WINTER AND WAR,

War is laid enough under the best of climatic conditions, but when war and bitterly cold and ky weather mix the auffering is woefully intensified. And yet there has hardly ever been a Europran war on a big scale in which Generni Jack Front has not taken a hand. Go back a century. Eighteen hundred and twelve was the year when Napoleon made up his mind to invade Russia. Before starting he was care ful to inquire of the experts at what date winter usually set in in southern Russia. They told him the middle of

It was on June 34 that he invaded Russia with 000,000 men, and he reached Moscow on Sept. 14. That night fire broke out, and within five days the city was burned to the ground. Even then he remained until Oct. 18 before commencing his retreat. In the last week of October began the worst frost which Europe had known for three generations. The Thames from from its source to the see. The Seine, the Rhine, the Denube, were all icebound. On the Adriatic, off Venice, was men the amazing sight of floating lee floor. The Dardsnelles and nearby waters were frozen, Jack Frost's ky finger lay beavy even upon North Africa. Drift Ice appear ed in the Nile, and there were snow storms in Tripoli and Morocco. As for Napoleon's huge army, it was almost wiped out. Four hundled thousand men perished. They from to death in bettallons as they bivouncked, and when at last, on Dec. 6, Na poleon reached German soil, out of his whole vast bost but 130,000 men were

During the winter of 1803-4 the Turks were battling for dear life along the Danube against hordes of Russians. In the following September 25, 000 British troops, a sigliar number of French and 8,000 Turks were landed in the Orimea. Again came a terrible winter, and from the west of Ireland right across into Asia frost fell beavy on land and see. In London it from for six weeks without a break. From Jan. 14 to Feb. M the thermometer was below freezing every night. In the Crimes the cold was feerful, and the English army, disgracefully catered for, suffered borribly. 'Is all the British forces lost 20,-056 men, and of these only 12 per cent fell in battle. The rest were destroyed by cold and disease, aggravated by a rotten commissariat. In 1870 came the biggest war of the tatter half of the nineteenth century, the titanic conflict between France and Germany. By Oct. 29 there were 850,-000 German troops in France, Paris was besieged, and there began the four months' investment, with furious fighting on both sides. Again Jack Frost came to the aid of the Germans. A long spell of intense cold made life almost impossible for the balf starved French, while the Germans, who had the whole country to draw on, besides their own excellent commissariat_inflered very little. By January the city was in such a terrible condition that it surrendered. The date of the last great war before that of 1012 in which Turkey was engaged was 1877. The Turks were attacked by an enormously superior force of Russians, with the crar himself in command. Osman Pashe, with 40,000 meo, hurried inland to Pleyne, a village which stood upon a hill, and there hastily entranched himself. The Russtane had 100,000 men, but Osman and tis dauntiess band defeated them in four successive battles. In November winter set in three weeks earlier than usual. The Turks had no winter clothing and little to eat but make porridge and horseflesh. They suffered fearfully. At last, on Dec. 2, they determined to break out. There were only 30,000 left, but their rush was so tremendoos that they carried three lines of Russian trenches before they were surrounded and forced by enormously superior numbers to surrender unconditionally.-London An-

Napoleon's Plane. Learlous footnote to history is found in G. L. de St. M. Watson's book, "A Polish Exile With Napoleon," to the effect that the emperor's evenings at St. Helena were soleced with music from a plane which was imported from England at a cost to Napoleon himself of $122 ($610). The musician was per haps Mme. Bertrand. At any rate, the plane was bequeathed to her and was removed by her from the Island after Napoleon's death. The young man was figuring out ways and means. "They say two can live as cheaply as one." "Do not delude yourself, Ferdinand,"

MAD BAD SORE FOUR YEARS

SAM-BUK HAS HKALKD IT!

Mrs. Wilson, 110 Wickson Ave. Toronto, says: " About four years ago a sore sput appeared on the right side of my face. This spot increased in size until-it became about half an inch in diameter and very painful. I went to a doctor, but the cistment he gave me did not have any good effect. The sore continued to discharge freely, and was most painful I had it materised, tried positions and all kinds of salves, but it was no good, and I continued to suffer from it for four years!

"A sample of Zam-Buk was one day given to me, and I used it. Although the quantity was so small, it seemed to do me some good, so I purchased a further supply. "Each box did me more and more
