a Halploon Invalid Mrs. William Hometreet passed peacefully away at the family residsoce, Mais Street, on Toseday teory ing. She had been a belpless invalid for pearly ten years, and while there is always genuine sorrow in the breaking of the ties of family and friend ship, it was very generally felt in this case that the passing of this dear one into the life eternal was a blessed relief from the pains and weaknesses so long and so patiently endured. On the 5th December, 1902, Mrs. iometreet was stricken very suddenly during the absence of her husband from bome, with paralysis. Her right eide was completely paralyzed and her speech was permanently affected. During all the intervening years she lay helpless, so far as her body was concerned, though her mental faculties were clear and unaffected. With Christian fortitude she bore the trying experiences of enforced inactivity, and her daily life and conduct and convereation bore elequent testimony to the natisfaction and solece of enduring faith in a ricen Savior. Loving hands ministered to her during the years, and no friend was more attentive and solicitous for ber comfort than ber aged but devoted partner in life. Mrs. Homstreet was the eldest daughter of the late Thomas Moore, foundland, and the islands of St. Sr., one of the pioneer settlers of this County Antrim, Ireland, in 1820. When four years of age she came with her parents to Canads. They settled tion. The prospects are reported to ! bright at Georgetown, The people are tired of having their town made the mecca for the remaining drunks Marie Mowat, Johnnie Dunn, Robert of Brampton and Acton, and it is believed the ratepayers generally are now inclined to vote out the liquo traffic in their midst and thus remov the stigma of being the only town the fifty miles between Toronto an Goelph where the svils of a lice liquor traffic are continued.
