

The Acton Free Press.

VOLUME XXXV.—NO. 42.

Every Subscription Paid in Advance.

ACTON, ONTARIO, THURSDAY MORNING, APRIL 14, 1910.

Subscription Price, $100 Per Annum.

SINGLE COPIES—THREE CENTS.

The Acton Free Press

EVERY THURSDAY MORNING
Free Press Office, 4111, STREET, ACTON, ONT.
Terms of Subscription—One dollar per year strictly in advance. All subscriptions are payable in advance. The date to which every subscription is paid is indicated on the address label.
Advertising Rates—Transient advertisements, without special directions, will be inserted all for the same rate. Permanent advertisements must be paid in advance. Advertisements will be changed once each month if desired. For change orders that have been inserted on the regular basis must be paid for at regular intervals.
Change for contract advertisements must be in the office by noon on Tuesday.
Accounts payable monthly.
English office, 2111, Street, London, Ont.
H. P. MOORE, Editor and Proprietor.

Business Directory.

MEDICAL.
T. HOS. GRAY, M. D., C. M., MCGILL.
E. L. O'P. ENGLISH.
MAYNARD HARRIS MEDICAL ASSOCIATION.
JAMES H. HOLMES, M. D. (London).
R. H. HOLMES, M. D. (London).
J. H. HOLMES, M. D. (London).
L. BENNETT, L.D.S., DENTIST.
E. AND J. HARDY & CO.,
W. MILLIGAN,
W. J. McNEIL,
JAMES McDONALD,
The Wellington Mutual Insurance Company.

RUNNING ON SAVAGE TIME

Our workmen do the cleaning, repairing and adjusting of all the Grand Watch Works of this end of the line, and they are very particular.
We give you the watch the same personal attention at the price of ordinary work.

SAVAGE & CO.

G. T. H. Watch Inspectors
GUELPH, ONT.

WONDERLAND MOVING PICTURE SHOW

Open Every Night—7 to 10 o'clock.
BEST FILMS PROCURABLE (Changed Nightly).
Patronized by the leading citizens.
Admission—5c
Acton Amusement Co.

ENGLISH LIQUID House Paints

C. C. SPEIGHT
Has received the sole agency for this famous paint, manufactured by "Brandshaw" Henderson, Ltd. It is the purest paint sold. Popular Colors.
English Pure Floor Paints
Anchor Carriage Glass Paints and Varnishes
Paint Brushes of all kinds

C. C. Speight Mill St. Acton

GEORGETOWN FIORAL CO., Limited.

CUT FLOWER GROWERS.
Funeral and Wedding Orders.
Specialty.
All orders placed with E. J. HARRARD, Druggist, Acton, will receive prompt attention.

The EXCELSIOR BAKERY

Having recently installed some of the latest improved machinery for bread making, is now in a better position than ever to supply our customers with Bread, Cakes, etc., of first-class quality.
We also carry a splendid stock of Groceries and Confectionery.
Ice Cream, and all kinds of Fruit in season.
T. Statham & Son
95-97, Quebec St. GUELPH, ONT.

BUY IT AT BONDS

Indisputable Proof
We will show you a sample of RUBEROID ROOFING
17 YEARS OF SERVICE
The BOND HARDWARE Co. Limited
Retail Phone 07 GUELPH, ONT.

HOW WRINKLES COME

Many a young woman in this town is wearing a "prematurely old" look through defective eye sight.
Defective Vision is the Cause
When reading is by effort, and the eyes are strained, it is time to come to us before the wrinkles become permanent. The right glasses will make reading a pleasure and smooth out many a wrinkle.
A. D. SAVAGE
Optometrist & Optician
MOVING—About March 25th.
"RIGHT AT THE POST OFFICE."
Cor. WYNDHAM & DOWLING ST. GUELPH, ONT.

Select Family Reading

THE SEQUEL OF A TEMPTATION
By Harriet Louisa Smith
MARK had gone over his books twenty times in order to account for the extra ten-dollar bill which was in his pocket. He was puzzled. He had never seen the money, and he had never seen the bill. He had never seen the money, and he had never seen the bill. He had never seen the money, and he had never seen the bill.

What Happened To Jones

And a lot of other People is Described in THE HOME PAPER
TAKE IT REGULARLY
The Acton Free Press.

