DAD THOMAY WAS A SHAKE

While fishing at PeCut River near Ban Antonio this summer I was surprised but discrimingtion. not frightened, us I am used to hearing rattle anakon. Anyway it scome that a large stone shad rolled from its reating large diamond ruttler. Woll, I felt surry for the poor fellow, so I took my foot and pushed the stone from off the sunke, and to my surprise, instead of striking at me, be made three very low laiws, as if thanking me for my kindness. Well, air, I had hard time getting away from him, as ! wanted to follow me home.

I was flowif there two months later min ren serous the sinake, and he recognized me as the one who did him a good deed, and there was no getting away from him this time, so he followed me home and I made a pet of him.

Healways slept at my feet in bed, and one night I swoke and missed my snake in the meantime I heard a noise in the hasement, so I turned on the light and noticed one of the windows were open, so I walker over and there was my snake. He was colled around a burgler and had his tall out of the window rattling for a policemen. -- Sign of the Times.

HORWAY GOES DRY

The anticipated shortage of foodstuffs i Europe following upon the outbreak of the war has had some novel results. The Norwegian army mobilising as a precautionary measure and on August 4th King Maskon, who is a brother-in-law of King George, Issuel a proclamation closing all breweries and distilleries by prohibiting the conversion of any train or potatoes into spirits or bear during the war. The preclamation also forbade all wholesale or rotall sale of spirite, but allowed the exist ing stock of heer to be sold. One result is that the Christiania Liquor Hamley has blood binny of its drinkshops and released 150 of its publichouse managers, etc., from work. The Norwegian newspapers report that the brewers and distillers are to hand over their stocks of grain at out price to the Government us tood for the people. It is almost cortain that similar measures will have to be adopted in Germany and Austria, which are cut off from their usual sources of food import. The example of a "dry" Norway may be followed before long by a dry Europe.
