"WE CONQUER IN THE END"

We're training for the conflict, we're
to win the battle of Right;
We mean to stop the Temperance, and
battle for the right;
We're young and strong and ardent,
and we'll conquer in the end;
On us, her youth and innocence, and we'll conquer in the end.

We stand in life's bright morning; all
We long to live for the veterans who
The time is almost over, but we've our lives to spend
In carrying on the warfare, and will Fierce is the strife, and ceaseless, and
That devotes our country, and works such mighty won.
But we've lost our Captain, who will
He cannot be defeated, and will conquer in the end.

They rally round the standard, and
The banner flies—Temperance, the
The war for purity;
Our watchword, "No surrender!" each
Our ringed sword sends—
And we'll conquer in the end.
—A. Berry.

ORIGIN OF THE "HIP-HIP, HUR-RAH!"

Prince Bushiel has been inquiring as to the derivation of our "Hip, hip, hurrah!" The following extract on the subject is from "The Tailor" of 1882. "During the stirring times of Crusades the chivalry of Europe was excited to arms by the well-known Peter the Hermit. While preaching the Crusade this furious zealot was accustomed to exhibit a banner emblazoned with the following letters—H. E. P., the initials of the Latin words, 'Hierosolyma Est—Pendit, Jerusalem is destroyed.' The people in some of the cities which he visited, not being acquainted with the Latin word and pronounced the inscription as if one word—Hep. The followers of the Hermit were accustomed whenever an unfortunate deed appeared in the streets, to raise the cry, 'Hep, hep, hurrah!' to hunt him down, and dash upon the defenceless insults their maiden swords, before they essayed their temper with the scimitar of the Saracen."—Dundee Advertiser.

IF ONE WERE A BOY AGAIN

In some papers of the late Dr. Harper, of the University of Chicago, was found a memorandum which read like this:

"If I were a boy again, I would read every book I could reach. I would strive to find out from good bookshop good men lived."

"If I were a boy again, I would cultivate new pathways with the faults of others, and study my own with greater care. I would strive for humility."

"If I were a boy again, I would more and more cultivate the company of those other, whose grace of person and mind would help me on in my own work. I would seek good company."

"If I were a boy again, I would study the Bible more than I did. I would make it a mental companion. The Bible is necessary for every boy."

"If I were a boy again, I would study the life and character of our Saviour persistently that I might become more and more like unto Him."

Foundation Principles

First: When we undertake to fill your prescriptions, we give them our undivided attention and best care. The patient's welfare is our first consideration.

THEIR WISH

It was at dinner, and there had been chicken, of which the little daughter of the house had partaken with great freedom. "I want some more chicken," said Frances. "I think you have had as much as it is good for you, dear," replied Frances' mamma. "You can't have more now; but here is a whisp that you and mamma can pull. That will be fun. You pull one side and I pull the other, and whenever gets the longer end can have his wish come true. Why, baby, you've got it! What was your wish, Frances?" "I wish for some more chicken," said Frances promptly.

THE VILLAGE BLACKSMITH

A gentleman from London, who possesses a good bass voice, was spending his holidays at a village in Wales. A concert was given up in behalf of the local charity at which the London singer gave a fine rendering of "The Village Blacksmith." He sat down and tunefully sang a solo chanson, a bit of which he pulled him by the coat tail, and whispered in his ear. "What is that, sir? You see, I'm the blacksmith here. You might sing another verse, and put in something about me repairing blythe, as well as driving black with."

BUSINESSSES INJURED

Business will be greatly injured, we are told, by the adoption of local option. You may know, to adduce the facts, the saloon business; the gambling business; the pawn shop business; the Sabbath-breaking business; the poor house business; the sutlers business; the police court business; the crime breeding business; the orphan-making business; the divorce business; the thief business; the hangman's business. It will be a bad day for those industries should local option carry.

When love works it wastes no time watching the clock.

THE KNIGHTS NIMROD

The London Daily Telegraph says: "It is too much to hope, of course, that constant difficulties against the above in question will lead eventually to its total extinction. There are too many concert-goers, apparently, who like to hear each song twice over—like that of Browning's "wise thrush." Moreover, as long as human nature remains what it is, there will always be artists only too willing to respond to the compliment implied for an encore. But a greater nuisance, if that is possible, than the people who applaud the points of the knight is the knight himself, those who break in with ill-timed tributes before it is finished. An example of this occurred only the other day during a performance of Grieg's pianoforte sonata, the victim being Mr. Sloane, who thus found himself interrupted during pause in the middle of a movement. Nine times out of ten, in our experience, the full effect of Webber's "Invitation in Value" is spoilt in like fashion by premature applause, and it would be easy to quote other instances. One of these days, perchance, some will have to be compelled to sing again to audience, like the knight of legend, a hint that a place has shown to its conclusion. Would M. de Pachmann, one wonders, like to set the fashion by holding up a little flag at the end of each piece played by him—or by blowing a whistle, say, as an alternative?

A Thorough Pill.—To clear the stomach and bowels of impurities and irritants is necessary when their action is irregular. The pills that will do this thoroughly are Parmentier's Vegetable Pill, which acts quickly in action but gently in results. The courage painlessly and effectively, and work a permanent cure. They can be used without fear by the most delicately constituted, as there are no painful effects preceding their gentle operation.

You can give nothing to men until you give them yourself.

Liniments and Plasters Did
No Good But DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS Cured

Mr. Arch. Schuette, Black Point, N.B., writes—"For years I was troubled with weak back, and had to lie in bed for days, being scarcely able to turn myself, and have had liniments and plasters but nothing seem to do any good. I was about to give up in despair when I met my doctor, Dr. D. Kidney Pill, and after taking two boxes I am now well and able to do my work. I am positive Dr. D. Kidney Pill is the best for back trouble, for I have tried all kidney sufferers to give them a trial.