Miss Florence Murray Spring Millinery Display

All the ladies of Acton and vicinity are cordially invited, by Miss Murray to call and inspect the many new styles shown. Miss Murray, of Worcester, an experienced milliner, is making Miss Murray. Lutter and Eggs taken on exchange.

W. GIMSON PAINTER PAPER HANGING PICTURE FRAMER, ETC.

Begs to inform the ladies of Acton and surrounding vicinity that he has been appointed Agent for three of the largest Wall Paper houses in Canada. 1500 samples to choose from. Prices Right.
Also that he is prepared to repair all Granite, Aluminum and Enamelled Ware. Knives and Scissors Ground—Furniture Repaired.
SHEPHERD, MILL STREET, ACTON.

SPRING and SUMMER SUITINGS

Remember, we are Sole Agents for the HOUSE OF HOBBERLIN TORONTO (Tailors to the Canadian Gentlemen).
We desire to impress on you that we make to individual measure only.
Call and see the latest range of samples in Canada—also best value.
Fit and Style Satisfaction guaranteed.
Suits to measure from $15.00 up.

L. N. E. La Fontaine

95-97, Quebec St. GUELPH, ONT.

Poetry

THE LAND OF NOBLE DEEDS
He found it in a charred book That lay within the log cabin, And based on with glad surprise, With quivering breath and shivering eyes.
And came to founts and fountains, To caverns and chiding fountains, To fountains with peeling streets, For 'twas the Land of Noble Deeds!

DEAN

One day Billy was a stranger; at the end of a week he was as much at home as any boy on the street.
"We are glad to see you," said Mr. Farr, "but you are not the same thing."
"Why is this Billy such a favorite?" Mr. Farr asked Mr. Farr.
"I don't know," said Mr. Farr, "I am watching to find out."
"When three more weeks had passed, she thought she knew."
A group of boys were out in front of her gate one afternoon, and she heard one of them say: "What's that?"
"What's that?" she asked, as from superior height of experience, she thought she knew.
"What's that?" she asked, as from superior height of experience, she thought she knew.

DEAN

There could be no question as to what had happened. Warren needed the money, and had borrowed it, intending to replace it from his next week's salary.
After dinner that night Mark went to Warren. In the latter's little upstairs room there was a succession of trying scenes. At the start Warren was silent, but that mood changed, and, now, with the fear of exposure, he flung himself on Mark's mercy. "I needed money so," he pleaded.
Mark talked long to Warren. "I will stand by you," he promised. "You've been mighty good to me," he said. "I don't deserve it. I should think you'd wish your hands off me."
"Then the older boy thought back to his own temptation not many months before. "When," he said, "we all need to pray often. One never knows when temptation will face him. In this case it was to you, and out of this temptation try to grow stronger, so you may help another when tempted."

A LITTLE PATRIOT

When Giuseppe Rossi came from Italy, to "the teacher" and "mother" went to live in a part of New York called "the street of all nations."
"People who live there," said every part of the world.
The woman who cleaned the hall in the house where Giuseppe lived was named Mrs. Rossi. She was using a worn-out, tattered old flag on Washington's birthday to clean the dust. Suddenly she was violently attacked by the small Italian boy who had been beating her about the body with his strong little fists. Then he lowered his head, and, running at her like a goat, he butted her off the steps to the sidewalk.
"How late he was arraigned before a magistrate, the boy explained. Pointing to the woman, who appeared against him, he said: "She clean with a flag. She whip me with it—it da flaga what ever they in school." "We look a him so," and Giuseppe reverently raised his hand in salute.

SUCCESSFUL WOMEN

It has been widely suggested, says an exchange, that the women who succeed are those who go to their work with a determination born of courage and positive conviction, and whose energies are absolutely those. It is true they are often just as well paid for the same work as men, but that is one of the mistakes of the day that will soon be rectified. "We are growing wiser, and one of the things that is most important for everyone to know is that there is no sex in brains. Those who fall are usually those who expect too much and pressure, on account of their being women. There is plenty of work and money for the sharp woman who will fight every difficulty. Every body has a fighter, whether it be a man or woman. Fighters who see nothing but success at the thing end of the long road, who believe in themselves and their efforts, and who plan their daily battles as a general plan campaign; fighters who are brave, above all, and generous in the struggle; who are the possessors of daily life, and who continue to progress and respect by thoroughly deservings."

