—An extensive outbreak of the Fleck Furze in Guelph visitors: "I enclose check to cover invoice of printing received. I thank you for the splendid workmanship, artistic finish and excellent quality of the material supplied. Town delivery was prompt and your prices are certainly reasonable."

BALLINAVAD

A fair young bride was Margaret Jean, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Akitt, 6th line, Erin, who was married on Wednesday, October 29th, to Mr. William Peavoy, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Peavoy, County Mayo. The bride was given away by her father and was prettily gowned in shawl lace with touches of blue and pearl trimmings, and carried a bouquet of white roses and maiden hair fern. The bridegroom wore a suit of blue and red with a white carnation boutonniere. The ceremony was performed by Rev. M. J. O'Brien, rector of St. Vincent's, Acton. The groom's gift to the bride was a superb of pearls to the bridesmaid a pearl and ruby necklace and to the groom a tie pin. After the signing of the register the guests, numbering about seventy-five, adjourned to the dining room where the wedding supper was served. After this the evening was spent in music and games. The gifts were both numerous and costly showing the high esteem in which the young couple is held.

Able Missionary Sermons
Rev. Wilfred F. Geate, of Guelph, preached very interesting and able sermons in the Methodist Church on Sunday in connection with the Missionary Convention of the Guelph District. In the morning he spoke upon the general principles of missionary work, basing his discourse on 2 Timothy 2:10. "Nevertheless the foundation of God stands sure." The concluding thought presented was the fact that the spread of the gospel is ever widening and the religious thought of the world is going on to its triumphant result. Reference was made to the war and its influence on universal messages to all mankind. The text was from St. Paul's letter to the Romans, chapter 1, verses 14 and 15. Paul got his inspiration from Jesus Christ himself, who was first to preach that the crowning virtue of Christianity is a world-wide spirit, a world-embracing love. Only Christ has given comfort to all the world. The gospel has in it that which gives real peace to every soul that believes. Rev. Mr. Geate is a strong preacher, with a splendid voice and personality. His sermons are eloquent and impressive. He also addressed the Sunday School in a brief but appreciated address.

LETTERS FROM REEVE'S SONS

Both "Somewhere in France" have had Pleasant Meetings
BOTH HAVE BEEN IN THE TRENCHES
The following letters from their sons in France have been received by Reeve and Mrs. Hynals this week:
France, Oct. 2nd, 1915.

Dear Folks:
I have just received letters from home dated Sept. 17th. Too bad that summer started about the 31st Regiment being attached. There was nothing in it. It was amusing to us to read the Guelph paper's account of it.

We have been having a time of it, but not so bad as reported. I think the day of reckoning for all Brits is about here. When we get the word to advance we'll go through him like a hurricane. I'm getting beaten all along the line. I don't think anything will stop the boys when they get on the move until they get to Berlin.

Boh's battalion is somewhere around here but is hard to find here. I expect to run into him any day. This is Sunday. We came out of the trenches for six days' rest and that was a good one. I have just been to Church service. Last time we were out here we saw a lively fight between an English plane and a German. The German was shot and his aeroplane came down about a mile from us. We had a week of steady rain while in the trenches. It is fine now, but cold at night. I am just waiting to go and get a new pair of pants. The line is out of mine. If you could see us covered with mud from head to foot you wouldn't know us. But don't make any difference. In the trenches or out of them I never saw a happier bunch of boys. We don't know what minute we are going to "get it," but I have yet to find a down-hearted soldier. I have some pieces of German shells and shrapnel which I will send home as soon as I get a chance.

Don't pay any attention to rumors. The officials at Ottawa will give out reliable information when there is anything of importance.

Love to All,
Howie.

Somewhere in Helgium,
October 24th, 1915.

Dear Friends:
This is Tuesday morning. We are out of the trenches for a few days' rest. It is raining and chilly and makes things miserable. Of course at this season we can't expect much more. The boys are standing it fine. Yesterday afternoon we were inspected by Lord Brooke. He congratulated the battalion on their good behaviour and good work during the last few days in the trenches.

We had our band instruments out yesterday and played a few tunes for the boys.

While up in the village yesterday, right near where we are billeted, I received word that How was waiting for me down at our billet. Of course I went right down. He sure was there, large as life, and he looks fine. He is only about three miles from me now. He had not long to stay and our conversation naturally centred around the letters from home, and what he has done since. We also had a chat with Gummer over here.

I suppose you have all heard of the big drive we have had. You will know as much about it as we do here, as all the information we get outside of our own regiment is from the papers. The drive was not near where we are situated. I think if you keep on it will be all over by Christmas. I hope so at least.

Remember me to all. I hope all at home are enjoying the best of health.

Your loving son,
Howie.

The Layman's Banquet To-night
The banquet of the men of the Protestant churches in town this evening in the Methodist School room promises to be an event both unique and interesting. The coming together of the men in social intercourse will be enjoyable and the discussion of topics of interest in the activities of the churches will be helpful and suggestive. It is believed this gathering will draw the men of the churches closer together and formulate a relationship of benefit to the community. The addresses by Mr. D. M. Rose and Mr. J. Reynolds Johnston, of Toronto, who are both experienced in this work, will be appreciated to the occasion. This will be the last public appearance of Mr. Rose prior to his departure for work in India. The 150 men expected to be present are requested to arrive at the church between six and seven o'clock so that all may be able to sit down to the tables promptly at seven o'clock.

