EDITORIAL NOTES.

After six months siege by the Russian forces the Austro-Hungarian fortress of Przemyśl, surrendered on Monday. The highest importance is attached to the fall of this fortress, one of the most impregnable in the world. This is alleged by prominent military authorities to be the fate of the whole Hapsburg empire and consequently that of her ally, Germany. Sir John French is reported as saying on Tuesday that a decisive and definite victory awaits the allies and that this will affect the end of the war sooner than is generally expected.

An extensive and important phase of Britain's stringent measures against German commerce and trade with Germany in general is found in the effect the embargo will have on German holdings of foreign securities. Right along Germany has been liquidating these. Especially have they been sold on the New York market, and doubleless German sympathizers have been taking them. The announcement that Britain will confiscate everything from German sources that they capture at sea, will put a stop to the delivery of stock and bond certificates to New York. This will militate against German financiers getting funds.

The steel industry of Canada is now receiving large orders for shells from the allied nations. One eastern firm has been running about 60 per cent. capacity on shells and indications are that they will continue to do so for a considerable time to come. Another big Toronto concern just received the largest single order that has yet come to a Canadian plant. The amount of the order is practically limited only to the capacity of the plant. It is for several shells of various calibers. Within Canada alone there are already over two hundred firms at work now on the manufacture of shells. Some of the large Toronto firms will be enabled to employ more than their usual number of men from now forward.

It is now Ontario's turn! Such was the attitude of the temperance people of Ontario following the announcement that Saskatchewan would abolish the bar during war time. Premier Scott, of that province, has set the pace for the other provinces in temperance legislation, and his announcement of the Government's intention last week caused satisfaction in Ontario. Now that the Saskatchewan Government has announced that they are going to close all bars during the war and that a vote will be taken on a majority basis after the war as to whether these places will ever be reopened or not, the temperance question has become acute again in Ontario. Although some of the details are different, these main features of Saskatchewan's proposal correspond to Mr. Rowell's proposals here, which are to close all bars during the war and then submit to a majority vote of the electorate the question of whether they will ever be reopened or not. The attitude of the Ontario Government on the temperance question is announced in the Legislature Tuesday evening in certainly the most definite additional prohibition of sale on Labor Day. The salaried soldiers in uniform will be allowed, but with open shops this affects small retailers.

CITY AND COUNTRY LABOR

Many are Solving the Unemployment Problem by Accepting Farm Work

The unemployment problem is still acute in the cities and the scarcity of labor is still complained of in rural districts. The question is how can the one be reconciled with the other, and the one thought to supply what the other needs and the other to take what the other possesses in excess. After the war there may be a rash of immigration, but that cannot be for a year at least. We must, therefore, make the best of the situation and try to get along with what we have. A Toronto paper has been publishing letters from a number of men who have accepted positions on farms. They all, without exception, speak in good terms of their experience. They pay less, but the food is good and abundant, the bed clean and life in the open brings a keen appetite for meals and a pleasant desire for sound refreshing sleep. One man writes: "I have tramped miles and miles after deer and dropped too exhausted to set or sleep. Here when I'm hungry I have a good meal to go to and when I'm tired there is a nice clean bed waiting. You know how I have tramped with my city, but now Mary and I are both glad we came. You should see her with her skirt tucked up bustling to and from the barn. It's the pastoral life for us all right. Men who under cities till and hungry while there are opportunities like this offering every day."

Perhaps readers of this may think the writer of the foregoing has hit upon a soft spot. It is more than likely however that he is possessed of that Irish Turbulence that should accompany any desire for work. That hopefulness which leads to success and, at this period of time, begs some fulfillment of the scriptural injunction to "leaf one another's burdens. Every man, yes and every woman who goes to work in this strain of spirit, and to all it is possible in helping to take the handicap off somebody else's shoulders and is contributing to the welfare of his own country and the empire. He is uplifting his fellowman, he is assisting in the clothing and feeding of his countrymen, may be his townsmen that come to be so extensively followed. He is doing his share towards reconciling the wants of the city with the needs of the country. He is also probably prolonging his own life as well as making matters easier for others. A hard life he is leading himself in true patriotism is actually doing his best to promote population.