DEAN

One day Billy was a stranger; at the end of a week he was as much at home as any boy on the street.
"We are glad to see you," said Mr. Farr, "but you are not the same thing."
"Why is this Billy such a favorite?" Mr. Farr asked Mr. Farr.
"I don't know," said Mr. Farr, "I am watching to find out."
"When three more weeks had passed, she thought she knew."
A group of boys were out in front of her gate one afternoon, and she heard one of them say: "What's that?"
"What's that?" she asked, as from superior height of experience, she thought she knew.
"What's that?" she asked, as from superior height of experience, she thought she knew.

DEAN

There could be no question as to what had happened. Warren needed the money, and had borrowed it, intending to replace it from his next week's salary.
After dinner that night Mark went to Warren. In the latter's little upstairs room there was a succession of trying scenes. At the start Warren was silent, but that mood changed, and, now, with the fear of exposure, he flung himself on Mark's mercy. "I needed money so," he pleaded.
Mark talked long to Warren. "I will stand by you," he promised. "You've been mighty good to me," he said. "I don't deserve it. I should think you'd wish your hands off me."
"Then the older boy thought back to his own temptation not many months before. "When," he said, "we all need to pray often. One never knows when temptation will face him. In this case it was to you, and out of this temptation try to grow stronger, so you may help another when tempted."

A LITTLE PATRIOT

When Giuseppe Rossi came from Italy, to "the teacher" and "mother" went to live in a part of New York called "the street of all nations."
"People who live there," said every part of the world.
The woman who cleaned the hall in the house where Giuseppe lived was named Mrs. Rossi. She was using a worn-out, tattered old flag on Washington's birthday to clean the dust. Suddenly she was violently attacked by the small Italian boy who had been beating her about the body with his strong little fists. Then he lowered his head, and, running at her like a goat, he butted her off the steps to the sidewalk.
"How late he was arraigned before a magistrate, the boy explained. Pointing to the woman, who appeared against him, he said: "She clean with a flag. She whip me with it—it da flaga what ever they in school." "We look a him so," and Giuseppe reverently raised his hand in salute.

SUCCESSFUL WOMEN

It has been widely suggested, says an exchange, that the women who succeed are those who go to their work with a determination born of courage and positive conviction, and whose energies are absolutely those. It is true they are often just as well paid for the same work as men, but that is one of the mistakes of the day that will soon be rectified. "We are growing wiser, and one of the things that is most important for everyone to know is that there is no sex in brains. Those who fall are usually those who expect too much and pressure, on account of their being women. There is plenty of work and money for the sharp woman who will fight every difficulty. Every body has a fighter, whether it be a man or woman. Fighters who see nothing but success at the thing end of the long road, who believe in themselves and their efforts, and who plan their daily battles as a general plan campaign; fighters who are brave, above all, and generous in the struggle; who are the possessors of daily life, and who continue to progress and respect by thoroughly deservings."

DEAN

One day Billy was a stranger; at the end of a week he was as much at home as any boy on the street.
"We are glad to see you," said Mr. Farr, "but you are not the same thing."
"Why is this Billy such a favorite?" Mr. Farr asked Mr. Farr.
"I don't know," said Mr. Farr, "I am watching to find out."
"When three more weeks had passed, she thought she knew."
A group of boys were out in front of her gate one afternoon, and she heard one of them say: "What's that?"
"What's that?" she asked, as from superior height of experience, she thought she knew.
"What's that?" she asked, as from superior height of experience, she thought she knew.

DEAN

There could be no question as to what had happened. Warren needed the money, and had borrowed it, intending to replace it from his next week's salary.
After dinner that night Mark went to Warren. In the latter's little upstairs room there was a succession of trying scenes. At the start Warren was silent, but that mood changed, and, now, with the fear of exposure, he flung himself on Mark's mercy. "I needed money so," he pleaded.
Mark talked long to Warren. "I will stand by you," he promised. "You've been mighty good to me," he said. "I don't deserve it. I should think you'd wish your hands off me."
"Then the older boy thought back to his own temptation not many months before. "When," he said, "we all need to pray often. One never knows when temptation will face him. In this case it was to you, and out of this temptation try to grow stronger, so you may help another when tempted."