St. Alban's Rector a Happy Benedicte
At high noon on Wednesday, October 20th, there was solemnized in the chapel of Christ Church Cathedral, Hamilton, by the Right Rev. the Lord Bishop of Niagara, assisted by the Rev. Canon Owsen, Madeline Pattison McLean, daughter of the late Mr. William Pattison, of Ferguson, to the Rev. Charles Homer E. Smith, M. A., rector of St. Alban's Church, Acton, and only son of Mr. and Mrs. William Lewis Smith, of Mount Forest. The bride who wore a travelling suit of midnight blue chiffon tulle, with hat to match and white gloves, was given away by Mr. J. M. Mackenzie West. The groom's mother, Mrs. Smith, of Mount Forest, wore black silk and lace. Mrs. C. Everett Hoffman, of Berlin, the bride's sister, was in Belgian blue, while another sister, Mrs. J. M. Mackenzie West, of Ferguson, wore a smoky-tint gown with hat to match. Mr. Smith, of Mount Forest, was also present, and Dr. G. H. Smith and Miss Smith, of Toronto. Miss Smith's gown being of taupe velvet, with a white fur collar. The wedding was very quiet one, only the closest relatives of the bride and groom being present. Before Mr. and Mrs. Smith left on their honeymoon to Montreal and other points west, a dignified breakfast was served at the Hotel Royal. Rev. Mr. Smith will arrive in Acton to-day. Mrs. Smith's arrival will be deferred until completion of the improvements to the rectory. Heartly congratulations will be tendered them.

SOME OBSERVATIONS

Early in the summer, some humorist placed a board in front of the new Government building bearing the legend "Please Keep Off the Grass." The humor lay in the fact that while such surroundings would be greatly improved by a neat grass plot, no grass was in sight except one blade here and there. However, nature during the summer, under the influence of the copious rains, turned the joke on the joker and a fair growth has asserted itself. My next summer if all is well there may be a neat little natural lawn.

The exceedingly moist season has provided a sure supply of water for the coming winter, and springs will be well filled with swamps and low places are well replenished. Indeed, in going through the country it is marvellous to see the amount of water in sight for the time of year. There is also no complaint of land being too hard for ploughing. In, although the potatoe rot, it is after all "an ill wind that blows no good."

Rain or no rain it seems Helium is bound to be dry. Reports from those who attended the big gathering of men, year and women too, at Milton on Monday indicate a firm determination to banish the booze from our snug little country. Local Option in single municipalities having been adopted in almost all the municipalities, a joint effort on the part of all, in the interests of all, is to be made right away. One of the most thrilling addresses is credited to the Rev. President of Acton's Christian forces, who has done so much in his past and who will do so much in the future, to "throw off his coat, roll up his sleeves and show that something will be done again in Acton."

Thirty-three years ago last day the Canadian Conference was first held in Acton and Helium remained for six years, and it is freely asserted that more drunkenness was seen in Acton in one week after repeal than in the whole six years. This is borne out by the statistics as well. Now, the old Act with new features instilled which vastly improve its effectiveness, is to be brought forward again.

A few of the old guard still are on the fighting line in the country, but a new generation has arisen thoroughly imbued with the same spirit and encouraged by a vastly increased public sentiment throughout the county opposed to the bar, who may be disposed upon, will make short work of the local now hanging upon the county. In fact the prospects are that even before the Act—owing to the tedious process of bringing it into force—may become a law, public sentiment in a such order as to have already secured the desired end. Sooner or later the bar goes and few there will be who will be sorry.

How the world moves on! An aged lady in town was recounting recently an experience of youthful days in her home town in a new back country. At the end of a "spring-leave" when preparations for house-going through the back part were being made, the bowl of a pack of wolves was located in the dust of the journey and the difficulties and fears of the journey were recounted, a listener suggested, "Why not have telephoned for an automobile?" The ludicrous situation shows, however, how gradual has been the development of civilization in the region of knowledge, the back paths, or at least, lumber wagon, democratic, buggy, and auto as the way was cleared and means possessed. And so, from universal drinking, through Dunkin' Aot and Boot Aot and Local Option and improved C. A. we are now on the border land of Provincial Prohibition.

At the end of a "spring-leave" when preparations for house-going through the back part were being made, the bowl of a pack of wolves was located in the dust of the journey and the difficulties and fears of the journey were recounted, a listener suggested, "Why not have telephoned for an automobile?" The ludicrous situation shows, however, how gradual has been the development of civilization in the region of knowledge, the back paths, or at least, lumber wagon, democratic, buggy, and auto as the way was cleared and means possessed. And so, from universal drinking, through Dunkin' Aot and Boot Aot and Local Option and improved C. A. we are now on the border land of Provincial Prohibition.

How the world moves on! An aged lady in town was recounting recently an experience of youthful days in her home town in a new back country.
