without a lot of divinity.

A little humanity helps the preacher more than a lot of divinity.

A prince must be just and good as well as valiant.

Heart Would Seem All Gone.

LEARNING JIUJITSU.

One Lesson is to Be Struggled and Then Remembered.

Mastery of the art of Jiu-Jitsu requires a drilling such as no boxer, fencer, runner or rower would need to undertake.

The mind must be trained to control the body from the head to the extremities, and to this end the body must first be brought under absolute control.

Two great competitions are held in the year, and in these historic contests "It is quite a common thing for 400 couples to participate."

For the student who wins his best and contains his opponent until he is a pupil teacher there is another test of courage and endurance.

It must be strenuous and unrelenting. The idea of the bottom of this martial art is to teach the student to be able to deal with the victim's nerves and round off his struggles, as it were, and to afford the newly promoted members an opportunity of putting into practice

SAHARA IN A TUMULT.

Fury of a Desert Storm and a Quick Transformation.

On our way we encountered that terrible experience, a desert storm. It came down upon us with hardly any warning, save of an oppressive stillness of the air and a stifling temperature.

Then all of a sudden the whole Sahara seemed to rise into the air and fall on us with its hot, scorching breath. Within five minutes my mouth was parched with thirst and my watch choked with sand.

For four hours the land-funneling, wind-blown sand, the particles stung the whites of our eyes and our faces were nearly blind with it.

Finally the storm vanished as quickly as it had come, and the sun came out and smiled at our plight.
