EDITORIAL NOTES.

In the local option contests on Monday at least twenty municipalities were successful in carrying the measure. In no municipality was the by-law repealed.

The new proposal of the Provincial Government to supply cheap electric power to the municipalities of Ontario is appreciated. The Advance Monday has the ... In every city, town ... ballot-box by two-thirds ... they were carried by very large majorities.

Mr. Bowes, who was nominated for Councillor-at-Large last week, feels appreciated because the Free Press pointed out that owing to his being a paid employee of the corporation he was disqualified, from holding a seat at the Council. The Free Press simply applied the word used in the statute. The paragraph relating to those who cannot legally hold such office is headed "Disqualification."

Guelph is about in the same position as Acton so far as the Municipal Council of the city is concerned. The candidates nominated retired in such numbers that hardly a quorum of Aldermen is left. The Herald says: "The course which will probably be taken will be to secure a quorum for the first meeting of the board and then arrange for fresh nominations. An effort will then be made to fill the vacancies by a ... in order to avoid the expense and delay of another election. In the meantime the drafting of committees, etc., will probably have to stand over." Acton should adopt a similar course. By all means let us have the vacancies filled by good, able, interested citizens, and by acclamation. It will be wise also on the part of the members elect to defer striking the standing committees until the required number of councillors is secured.

The electors in one hundred and eleven municipalities of Ontario were passed their will on the question of Local prohibition of the liquor traffic at the polls on Monday. The new legislation of the Whitney Government introduced at the beginning of last session received its first practical test in this vote, the requirement being that a vote of three-fifths of the total number of votes polled should be needed to put the local option by-law into effect. This placed a heavy handicap up at the temperance workers, but in spite of it quite a number of towns and townships carried the measure. Midland carried the measure by nearly two to one. Weston, which adjoins Toronto Junction carried by a vote of 227 to 115. Toronto Junction increased the majority of three years ago by about 150, the people announcing again in emphatic terms "We want no whiskey bars here." The fight there was long and bitter and the majority against the repeal was larger than the most sanguine believers in the measure had anticipated.

THE POWER BY-LAW CARRIED.

Acton's Property Owners Declare in favor of it by Nearly Five to One.

NO MUNICIPAL ELECTION--A VERY SMALL VOTE.

Acton has followed in the same course as numerous other municipalities interested in the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, and pronounced in its favor.

The election was held on Monday, but, there being no election for the Municipal Council, the usual incentive to bring out the electors was lacking and a very small vote was therefore polled. The polling was as follows:

	No. 1	No. 2	Total
For the By-law	51	20	70
Against the By-law	8	7	15

Majority for 55

The above may be taken as the candid unbiassed opinion of those who polled their votes. There was absolutely no effort put forth to influence the electors either for or against. The vote was the smallest polled on any by-law submitted by the Council in the past thirty years.

In all probability the electors will be called upon to vote again upon the question when the proposed contract for power is decided upon. It is generally held that the electors must ratify the contract before it is completed by the Council.

PRESENTATION AND SOCIAL.

Rev. J. C. Wilson B.A. and Mrs. Wilson Receive Valuable Presents from the Congregation

KINDLY WORDED ADDRESSES

When Rev. J. C. Wilson, B.A. pastor of Knox Church announced last Sunday for a congregational social the following evening he never imagined how much it had in store for himself and his beloved partner in life. Monday evening came wet and dreary but the congregation turned out in unusually large force. Preliminary to the serving of refreshments a brief programme of music and speeches was arranged for.

At eight o'clock Mr. W. S. Chisholm took the chair. The Sunday School Orchestra played several selections; Mrs. W. S. Chisholm sang "The Carnival," the choir rendered an anthem. Mr. Chisholm then called Rev. Mr. Wilson to the platform and read the following address:

To the Rev. J. C. Wilson, B.A.

DEAR SIR:—On behalf of a Committee, representative of the Congregation of this Church, it devolves upon us to convey to your good self the affection, esteem and respect in which you are held by the congregation; to accentuate this more emphatically we desire your acceptance of this fur lined coat.

In a brief address it would be impossible to convey to you, sir, the unanimity with which your people subscribed to the purchase of this gift, but we would assure, that whereas sometimes collectors are apt to meet with discouragement, in this instance there was nothing but hearty good will manifested and expressions of gladness, that at this particularly glad season of the year, our minister was not to be overlooked.

We recognize you, sir, as an instrument in our Heavenly Father's hands for the uplifting of our people, for the furtherance of His kingdom on earth, and the bringing into His fold of many dear to us; as witness the steady growth of this congregation.

Thus recognizing you we would not forget it as a duty owed as well as a pleasure to support and strengthen your hands at all times; to cheer you in this your life work; and in storm and stress to protect you if possible; so when duty calls you forth on a cold winter's day or night, we trust this garment may not only prove a warm and substantial protection, but also a reminder to cheer your heart that there is behind you a loving people, loyal to yourself, and loyal to our God.