A LITTLE PATRIOT

When Giuseppe Rossi came from Italy, to "the teacher" and "mother" went to live in a part of New York called "the street of all nations."
"People who live there," said every part of the world.
The woman who cleaned the hall in the house where Giuseppe lived was named Mrs. Rossi. She was using a worn-out, tattered old flag on Washington's birthday to clean the dust. Suddenly she was violently attacked by the small Italian boy who had been beating her about the body with his strong little fists. Then he lowered his head, and, running at her like a goat, he butted her off the steps to the sidewalk.
"How late he was arraigned before a magistrate, the boy explained. Pointing to the woman, who appeared against him, he said: "She clean with a flag. She whip me with it—it da flaga what ever they in school." "We look a him so," and Giuseppe reverently raised his hand in salute.

SUCCESSFUL WOMEN

It has been widely suggested, says an exchange, that the women who succeed are those who go to their work with a determination born of courage and positive conviction, and whose energies are absolutely those. It is true they are often just as well paid for the same work as men, but that is one of the mistakes of the day that will soon be rectified. "We are growing wiser, and one of the things that is most important for everyone to know is that there is no sex in brains. Those who fall are usually those who expect too much and pressure, on account of their being women. There is plenty of work and money for the sharp woman who will fight every difficulty. Every body has a fighter, whether it be a man or woman. Fighters who see nothing but success at the thing end of the long road, who believe in themselves and their efforts, and who plan their daily battles as a general plan campaign; fighters who are brave, above all, and generous in the struggle; who are the possessors of daily life, and who continue to progress and respect by thoroughly deservings."

DEAN

One day Billy was a stranger; at the end of a week he was as much at home as any boy on the street.
"We are glad to see you," said Mr. Farr, "but you are not the same thing."
"Why is this Billy such a favorite?" Mr. Farr asked Mr. Farr.
"I don't know," said Mr. Farr, "I am watching to find out."
"When three more weeks had passed, she thought she knew."
A group of boys were out in front of her gate one afternoon, and she heard one of them say: "What's that?"
"What's that?" she asked, as from superior height of experience, she thought she knew.
"What's that?" she asked, as from superior height of experience, she thought she knew.

DEAN

There could be no question as to what had happened. Warren needed the money, and had borrowed it, intending to replace it from his next week's salary.
After dinner that night Mark went to Warren. In the latter's little upstairs room there was a succession of trying scenes. At the start Warren was silent, but that mood changed, and, now, with the fear of exposure, he flung himself on Mark's mercy. "I needed money so," he pleaded.
Mark talked long to Warren. "I will stand by you," he promised. "You've been mighty good to me," he said. "I don't deserve it. I should think you'd wish your hands off me."
"Then the older boy thought back to his own temptation not many months before. "When," he said, "we all need to pray often. One never knows when temptation will face him. In this case it was to you, and out of this temptation try to grow stronger, so you may help another when tempted."

A LITTLE PATRIOT

When Giuseppe Rossi came from Italy, to "the teacher" and "mother" went to live in a part of New York called "the street of all nations."
"People who live there," said every part of the world.
The woman who cleaned the hall in the house where Giuseppe lived was named Mrs. Rossi. She was using a worn-out, tattered old flag on Washington's birthday to clean the dust. Suddenly she was violently attacked by the small Italian boy who had been beating her about the body with his strong little fists. Then he lowered his head, and, running at her like a goat, he butted her off the steps to the sidewalk.
"How late he was arraigned before a magistrate, the boy explained. Pointing to the woman, who appeared against him, he said: "She clean with a flag. She whip me with it—it da flaga what ever they in school." "We look a him so," and Giuseppe reverently raised his hand in salute.

SUCCESSFUL WOMEN

It has been widely suggested, says an exchange, that the women who succeed are those who go to their work with a determination born of courage and positive conviction, and whose energies are absolutely those. It is true they are often just as well paid for the same work as men, but that is one of the mistakes of the day that will soon be rectified. "We are growing wiser, and one of the things that is most important for everyone to know is that there is no sex in brains. Those who fall are usually those who expect too much and pressure, on account of their being women. There is plenty of work and money for the sharp woman who will fight every difficulty. Every body has a fighter, whether it be a man or woman. Fighters who see nothing but success at the thing end of the long road, who believe in themselves and their efforts, and who plan their daily battles as a general plan campaign; fighters who are brave, above all, and generous in the struggle; who are the possessors of daily life, and who continue to progress and respect by thoroughly deservings."

