DUNCAN COULSON A powerful figure in the banking world passed away on Saturday in the death after a longthy Illness, of Mr. Duncan Coulson, President of the Bank of Toronto. Mr. Coulson was a banker all his life, having entered as a juntor in 1857, the institution which he was so largely instrumental in building up, and of which he was General Manager from 1876 to 1011, when he succeeded to the Presidency. His death followed an illness of almost two years, though the last unnual meeting was the only one he had missed since he was anpointed to the board. Heauffered a stroke ela monthe ago, but was able to attend two board meetings during the past winter. Mr. Coulson's muther was May Kennedy, a slater of Duncan. Robert, Alexander and Lachian Kennedy, of Acton. She spent her girlhood on the Kennedy Homestead, now occupied by Mr. T. P. Watking. In his boyhood days Mr. Coulson was often a visitor at his grand. father's farm here. He was a first cousin of Mr. John R. Kennedy, Chairman of the Board of Education. METHODIST CHOIR AND ORCHESTRA PRESENT

The recruiting meeting in the town hall on Runday evening, after the conclusion of the various church services, was largely Reove Hynds occupied the chair and introduced as the first, speaker, Major Brown, of Acton Company, 164th Battallon, one of Halton's wounded heroes who went to the war in the first contingent.

Major Brown was received with rousing cheers. He spoke briefly on his experi enose at Balisbury Plains, and the trip rom the south of Vrance, in cattle trucks so crowded that only six out of forty in a truck could alt down at once. They went through one town where the Garmans had committed structties, and the Major said he would now believe anything any returned soldier told him about Garman atroolties, after what he had seen.

He gave a very interesting account of life in the tranches, talling how obserful the mon were under the most trying circumstances. He recounted in thrilling. and concles description the great battle of guished themselves, and said it was a great aight to see the Algerians and others running one way with their guns, and the British and Canadians going the opposite way on the double quick up to the firing

It was in this action that Major Brown was wounded and he maid a great tribute to the excellent work of the Red Orose from the time he was received at the first dressing station, all the way back and through the different hospitals in England. Their expanditures are enormous, and they nead all the money we can send them. He concluded by telling what a life we would lead if the Germans won, and Canada became a German colony. We would be taxed to death, and instead of being able to don the khakl for our king, the men would be forced to put on the dirty gray-green German uniform and serve in the German army for three years at two ents a day for Kalser Hill. man," he exhorted, "come and Company of the 184th Hattallon, and we will give gou a fair deal."

Before Dr. Britton spoke he had Major Brown read a doctor's certificate stating that he was medically unfit for service. He said he had no right to sak used to culist until he had done his best to go imself. The Kalser is writing a new national anthem for Austria and he would write one for us if he could and it would be "God Save the Kelser."

We are a long way from beating the Germans. They have 6,000,000 man trained to the minute, with pleaty of gune, andmunition and food. We cannot allow Christian civilization to be oursed by six million murderers. He cited several innot own land, would have only German ere would have to be in German. and men, we used you to help prevent such
