A King In Disgules. A ruler who journeyed to the scene of his inauguration in diagulae was the king of Roumania. Prince Charles of Hobensollern traveled to Bukharest in 1866 in defence of the powers when war between Prussla and Austria was imminent. In Switzerland be had a passport made out in the name of "Kart Hettingen," going to Odessa on business with a special note recording that Herr Hettingen were spectacies. At the Austrian frontier a customs of-Scial demanded his name, and the prince bad forgotten it. Happily Councilor Von Worner, who accompanied him, had the presence of mind to create a diversion by insisting upon paying duty for some cigars and meanwhile the prince consulted his passport.

class journey.-London Chronicle. Stronuous Chivalry. tions are killing "the chivalry of the middle ages." But mediaeval tales and romances show what that chivelry really was. Wife beating was a common incident on the part of those knights and gentlemen whose gullantry was a mere convention. The Chevaller sels to his daughters tells them the story of a woman who used to contradict her husband in public. One day, after expostulating in vain, he knockd her down, then kicked her face and broke her nose. "And so," comments the good chevaller, "she was disfigured for life, and thus, through ber ill behavior and bad temper, she had her nose spoiled, which was a great misabout the husband's brutality.
