions, but continually in the daily walk of the Christian, in fulfilling our duty to the God whom we serve, regular and faithful duty to the house of God on the Sabbath, and in the family, in society, and in business during the week, but should cultivate continually the grace of God and be so constantly in touch with him and his kingdom that everything shall be done to the glory of God and the commandment of our holy Christianity.

A PRUDENT POLICY-HOLDER.

The following letter was recently received by an insurance company from one of its policy-holders:

I hold a policy in your company for $2,000, on which I have paid the yearly premium. I have now to inform you that my physician advises me that I have a pronounced case of appendicitis, and the physician I consulted advised me when I have consulted him again, I can tell that the only hope of saving life is an operation, which, with hospital expenses, will cost $600, an amount that I have no means to pay. I am sensible that I owe it to you, who have so large a pecuniary interest in my life, to give you the option to pay the cost of this operation to save my life, that I may continue to pay to you the yearly premium on my policy (I believe that I am otherwise strong and healthy), or in the alternative to pay the $2,000 to my beneficiary within a few weeks. I am quite willing to be examined by any physician you may name and to have you select the operating surgeon. Immediate attention is, of course, imperative.—Chicago Record-Herald.

A CHARLES LAMB STORY.

The following characteristic story is told of Charles Lamb: Being awakened one night by a noise coming from the lower part of the house, he proceeded to discover the meaning of the same. He soon traced it to the plate room, and peeping through a window, discovered a burglar engaged in filling a bag with his valuables. Throwing open the door he stepped in to find the unashamed robber.

"What prompted you to risk your life at such a profession?" said the great Charles. "Were you hungry?" "I was," was the only and laconic reply.

"In that case, allow me to assist you to a leg of Lamb," said Charles, and kicked him out.

GUARANTEED OAK.

The Irish witness very often contributes to the gaiety of court-room and not infrequently, as in the case of one whom the Baltimore Sun quotes, by mixing some truth with his wit.

It was a salt brought by an instant message to obtain payment for some furniture. The defendant, an Irishman, was asked if he knew what quartered oak meant.

"Sure, sir, was the Irishman's quick reply. "It means that it's thumbs-garters."

He who serves the public has a sorry master.
