WINGS OF A DOVE.
At sunset, when the rosy light was dying,
Far down the pathway of the West,
I saw a lonely dove in silence flying,
To be at rest.
Plying of air, I cried, could I but borrow
Thy wandering wings, thy freedom
I'd fly away from every careful sorrow
And find my rest.
But when the dusk a filmy veil was weaving,
I saw the dove to seek her nest,
Deep in the forest where her mate
Was growing old.
There was true rest,
Peace, heart of mine! no longer sigh to wander
Low not thy life in fruitless quest,
There are no happy islands over yonder,
Come home and rest.
—Henry Van Dyke, D. D., in "The Builders and Other Poems."

THE BITTER BIT.
An old man reputed to be very deaf once ordered a Scotch-country dealer's establishment to purchase a suit of clothes. He haggled over the price, and the master of the shop, thinking he could speak quite safely, shouted in an irritated tone to the assistant: "It doesn't pay, but let him have it at his price and pin him with the trimmings."
The old man, however, at once started to leave the shop when he had got his cloth.
"Oh!" called out the assistant, "you have forgotten the trimmings!"
"Oh, yes, the trimmings!" replied the deaf one, with a twinkling in his eye. "Oh, wool you can just pin the next one with the trimmings!"

A Remarkable Record.
Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has a remarkable record. It has been in use for over thirty years, during which time many millions bottles have been sold and used. It has long been the standard and main reliance in the treatment of coughs, thousands of homes, yet during all this time no case has ever been reported to the manufacturers in which it failed to effect a cure. When given as soon as the child becomes hoarse or even as soon as the coughy cough appears, it will prevent an attack. It is pleasant to take, many children like it. It contains no opium or other harmful substance and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For sale by A. T. Brown.

Sincerely is more than a match for subtlety.
Prevent Diarrhea.—At the first symptoms of internal disorder, Chamberlain's Vegetable Pills should be resorted to immediately. Two or three of these salutary pills, taken before going to bed, followed by doses of one or two pills for two or three nights in succession, will serve as a preventative of attacks of dyspepsia and all discomforts which follow in the train of that fall disorder. The means are simple when the way is known.
Self-confidence is the apt to mark the coward.

Do Not Delay.—When, through debilitated digestive organs, poison finds its way into the blood, the prime consideration is to get the poison out as rapidly and as thoroughly as possible. Delay may mean disaster. Chamberlain's Vegetable Pills will be found a most valuable and effective medicine to assuage the intruder with. They never fail. They go at once to the seat of the trouble and work a permanent cure.

Culture has never been much of a success as a means of concentration.
ABOUT THAT COAT
You wear a coat. Why? To keep the cold out? No; to keep the warmth in. What of the body that has no warmth—the thin, poor body that lacks the healthy flesh and fat it needs?
For such we say that Scott's Emulsion provides the right kind of a coat. Why? Because Scott's Emulsion builds firm, solid flesh and supplies just enough fat to fill nature's requirements—no more. That means bodily warmth.

Most do not escape their debtors by blaming their delinquency.

GREAT THOUGHTS.
The greatest pleasure of life is love; the greatest treasure of contentment; the greatest possession in health; the greatest enemy is sleep.
Learning, like money, may be of use to a man, as to be utterly void of use; or if sleeping, may be of good management to make it serve the purpose of some happiness.
—You cannot dream yourself into a character; you must hammer and forge yourself one.

ATTIANCE COMBUSTION.
An Idaho dropper into a barrel of unsketched lines, started a fire in one of the buildings at the new state capital at Jackson, Miss., a few days ago. The watchman turned in an alarm. The firemen threw water upon the fire, but that caused hundreds of barrels of lime to ignite and the building was speedily destroyed, the department devoting its attention to saving the new structure and adjoining buildings.

There never was and never will be a universal panacea in one remedy for all ills to which flesh is heir. That would relieve one ill in turn would aggravate the others. We have, however, in Quinine Wine when obtained in a sound, unadulterated state a remedy for many and grievous ills. By its gradual and judicious use the frailty systems are led into convalescence and strength by the influence which Quinine exerts on Nature's own restorative. It relieves those to whom a chronic state of morbid despondency and lack of interest in life is a disease, and by tranquillizing the nerves dispenses to sound refreshing sleep. It imparts vigor to the action of the blood, which being stimulated, courses through the veins, strengthening the healthy, animal functions of the system, thereby making actively a necessary result, strengthening the frame and giving life to the digestive organs, which naturally demand increased substance—result, improved appetite. Northrop & Lyman of Toronto have given to the public their superior Quinine Wine by the opinion of scientists, the wine approaches nearest perfection of any on the market. All druggists sell it.

Miss Alice M. Smith, of So. Minneapolis, Minn., tells how woman's monthly suffering is permanently relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.
"I have never before given by endorsement for any medicine, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has added so much to my life and happiness that I feel like making an exception in this case. For two years every month I would have two days of severe pain and could find no relief, but one day while visiting a friend I ran across Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and she had used it with the best results and advised me to try it. I found that it was just what I needed, and now experience no pain, and only had to use a few bottles to bring about this wonderful change."—Miss Alice M. Smith, 804 Third Ave., South Minneapolis, Minn.—35000 Female Relief Association.

YOU CAN'T PREY AND PRAY.
"We do justice and judgment is more acceptable to the Lord than sacrifice" (Prov. 21:3). Satisfying some of our duties and obligations liberally on one day in the week will not atone for the neglect of the others. There are some people who, if the last man who sold them a bill of goods were shown into their pew on Sunday, would be as uncomfortable as Dives in Hell. If we could get Monday hallowed up to Sunday, those would be better and the world brighter. The man who pays twenty cents on the dollar to the creditors, and whose "primary grivings" are hallowed to the world, is an offence to the Almighty as great as the man who neglects his duties. The man who brings unjust allowances from people from whom he buys goods may profess to be a Christian, but he is a selfish thief, just the same. If we could get Monday hallowed up to Sunday, those would be better and the world brighter. The man who pays twenty cents on the dollar to the creditors, and whose "primary grivings" are hallowed to the world, is an offence to the Almighty as great as the man who neglects his duties. The man who brings unjust allowances from people from whom he buys goods may profess to be a Christian, but he is a selfish thief, just the same. "Ye cannot serve God and mammon."—Haker and Confectioner.

"We do justice and judgment is more acceptable to the Lord than sacrifice" (Prov. 21:3). Satisfying some of our duties and obligations liberally on one day in the week will not atone for the neglect of the others. There are some people who, if the last man who sold them a bill of goods were shown into their pew on Sunday, would be as uncomfortable as Dives in Hell.
