ONE HUNDBED years ago last Sun day, October 18th, 1812, the battle of Queenston Heights was fought, and Canada was saved to the British Em, pire. The man who played such an Important part in this historic event, and who led the British and Canadian troops to a glorious victory, was General Sir Isaac Brook, and although he lost his life in the battle that day; his name will ever live in the history of Canada and the Empire. The centenpary of the event was fittingly commemorated on the site of the famous battle, by prominent military men and Haturday. THERE HAVE BEEN RUMORS the past few days that the liquor interests in town are taking steps to submit a repeal vote on the Local Option by law in Anton. If the rumor is true Acton Oltisans' Committee is ready to meet the opponents of this worthy messure and settle the matter decisively for another three years. It might be just as well to have the vote come on elmties of the township Georgetown and Bequesing and in a grand united campaign to bury the whiskey business so overwhelmingly that it will never again have sufficient strength to open another contact. It will be strange, indeed, if the liquor men can induce the right to well intoxicating liquore bere again to men who have been repeatedly charged by the provincial authorities with wilful violation of the liquor laws, and against whom num bere of convictions have been register ed, and by whom heavy penalties have been paid. Ratepayers Will ithe be slow to remember that the convictions in Acton have all made against men and their employes who formerly held licenses, and not against the dives they alleged during last contest would spring up, but which the provincial License Department's Officers hav been unable, with all their experience in such matters, to discover.

Only 4 Adverse Votes NETALLATION TO PROCEED AT

Following the example set by the ratepayers of Acton last February the electors of the county town voted almost unanimously for the Hydro-Riectric by-law on Monday. Out of 198 votes polled only 4 were cast in opposition to the by-law. There was vooiferous jubilation over the result after the election.

So strong had the feeling been the Hydro-Blectric that several manu facturere had agreed to link up with t even though the by-law should fall In consequence of the victory work will begin at once on the transmission line connection. It is hoped it will proceed more rapidly than has been possible in Acton. The Hydro-Electric Commission has been working on the proposition here all summer. The collecting of the numerous supplies required for the installation has been a rather tedious matter. Supplies have been imported from England, Garmany and the United States; Canadia an manufacturers have been called upon for all they could furnish, and the poles for the transmission line and local installation have been brought from British Columbia. The comple-
