Indirect Results of Eyestrain

When the eyes are not properly focused, the effort to see better vision wastes energy which should be used in renewing tissues and retaining the strength of the constitution, thus the indirect evils are greater than the direct ones.

We are thoroughly equipped to measure eye imperfections and to prescribe proper correction.

We grind our own lenses.

Poetry.

THE MAN WHO ROSE FROM NOTHING.

Around the world the fame is blown

Of fighting heroes, dead and gone

But we've a hero of our own—

The man who rose from nothing.

His name is George, and he is grand

And here he stands "Let's see him stand!"

The man who rose from nothing.

And in our legislative hall

He stands in figure and in fact,

"A head and shoulders over all."

The man who rose from nothing.

His efforts he will never relax,

His faith in figure and in fact,

And always calls an axe an axe.

The man who rose from nothing.

The gentleman in word and deed

And in our legislative hall

He stands in figure and in fact,

"A head and shoulders over all."

The man who rose from nothing.

His efforts he will never relax,

His faith in figure and in fact,

And always calls an axe an axe.

The man who rose from nothing.

His efforts he will never relax,

His faith in figure and in fact,

And always calls an axe an axe.

The man who rose from nothing.

His efforts he will never relax,

His faith in figure and in fact,

And always calls an axe an axe.

The man who rose from nothing.

His efforts he will never relax,

His faith in figure and in fact,

And always calls an axe an axe.

The man who rose from nothing.

His efforts he will never relax,

His faith in figure and in fact,

And always calls an axe an axe.

The man who rose from nothing.

His efforts he will never relax,

His faith in figure and in fact,

And always calls an axe an axe.

The man who rose from nothing.

His efforts he will never relax,

His faith in figure and in fact,

And always calls an axe an axe.

The man who rose from nothing.

His efforts he will never relax,

His faith in figure and in fact,

And always calls an axe an axe.

The man who rose from nothing.

His efforts he will never relax,