Ontario's New Liquor Act leaves Hotels Alone

A Central Commission of Five Men to Replace the County Commissioners

NO LIQUOR SOLD TO SOLDIERS

The long looked-for bill of the Ontario Government respecting changes in the Ontario Liquor Act was introduced Tuesday night. The Government's proposals comprise:

1. The establishment of a Provincial Commission of five or more members with full control over the liquor system of the province, with power to refuse any license or to revoke any license issued, but limited in issuing licenses to the present number in existence in any municipality.
2. Closing of all shops throughout the province at 7 o'clock in the evening.
3. Prohibition of sale to soldiers in uniform either over the bar or in the shop.

The increasing of the penalties for infractions of the Liquor Act. These are the four outstanding features of the Government's temperance proposals laid before the Legislature by Hon. W. J. Hanna.

Local commissioners will be wiped out. Local committees will give place to a more limited number of experienced men, made responsible for districts, and the whole question of the number of licenses to be issued and the hours of sale will be entirely within the discretion of the central commission.

According to the plans of the Government, the change will not be immediate. The present administration will be continued until after the license for the coming year are issued, and as soon thereafter as the right man can be secured the local boards will relinquish their duties.

The local inspectors will probably be continued for a longer period, perhaps six or eight months, and then as the commission sees its way the best of them will be retained and made part of the new administration. These inspectors will devote their whole time to the work and will be made responsible for several counties each.

In order to strengthen the hands of the new commission the Government has decided to increase the fines for infractions of the Liquor Act. For the first offence the fine will be a minimum of $300 and for the second a maximum of four months in jail instead of 60 days.

In following Mr. Hanna after the introduction of his bill, Mr. Rowell, leader of the opposition, fairly confessed his disapproval of the bill. If he understood the Provincial Secretary right, the proposal of the Government involved a radical change in liquor administration, but no radical change in the hours of sale or in the number of places that might sell. With the exception of making Labor Day one of the prohibited days and closing the liquor stores at 7 o'clock in the evening, that was the sum of the restrictive proposals.

"What I wish to say is this," continued the Liberal leader, "that in view of the circumstances under which this House is met and of the conditions and demands of the country, no more disappointing bill was ever introduced to the Legislature so far as curtailing the sale of liquor is concerned. He felt sure that the bill would be particularly disappointing to the friends of the Prime Minister in a matter of such vital moment and at a time of national stress, who expected a much more radical bill, so far as its prohibitive features were concerned."

The Provincial Secretary referred to the recent investigation into the sale of liquor to soldiers, which convinced the Government that the situation was serious enough to warrant radical action, and that taken in the clause that prohibits all sale in bar, shop or other place of supply to the soldier in uniform.

This is rather a serious reflection upon our soldiers. Did not the investigation prove as well that the situation is serious as concerning the drinking by civilians as well as by soldiers? Enlisted soldiers are quite as able to take care of themselves and to resist temptation as men who have not enlisted. If there is any difference the stronger will be found among the men in uniform. The Saskatchewan bill makes no difference between soldiers and civilians should the Ontario Act not include both.

"Enough on this," cried out Hain, Mica, etc. Heals in the House. He and six at Drug and Country Stores.

LEISURE NOTES

Mr. Gooderham's bill to grant reciprocity in automobile licenses with the American States, although introduced by a Conservative member, was opposed by Hon. Mr. Hanna and withdrawn.

The Private Bills Committee threw out the bill to incorporate a College of Chiropractic.

The Government is transferring the scope of the succession duties to provide more revenue from this source.

Hon. Messrs. McFarry and Ferguson, now ministers of the crown, are in attendance at each meeting of the Public Accounts Committee coaching Herbert Lenoir, M.P.P., the new chairman, and showing him how to follow their example and shut off investigation. There has already been some stormy meeting on account of this.

John Grieve, new Liberal member for North Middlesex, is introducing a bill to provide registration for electors in rural districts as well as in the cities. Why shouldn't there be such provision?

The provincial estimates for the current fiscal year amount to $9,738,234.