DEAN

One day Billy was a stranger; at the end of a week he was as much at home as any boy on the street.
"We are glad to see you," said Mr. Farr, "but you are not the same thing."
"Why is this Billy such a favorite?" Mr. Farr asked Mr. Farr.
"I don't know," said Mr. Farr, "I am watching to find out."
"When three more weeks had passed, she thought she knew."
A group of boys were out in front of her gate one afternoon, and she heard one of them say: "What's that?"
"What's that?" she asked, as from superior height of experience, she thought she knew.
"What's that?" she asked, as from superior height of experience, she thought she knew.

DEAN

There could be no question as to what had happened. Warren needed the money, and had borrowed it, intending to replace it from his next week's salary.
After dinner that night Mark went to Warren. In the latter's little upstairs room there was a succession of trying scenes. At the start Warren was silent, but that mood changed, and, now, with the fear of exposure, he flung himself on Mark's mercy. "I needed money so," he pleaded.
Mark talked long to Warren. "I will stand by you," he promised. "You've been mighty good to me," he said. "I don't deserve it. I should think you'd wish your hands off me."
"Then the older boy thought back to his own temptation not many months before. "When," he said, "we all need to pray often. One never knows when temptation will face him. In this case it was to you, and out of this temptation try to grow stronger, so you may help another when tempted."

A LITTLE PATRIOT

When Giuseppe Rossi came from Italy, to "the teacher" and "mother" went to live in a part of New York called "the street of all nations."
"People who live there," said every part of the world.
The woman who cleaned the hall in the house where Giuseppe lived was named Mrs. Rossi. She was using a worn-out, tattered old flag on Washington's birthday to clean the dust. Suddenly she was violently attacked by the small Italian boy who had been beating her about the body with his strong little fists. Then he lowered his head, and, running at her like a goat, he butted her off the steps to the sidewalk.
"How late he was arraigned before a magistrate, the boy explained. Pointing to the woman, who appeared against him, he said: "She clean with a flag. She whip me with it—it da flaga what ever they in school." "We look a him so," and Giuseppe reverently raised his hand in salute.

SUCCESSFUL WOMEN

It has been widely suggested, says an exchange, that the women who succeed are those who go to their work with a determination born of courage and positive conviction, and whose energies are absolutely those. It is true they are often just as well paid for the same work as men, but that is one of the mistakes of the day that will soon be rectified. "We are growing wiser, and one of the things that is most important for everyone to know is that there is no sex in brains. Those who fall are usually those who expect too much and pressure, on account of their being women. There is plenty of work and money for the sharp woman who will fight every difficulty. Every body has a fighter, whether it be a man or woman. Fighters who see nothing but success at the thing end of the long road, who believe in themselves and their efforts, and who plan their daily battles as a general plan campaign; fighters who are brave, above all, and generous in the struggle; who are the possessors of daily life, and who continue to progress and respect by thoroughly deservings."

DEAN

One day Billy was a stranger; at the end of a week he was as much at home as any boy on the street.
"We are glad to see you," said Mr. Farr, "but you are not the same thing."
"Why is this Billy such a favorite?" Mr. Farr asked Mr. Farr.
"I don't know," said Mr. Farr, "I am watching to find out."
"When three more weeks had passed, she thought she knew."
A group of boys were out in front of her gate one afternoon, and she heard one of them say: "What's that?"
"What's that?" she asked, as from superior height of experience, she thought she knew.
"What's that?" she asked, as from superior height of experience, she thought she knew.

DEAN

There could be no question as to what had happened. Warren needed the money, and had borrowed it, intending to replace it from his next week's salary.
After dinner that night Mark went to Warren. In the latter's little upstairs room there was a succession of trying scenes. At the start Warren was silent, but that mood changed, and, now, with the fear of exposure, he flung himself on Mark's mercy. "I needed money so," he pleaded.
Mark talked long to Warren. "I will stand by you," he promised. "You've been mighty good to me," he said. "I don't deserve it. I should think you'd wish your hands off me."
"Then the older boy thought back to his own temptation not many months before. "When," he said, "we all need to pray often. One never knows when temptation will face him. In this case it was to you, and out of this temptation try to grow stronger, so you may help another when tempted."

