writes verse, but is too modest to sub mit it for publication. One day, when the farmer was going to town, he took a bundle of poems along with him and handed them to the editor. "They're protty fair," said the editor.

"His rhyme is all right, but there's something wrong with his feet. "Well," said the farmer, "I won't deny it; he has got corns !"

woman, will a freshly-blackened eve and traces of recent tears on her face, came harriedly into a pollor magistrate's office one morning, and neked for the arrost of her husband on a charge of beating her.

The brutal lendand was acrested and brought before the magistrate. He was a bard-looking citizen, large of frame, repulsive in appearance, and about three fourths drunk. The wife. on the contrary, was slight and delicate, and her hands were wrinkled and knotted with hard work. The trial was short. "Bill," as she called blut, mude no defence. He was apparently too laxy to take the tronble. The wife had cooled down considerably, and gave her testimony with extrana reluctance, as is the ourtom in such cases; but the guilt of the integner was clearly established, and the magistrate, after lecturing him sharply and indignastly on his brutality, was about to prosoribe the decessary nuntaliment, when the pale-faced victim époke up.

MARRIED TO A FLOWER VANE. Among the curious marriage custong prevalling in Ohina is one which is thus described by a writer in the Pamily Herald :

Not long ago a very pretty girl, the daughter of a prominent Chinese officlal, was married with great pomp to a large, red flower vase, representing a deceased bridegroom, who had a few days before his wedding was to be celebrated.

His inconsolable brids-elect declared that she would never marry anyone else, but would devote herself as a widow to the dead man's family. So the coremony with the flower vase was gone through with to enable the girl to enter the family, and the town proposes to build an arch to commemorate her devotion.

DOCTORS USING PATENT MEDICINES

The Honest Physician is Anxious to Cure and Uses the Best Available Remedies.

The proposed legislation through the Dominion Parliament for the regulation of the manufacture and sale of patent or proprietary medicines is of the utmost importance, and it is receiving a great deal of attention. not only by the proprietary medicine manufacturors, but also by the leading doctors and druggists. Every manufacturer of reliable and high class remedies welcomes the bill as a step in the right direction. The discussion has brought out the fact that the best physicians in Canada and on the continent approve of and prescribe Paycharacter. In a recent instance of very serious threat and lung trouble the patient had been using Psychine. Two leading United States specialists wore consulted, in addition to two entirent Canadian physicians. Upon learning what the patient was using, a sample of Psychine was taken and analyzed, with the result that the physicians advised its continuance, They prescribed no other medicine but Paychine, with the result that the pationt has fully recovered and up" hefore the keepest professional Justice (sternly)-You are charged criticism and analysis.
