

THE EVOLUTION OF WILLIAM BROWN

The person named him 'William.' His father called him 'Will.' His mother called him 'William.' His friends called him 'Will.' As plain 'Will Brown' he started as 'Mason' in the town. But 'Mason' was changed to 'Brown.' 'Brown' became 'Contractor.' At last he did better. And now you must know him as 'William Brown, Esquire.'

WHO ARE THE TURCOYS

The men of the word "Turcoys" in the war despatches seem to have puzzled a few people, who apparently think they are an Oriental corps which in some mysterious way was mobilized to assist the allies. The confusion arises from the fact that the "Turcoys" were the name of the Tirailleurs, one of the best of the French Colonial forces. The Tirailleurs, indeed, are a corps of sharpshooters, who have been practically trained from boyhood to fight. The greatest portion of the Turcoys are Arabs of pure blood, though the officers and non-commissioned officers are mostly French. Excluding the French element all the Turcoys are Mohammedan, and death has no terrors for them. To die in war is for them to enter the Mohammedan Paradise.

In years gone by they fought amongst themselves, tribe against tribe, and at one time used their swords against the French. Ultimately they became French subjects, and are now only too glad to fight the battles of France. The Turcoys are born fighters, possessing extraordinary powers of endurance, for they have been brought up to "rough it" from infancy. Furthermore, they are accustomed to living on next to nothing.

Few soldiers carry such a weight on their shoulders as the Turcoys. Their knapsacks weigh from 80 to 100 pounds. In addition to his own kit, each man carries some portion of the camp equipment. Then there is of course the rifle.

With their black, straight hair, surmounted by a red fez, and their black turbans, and wearing a sort of blouse or tunic with baggy trousers, trousers, strong boots of a greyish leather, and cloth ankle bands, they make one of the most picturesque corps at present engaged in the war.

PAT'S TEST

Uplifter—I can see good in all things. Pat—Can you see good in a fog.

A MILD ACCUSATION

Uncle Henry was one of the mildest of men. No one had ever seen him angry or impatient, but when his old-time neighbor and supposed friend, John Tagland, deliberately cheated him out of $500, even his kindly spirit was ruffled.

A LOVAL BISHOP

At a meeting the other day Bishop Falson of London, said: "My dear comrades no surprise to me. Twenty-two years ago I went to school in Germany, and even then the young men of the nation were filled with the war fury. They were determined that the British Empire should go down, and ever since that time I have endeavored to warn the people of Canada and the Empire that such a peril, of which I have long spoken is upon us. It is going to be terrific. It means victory or the disappearance of the British Empire with its liberty and its traditions."

THE VERY IDEA

Two suburban mothers met on the train one day, and the topic of their conversation was their daughters. "How did your daughter pass her examination for a position as teacher?" asked one. "Pass" was the answer. "She didn't pass at all. Maybe you wouldn't believe it, but they asked that girl about things that happened long before she was born."

A FEW CASUAL INQUIRIES

"Now, don't talk too much when you go to call on your neighbors. You may answer questions, of course." "That is all I ever do," said the child. "And they ask a great many questions. Last time they asked how much salary you get and if he ever quarrelled with you."

A HARD BUMP COMING

Her Dad—Does that young man you've been keeping company with intend to get married or to roost in a single? Daughter—I think he's on the fence, papa. Dad—Then throw him over.

REASONS

The old gentleman's wife was getting in to a carriage and he neglected to assist her. "You are not so glibly old as when I was a girl," she exclaimed, in gentle rebuke. "No," was his ready response, "and you are not so buoyant as when I was a boy!"

Could Not Get Rid of Them Until He Used BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

All Blood or Skin Diseases are caused by bad blood, and to get rid of them, it is necessary to purify the blood. Burdock Blood Bitters is a blood purifier, and it is the only one that will do it. It is made of the best of the French Colonial forces. The Tirailleurs, indeed, are a corps of sharpshooters, who have been practically trained from boyhood to fight.

ITH LANGERS CHARGE

"Hell let loose" a vivid story of the doings of the 12th Lancers in the neighborhood of Meer has been related to a Daily Express representative by a wounded German prisoner at Waterloo station. A small body of Lancers, not more than fifty strong, met a force of 200 German dragoons, and were through them like a knife. The prisoner interviewed was one of the 200 and "never again," he says, "will I meet those Lancers!"

HOW HE DID IT

The business of Dusty Dick had contributed to his periodical visits to the county jail, and incidentally, to his wife accompanying him in his morning pilgrimages from town to town. One evening, after a long spell of lethargy, Dick crossed one leg over the other.

WILLING TO PROVE IT

"Are you certain that you can keep a secret?" "Positive. Give me a three day trial and see."

SOME NAVIGON ABOUT WISHING

You should cross your fingers, too, and wish when you pass under a ladder, and if anybody is standing on it you should wish "good luck" for the person on it. This is your own desire being fulfilled.

WHY HE THOUGHT

"Marriage is a lottery." "Is it?" "Well, I have picked the capital prize in advance."

THE WAY TO HIS VOTE

Lord Roseberry's skill in picking up stray votes was well known. An illustration of it is given in a book by Henry W. Lacy.

OLIMAX OF A GIDDY WHEEL

"Well," mused six-year-old Harry, as he was being lashed into a giddy wheel, "this has been an exciting work, hasn't it, mother? Monday we went to the Zoo, Wednesday I lost a tooth, Thursday was Lily's birthday party, Friday I was sick, yesterday I had my hair cut, and now here I am rushing off to Sunday School!"

COULD NOT STAND ON FEET

Mrs. Baker So Weak—Could Not Do Her Work—Found Relief in Novel Way.

Adrian, Mich.—"I suffered terribly with female weakness and backache and got so weak that I could hardly do my work. When I read of the benefits of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, I bought a box and after I had taken two bottles I felt better and I said to my husband, 'I don't see any more,' and he said 'You had better take it a little longer anyway.' So I took it for three months and got well and strong."

CHILDREN CRY FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

Common sense is anything but common. A man's worst enemies are his fool friends. No man is so busy that he hasn't time to make a few ounces. No, Cordelia, a maiden effort does not always lead to matrimony. Patriotism and politics travel hand in hand only once in a while. "Big head" is a chronic disease with many a man who wears a small hat. Opportunity, it is said, knocks but once, but a pessimist looks all the time.

OLD AND YOUNG

"If I could be that little boy," the weary grown-up sighed, "my jaded heart would swell with joy and I'd be satisfied. For when all things are said and done, youth has the right of way; it has monopoly of fun, of gladness, mirth and play. Boys have no problems, dark and deep, to make the spirit sore, to rouse them from the mid-night sleep and make them walk the floor. The world's a playground for the kid, grief threatens him in vain; he does not fear beneath his feet the cares that gnaw the
