the Beardmore Christmas Tree The Christmas Tree with loads of presents for the children of the employses of Mesers. Beardmore & Co., and The Acton Tanning Co., in the town ball on Saturday evening, was an attractive Yuletide feature. The affair was under the very able management of Mrs. W. W. Beardmore, for the firms named, and Mrs. Beardmore manifestad, executive ability of a high order in carrying out so satisfactorily so difficult an undertaking. The Christman Tree was gally decorated and when the colored slectric lights and the magnetium illuminations were turned on, the effect was striking indeed. The hall was also skilfully decorated with buntlug, greenery and Christman bolic. A Christmas treat 'was first given to the 400 or 500 present in the way of dainty refreshments, for cream and cake, and abundance of milk for the little folk. When it is known that 270 swester conts, besides toques, soldier suits, hookey sticks, skates, sleighs, trumpets, toys, dolls, and rattles were distributed the joy of the wee folk will be well-understood. DISTRICK PAGEON TA On Monday evening an Auti Lucal Option meeting was held in Lown half under the auspisse of the Repail Quesmittee of Acton. A packed house greeted the speakers, Local Optionists and Antis turing out in equally good force. Mr. A. J. Mackingon, occupied the chair. The first speaker was introduced the Rev. Mr. Wardley, who was for 20 years a Congregational postur and four years army chaplain in India. Mr. Wardley opened with a plea for s fair view of the issue by both sides and asked for kindliness of each to other He spoke at length of himself and his experience of years working for Local Option and bow that be had been forced four times to "walk the plank" and retire from pertain pastorates because of his strong stand for the measure. He pleaded for fearlessness and realiness to "turn one's oust." (hurdles were charged as being not a was here | unit on the question. The speaker attempted to show that from Noch till Paul the Bible and Bible personages not only taught but practiced the the principle of drinking and drunkennose. The address was so unique and the use of scripture so strange that the audience was very perceptibly Miss Une Kenney, of Creemore, was chilled and disgusted with his secrilegious and blasphenous utterance Mr. Wardley disparaged the Divine of probibitions everywhere, though be stated that Boson was regulation and curtaliment, (l. e. probibition) and was prefernish to Local Option, which be claimed was a turning of the traffic lones, unbridled, etc. Much was said of the evil- of drunkenness. The Chairman next introduced Ray. J. C. Will-on, Acton, with privilege of reply. Mr. Wilson in turn introduced Rev. Mr. Mair, of Grimeby. who would speak in behalf of Local testimony from various places as to the successful working of Local Option and with evident force dispersed Mr. T. A. Swackhamer has returned the attraspted efforts of the previous speaker. He was, however, limited to half an hour, while the other speakers occupied three and a half bours.

Mr. Jas. Livingstone, of Grimsby, was prat introduced to speak against Local Option. He was not at any loss for words and his address occupied two and a half bours. He appealed against drunkenness and especially whiskey drinking everywhere. He characterized a man who got drunk as a fool. This statement received much be expected to lose her unefulness to He asserted that law will not make a may be some relation between these dishonest man honest, nor a thief two points in particular and the size quit steeling, nor a drunkerd out drinking. While none would deay these shings perhaps, yet one would carce wish to elacken our law relative to dishonesty, theft or drinking, Even Mr. Livingstone dilated much re legislating against the drink habit. He denounced calling the enti's the "wluskey party," though be apparently recognised hotelmen, browers, die-tillers and drunkards as anti Local The "Keg gang" "hip pocketers" bootleggers" were often mentioned and denounced, even characterised as "the Informal gang," which statements were much cheered from back benchers. The speaker spoke strongly against license reduction and said experience showed that the more licensed and the longer the hours of sale, seven full 24 hour days proferable, in a municipality, the less drunkeness. The people naturally inferred that be meant what be said and wondered if, as he asserted, of other evidence in such case it is Local Option made the way entirely open for drink, why it did not natisfy or breed that will preduce the mest in as evidence, in proof of his contention. Mr. Wardley had said 85% of people had the drink lostingt in them and it would be there till the end of tisce. Mr. Livingstone sported the idea of endeavor to belittle Local Option and Mr. Livingstone urged that the people were to blame for non-enforcement of the License Law and he condemned them for the same. This was followed of a mixture of helf an ounce of by assertious of non-enforcement in formally to fifteen ounces of water how much law breaking he had witaction. Even Mr. Livingstone told of fall feed. In the more severe cases of nessed under Local Option but not one word came as to his attempt to enforce of a mixture of one part safet and two given three times a day for two much value to the Local Option cause and was highly satisfactory to Acton
