-- Kanas City Times:

TEMPTED THROUGH LONELLNESS

It is poetty well agreed that next to the wanderer lost no the prairie or in the pathless forest in understanding what is meant by loneliness, comes the stranger in a big city. To be jostled by crowde and yet never see a familiar face is an experience that taxes the resources of the stoutest heart. Many a good man and woman have gone wrong because in their localiness they respond to the first advantages made lives-I don't deny it. But every then, and these were from the un-should be on the watch for strangers muzzles-" "Ah!" grasped out the who stray into church services or to lady. "How glad you must have been the young people's meeting. Often that they had their mussles on !; consthing in dress or manners betray the fact that they are in unaccustumed serroundings, but their sgony of localines, their longing for a friendly word and the clasp of a cordial hand, may not be so evident. And one who goes away from the house of God without the help of a kindly greating is in greater dadger lending an ear to the whispers of temptation. Be sure It is not your fault if ionaliness drives some stranger in your town to choose evil rather than good.

POPULARITY MEANS TAXING

Popularity is very largely a question of taking pains. Most people can be ingreeable if they try. A lack of friends may be attracted to lasiness or glaring defects. The capacity for winning friendship is inborn in everybody. It is only a question of taking the pains to cultivate it, and of making the effort to conquer the selfehnes which repels liking.

LOSING THE CAPACITY OF THEMYOUNE

There are two ways of spolling our capacity for enjoying things. One by having too much of them, and the other is not having enough. The employers in a candy factory are usually given permission to sat all the awasts they wish. This not a proof of benevo lence on the part of the proprietor. . It is only long-headed business economy. Generally the permission is taken advantage of so brartly that after a week the new employee never wishes to see a chocolate drop again.

But on the other hand, our faculty of enjoyment may die for lock of nu crition. It is said of a great English sclentist that when he was a small boy he showed marked musical ability but destiny turned himinto an entirely different line and his musical tasts atrophied. When he was a man o fifty he had no power to enjoy muck or to understand it. The barmonies of the flood orchestra meant no more to bim than the clamor of a machine

Young people who devote themselves to having a good time, lose appreciation through surfeit. And those who postpone enjoyment till they have grown rich or famous, loss the faculty through lack of autrition. Too much or too little, the result is the same irretrievable loss.

"Oh, a little filly called Common Sense ridden by Tommy Let-It-Alone," is the invariable reply.
