The bridge was being constructed by the Phoenix Bridge Co., of Phoenix ville, Pa. Twelve hundred and twentythree feet of the south shore section of the bridge collapsed. The cause of the accident is a mystery. The plans wer prepared under the direction of Mr. P L. Zyolopka, designing engineer of the Phoenix Bridge Company, and by a staff of engineers. He was absolutely certain that the plans and specifications for the construction of the bridge were absolutely safe, and he would not be afraid to build now on the same plans and specifications were he to build the bridge again. Every pound of steel that went into the bridge was tested, and only competent and picked men were employed in its construc tion. So far as he knew the piers were