A LITTLE PATRIOT

When Giuseppe Rossi came from Italy, to "the teacher" and "mother" went to live in a part of New York called "the street of all nations."
"People who live there," said every part of the world.
The woman who cleaned the hall in the house where Giuseppe lived was named Mrs. Rossi. She was using a worn-out, tattered old flag on Washington's birthday to clean the dust. Suddenly she was violently attacked by the small Italian boy who had been beating her about the body with his strong little fists. Then he lowered his head, and, running at her like a goat, he butted her off the steps to the sidewalk.
"How late he was arraigned before a magistrate, the boy explained. Pointing to the woman, who appeared against him, he said: "She clean with a flag. She whip me with it—it da flaga what ever they in school." "We look a him so," and Giuseppe reverently raised his hand in salute.

SUCCESSFUL WOMEN

It has been widely suggested, says an exchange, that the women who succeed are those who go to their work with a determination born of courage and positive conviction, and whose energies are absolutely those. It is true they are often just as well paid for the same work as men, but that is one of the mistakes of the day that will soon be rectified. "We are growing wiser, and one of the things that is most important for everyone to know is that there is no sex in brains. Those who fall are usually those who expect too much and pressure, on account of their being women. There is plenty of work and money for the sharp woman who will fight every difficulty. Every body has a fighter, whether it be a man or woman. Fighters who see nothing but success at the thing end of the long road, who believe in themselves and their efforts, and who plan their daily battles as a general plan campaign; fighters who are brave, above all, and generous in the struggle; who are the possessors of daily life, and who continue to progress and respect by thoroughly deservings."

DEAN

One day Billy was a stranger; at the end of a week he was as much at home as any boy on the street.
"We are glad to see you," said Mr. Farr, "but you are not the same thing."
"Why is this Billy such a favorite?" Mr. Farr asked Mr. Farr.
"I don't know," said Mr. Farr, "I am watching to find out."
"When three more weeks had passed, she thought she knew."
A group of boys were out in front of her gate one afternoon, and she heard one of them say: "What's that?"
"What's that?" she asked, as from superior height of experience, she thought she knew.
"What's that?" she asked, as from superior height of experience, she thought she knew.

DEAN

There could be no question as to what had happened. Warren needed the money, and had borrowed it, intending to replace it from his next week's salary.
After dinner that night Mark went to Warren. In the latter's little upstairs room there was a succession of trying scenes. At the start Warren was silent, but that mood changed, and, now, with the fear of exposure, he flung himself on Mark's mercy. "I needed money so," he pleaded.
Mark talked long to Warren. "I will stand by you," he promised. "You've been mighty good to me," he said. "I don't deserve it. I should think you'd wish your hands off me."
"Then the older boy thought back to his own temptation not many months before. "When," he said, "we all need to pray often. One never knows when temptation will face him. In this case it was to you, and out of this temptation try to grow stronger, so you may help another when tempted."

A LITTLE PATRIOT

When Giuseppe Rossi came from Italy, to "the teacher" and "mother" went to live in a part of New York called "the street of all nations."
"People who live there," said every part of the world.
The woman who cleaned the hall in the house where Giuseppe lived was named Mrs. Rossi. She was using a worn-out, tattered old flag on Washington's birthday to clean the dust. Suddenly she was violently attacked by the small Italian boy who had been beating her about the body with his strong little fists. Then he lowered his head, and, running at her like a goat, he butted her off the steps to the sidewalk.
"How late he was arraigned before a magistrate, the boy explained. Pointing to the woman, who appeared against him, he said: "She clean with a flag. She whip me with it—it da flaga what ever they in school." "We look a him so," and Giuseppe reverently raised his hand in salute.

SUCCESSFUL WOMEN

It has been widely suggested, says an exchange, that the women who succeed are those who go to their work with a determination born of courage and positive conviction, and whose energies are absolutely those. It is true they are often just as well paid for the same work as men, but that is one of the mistakes of the day that will soon be rectified. "We are growing wiser, and one of the things that is most important for everyone to know is that there is no sex in brains. Those who fall are usually those who expect too much and pressure, on account of their being women. There is plenty of work and money for the sharp woman who will fight every difficulty. Every body has a fighter, whether it be a man or woman. Fighters who see nothing but success at the thing end of the long road, who believe in themselves and their efforts, and who plan their daily battles as a general plan campaign; fighters who are brave, above all, and generous in the struggle; who are the possessors of daily life, and who continue to progress and respect by thoroughly deservings."