

THE CROWNING INDIIGNITY

Just came my brother Alfred, he is two years older than I am. I try to give to him what he gets through. I try to give to him what he gets through. I try to give to him what he gets through.

EXAMINE YOUR DAILY PAPER

Does the daily or weekly paper which you welcome to your home and pay for advertise intoxicating drinks and licentious entertainments?

Does it, friend? Please look and see. The chances are that you will find larger beer recommendations, and perhaps display advertising and reading notices designed to popularize or defend the liquor traffic.

Perhaps it will contain some distorted quotation from a religious or temperance paper, adroitly fixed up to indicate opposition to temperance laws, or sympathy for the saloon business.

Comparatively few of our great daily newspapers have been true enough to the welfare of their readers, or brave enough in relation to the drink traffic, to cast out this class of advertising. They prefer cash to conscience.

But here is what a Kentucky paper said on this matter, and it is in substance what every daily and weekly newspaper should forthwith proceed to say:

"All contracts for whisky advertisements in the Ledger have expired, and from this date no whisky advertisements will appear in these columns at any price. If saloon people desire to expel us from the market (?) of any particular brand of whisky, they may look elsewhere for a medium through which to extol their virtues. The Ledger makes no claim to sanctification, but when a saloon-keeper tells us that six dollars' worth of advertising in the Ledger has sold for him $1,200 worth of whisky, it makes us feel that we have been in a small measure responsible for the damage done, and we promise to 'shut no more.'"

THE JAPANESE DENTIST

In most forms of industry and craftsmanship Japan is now regarded as a formidable rival of the Western nations. In the practice of dentistry, however, she seems to be delightfully primitive.

The dental doctor in the land of Mikado draws teeth with his fingers without the aid of any instrument. He takes the head of the patient in such a way that the mouth must remain open. Then, putting the thumb and index finger into the patient's mouth, he, as the case may be, draws five, six, or seven teeth a minute, the patient during the time being unable to close his mouth. The explanation of the procedure is drawing teeth is said to be due to the fact that the dentist undergoes in early youth a plank walk as driven in and the board is placed on the ground. The type has to pull out the nails without moving the board. To begin with, a soft wood is used, and then harder wood up to oak or some wood even harder. When the apprentice can draw the nails from the hardest wood without moving it, he is proficient in his art.

French chalk, mixed with a little menthylated spirits to the consistency of cream, if placed over a greasy spot in silk material, and then covered with brown paper, and fringed, will never fail to remove the stain. Tea, coffee, wine and fruit stains, are equally well removed by washing in boiling water containing ammonia, into which a little borax has been dissolved. Blood stains may be generally removed by pouring very hot water through the stained portion. An excellent method is to make a thick paste with starch, which should be applied if possible to both sides. Put a damp cloth over the place, leave for several hours, then wipe off the paste; and when the material is dry, brush vigorously. If brown paper be placed over the spot and a hot iron lightly pressed on the paper, the stain will immediately disappear. This is the best way of removing greasy stains from books, papers and valuable prints.

PAPER TEETH NOW

One of the oldest uses to which paper has been put is that which has resulted in the manufacture in Germany of artificial teeth. They are said to resemble their natural counterparts, and are likely to be used by the poor people who are unable to afford the ordinary false teeth.

When the wine-growers of Greece were badly off for wood with which to construct their casks they used paper to make barrels. Out of the sheets of an American paper an ingenious engineer constructed for his own use a small yacht, 20 ft. long. In the construction of the hull, deck, masts and rigging several thousand copies of the journal were used. Each plank required 2,000 leaves, and enormous pressure was used to procure the necessary solidity. Several countries have experimented with a view to utilizing paper for the paving of roads and streets, but the cost was prohibitive.

After La Grippe

"I had suffered several weeks with La Grippe. Had pains in my head and eyes. It felt as though there was a heavy weight on the top of my head, until it seemed that my brain would burst. I was so nervous that I could not rest or sleep. When I dozed off I would awake with a sudden jerking of my whole body. Dr. Miles' Nerve, Heart Remedy and Nerve and Liver Pills cured me. A number of friends have since realized the same benefits."

MRS. ALVIN H. LOCKS, Seabrook, N. H.

The after effects of La Grippe are often more serious than the disease, as it leaves the system in a weakened condition that invites more serious troubles, such as pneumonia, etc.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nerve should be taken for some time to thoroughly restore nerve strength.

Many a tall old man covers a lot of the faults of a soft head. There is no medicine on the market that can compare with Hicks' Anti-Consumptive Syrup in expelling from the system the irritating germs that colds engender in the air passages. It is useless to neglect your cold. Try the cheap experiment of ridding yourself of it by using Hicks' Syrup, which is a simple remedy, easily taken, and once used it will always be prized as a sovereign medicine.

Heart Trouble Caused Dizziness, Weakness and Smothering Spells.

Through one cause or another a large majority of the people are troubled with heart trouble, with some form of heart trouble.

When the heart is weak, the blood will not be pumped so freely, and the result is dizziness, weakness, and smothering spells.

One of the commonest complaints of infants is worms, and the most effective application for them is Mother's Gray's Worm Exterminator.

A HUSBAND'S PROVERBS

A vain woman is to be feared, for she will sacrifice all for her pride.

A woman's desire of being seen by men is not unworthy; fear the glance from her eyes.

Always respect a silent woman; great is the wisdom of the woman who holdeth her tongue.

When first a woman loves the feast; she fears not that to which she has become accustomed.

Give heed to her to whom children have come; she walks in the sacred ways, and looks not to have.

Trust not the woman that thinketh more of herself than another; me may not dwell in her heart.

A woman that respects herself is more beautiful than a single star; more beautiful than many stars at night.

MRS. MALAPROF On a busy day a woman walked into the office of the court room at Atlanta, Ga., and addressing Judge Blank, said:

AFRICA IS LESS DARK

Africa is no longer merely the land of wild game hunts, where savage men and savage beasts lurk in the shadows of the jungles.

Even the Sahara Desert, in all its untamed desolation, appears in a less forbidding light, since the completion of some recent explorations.

One Englishman asserts that Africa "is the young man's opportunity" when the rest of the crowded world is considered.

There are many things we cannot afford to get for less than their full price.

Caught a Cold Which Ended in a Severe Attack of Pneumonia.

Too much stress cannot be laid on the fact that when a person catches a cold it must be attended to immediately, or serious results are liable to follow.

Bronchitis, Pneumonia and Consumption are all caused by neglecting to cure the simple cold.

Mrs. G. W. Bowman, Pattullo, Ont., writes:—"Three years ago I caught a cold which ended in a severe attack of Pneumonia. Since that time at the beginning of each winter I seem to catch cold very easily. I have been so hoarse I was unable to speak loud enough to be heard across the room."

GIVING AND LIVING

"This is a day of large giving, both of service and money, for the good of men, and often for the honor of God. It is to be feared that not a few laughs at their gifts or service will attend even excess there for certain evil ends of character. It is one of those eternal truths that should be borne in upon every man most earnestly, that upon amount of doing can excuse the lack of being."

"He is a mean fellow, but he gives lots of money away." "She is a hard worker, but you ought to hear her at home."

"He is one of our best workers, but he is hard on his employees—they hate him." "What a pity that they are so many incongruities in our lives. And the difficulty is that men excuse themselves for those incongruities by 'beautiful graces'."

"The grace of giving is a most beautiful grace," but the grace of giving for outshines it in lustre and real worth. He gives most who lives best.