It is in this spirit that we would present the coat, joined with the hope that the life-blinding mist may not soon be severed, but if possible become closer, with humble prayers, sir, for your own future happiness and prosperity.

Signed on behalf of the committee

W. S. CHISHOLM, Chairman.

Acton, 7th Jan., 1907.

Mr. John Cameron then stepped forward and presented Mr. Wilson with a beautiful fur-lined overcoat.

Before Mr. Wilson had an opportunity of replying Mrs. Wilson was invited to step to his side when Mrs. David Henderson read a very interesting address to her, expressive of the love and esteem of the congregation for the wife of their minister, and Mrs. Archibald Campbell uncovered the dining table on the platform revealing a beautiful dinner set of limoges china which was presented to Mrs. Wilson.

Rev. Mr. Wilson on behalf of Mrs. Wilson and himself accepted the valuable presents tendered and feelingly thanked the congregation for their very manifest love and generosity. He said they could not help but appreciate the gifts, and they appreciated much more the spirit which prompted such actions. He felt that it was worth much to have this assurance that his people were satisfied with his ministry. "If you love your minister, tell him so," he said. "He will do better work and be much encouraged in his efforts." Mrs. Wilson added a few words expressing her great appreciation of the kind and loving words expressed in the address presented her.

Brief remarks followed by D. Henderson M.P., ex Reeve Williams, John Cameron and others. Miss Gertie Johnstone sang a solo; a number was given by the quartette, and Mr. D. M. Henderson rendered a solo. Adjournment was then made to the basement where refreshments were served and a delightfully social hour was spent by pastor and people.

THE GREENOCK LITERARY SOCIETY.

The Greenock Literary Society held their fifth weekly meeting in Leslie's School on Thursday evening, Jan. 3rd. The subject for debate was—"Resolved that Limited Monarchy better secures the happiness of the people, than a Republic." The entire evening's entertainment was to have been exclusively by the ladies of the Society, but, owing to the inclemency of the weather, and the non-appearance of some of the debaters, it was decided to postpone it until some future time.

The evening was pleasantly spent by those present in an impromptu debate, subject of which was, "Resolved that the city boy is more ignorant of all pertaining to country life than the country boy is of all pertaining to city life." Messrs. Currie and McKnown, Misses Mann and McLachlan supported the affirmative, while Messrs. McKeown and Pearen, Misses Mann and Currie supported the negative. Some very mirth-provoking pictures of the country, and city boys were drawn by both sides in support of their arguments, all of which were roundly applauded by the audience. Mr. W. Near acting as judge summed up his decision in favor of the affirmative.

Miss M. Mann then favored the audience with a solo, which was followed by a few short impromptu speeches, after which the meeting was closed by singing the National Anthem.

BIGGEST MAIL ON RECORD.

On December 31st, the biggest mail ever received by one firm in Canada was delivered to the Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal. The number of subscription orders received by that paper on the above date would probably exceed the entire receipts of any other paper for the whole month. The publishers were at their wits' end for an hour or two but quickly met the emergency by adding a complete night and day staff, and will keep up to date entering the names. The public are realizing more than ever what big value they receive in that great weekly, and are not slow to take advantage of it. The premium picture "A Tug of War" given to all subscribers, is the best ever issued. No family should be without Canada's great family and farmer's paper this year.

Acton Merchants Know a Good Thing

The Wisconsin Jobber and Retailer, published at Milwaukee, says:

"The Free Press, Acton, Ont., Canada, for 1 ... way to my desk this week. ... I wish each one of our readers could look it over. Upon investigation I found Acton to be a town of about 1,500, and the paper contains eighty-five ads.—from Acton firms as well as a good batch of foreign. I should imagine that practically every business house in the town is represented, and from the general appearance of the different ads. I thought to say that the most interesting one to-day. The above advertising was contained in the regular outfit of ... The paper also contained an attractive holiday supplement well filled with advertising. Entirely local. A state of affairs which ye American editor sees in his dreams."

The January number of the Canadian Magazine comes pretty close to the popular idea of what a high-class publication should be. It contains 101 pages of excellently illustrated articles and cleverly written stories, and is lightened by an unusually liberal use of verse and other short things that a person can read in passing. The first article: "The Kings Highway" by Jane Lavender is a delightful treatment of what might reasonably be regarded as a prosaic subject. An idea of its significance may be gained from the first sentence: "Where is the Britisher in all the world who has not felt the tinge of his own importance as he steps forth on the King's highway?" The "Canadian" has certainly started the new year well. The announcement page promises for February a treat, in the shape of an illustrated article by Goldwin Smith entitled: "The Stage of Former Days."
