BRIEF LOCAL ITEMS

The day's running now. Blighting is entirely played out. April will be a cold one on Saturday. These are busy days for the sugar makers. Spring work is loosing up in the villages. Motor cars are being furnished up for the season. Saturday will be "All Fools Day". Be careful. Hoblins are here in numbers now. A flock of ducks flew northward on Monday. Heave Hynolds was at Milton on Tuesday attending a meeting of the County Council. The mild weather has cut out the short drive over the Ice of Fairy Lake from the first line into town. The FIVE PAGES can supply all orders for butter wrappers promptly, and printed with your own design. The Orilla Packet says: "The woman who is not engaged in Hot Cross buns is a good one as far as the man who is not in black." Ten additional rural schools in Milton will teach agriculture this year, making in all sixteen that have undertaken this work up to the present. "To-day I have aching pains in the chest and aching, with pussy-wet buds in hand; the downy catkins opened for my feet the gates of fairy-land." Mr. B. W. Thurston, of Chicago, Ill., a former Acton boy, has kindly sent to H. P. Moore, Secretary Acton Patriotic Fund, a cheque for $10.00. Like eating, advertising should be continuous. When to-day's dinner will be eaten for to-morrow, advertising may safely be done on the same principle. The people who fallow to keep their pavement clean were so prompt for very slushy walking for pedestrians on Monday for a day or two afterwards. The heavy thaw found water courses and storm sewers full of ice in some places in town, and a number of cellars were partially covered with several feet of water. The Equipping farmer who neglected his live stock, and was prosecuted by the Humane Society, was fined $3.00 and costs by Magistrate Dice, of Milton, last week. The man who is continually knocking the town and everything in it is a nuisance and an abomination. Why does such a man remain in a town which is not to his liking? In an effort to do the share toward greater production a lion belonging to Mr. Jas. Stark last week had a weight of 114 lb. and measured 12 in by 9 in. Herald. Rev. E. Gonnell, of McMaster University, Toronto, who preached very excellent sermons in the Baptist Church last Sunday is expected to occupy the pulpit again next Sunday. Donations to the Red Cross funds have just been received, and are hereby kindly acknowledged, as follows: School Section No. 9, $2.00; Mrs. A. G. Macdonald, $2.00; and from Mrs. Macdonald, $2.00; from Mrs. A. G. Uren, teacher, $4.00. Mr. N. Patterson, agent for the Ford Touring Car, has a good stock of these popular and low-priced motor cars in his garage. The announcement in another column is worth the consideration of all who wish to provide for beautiful enjoyment for themselves and their families. Little Gladys Cook, daughter of Corp. Cook, fell beneath the runner of a farmer's sleigh last Wednesday afternoon, on Mill Street, while hanging onto it. The runner struck her leg bruising it painfully, but the farmer was driving slowly and stopped at once. The little Gladys is about all right again.

NASSAUWAYEYA

Had and pathless was the sudden death of William O. Anderson, son of William Anderson, who lately removed to Guelph, who was killed in the railway wreck at Port Credit last Friday morning. Just two weeks before this bright young man left his home to take a position as a man on the G. T. R. The remains were brought to the home of his sister, Mrs. Herman Barber, and from there to the funeral home held to Moffat on Sunday afternoon. There was a very large attendance. The roads have been very bad this week. In driving to Acton on Monday (Rev. Mr. Carter's) cutter was upset in a couple of feet of water. The minister attending as to remuneration for the services of Mr. W. H. Taylor, the architect of Emmanuel Church, between him and the Trustee Board of the Church came before a board of arbitration at Acton on Monday. The Board was composed of Rev. Campbell, Hon. J. H. Taylor, and H. P. Moore, J. P. After hearing a mass of evidence on both sides an award of $100 was made as the balance due to Mr. Taylor.

OBVIOUS CORNERS

The mild weather of the past few days has spoiled the sleighing but every one will be glad to welcome the spring. Mr. J. Burdette saw the first robin reported around here last week in a tree in his yard. The Ladies Aid met in the church here yesterday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. C. Crisp, Acton, spent Sunday with friends here.

NEWS OF LOCAL IMPORT

Wanted! Good Live Nobby Nows. Have you any news to tell the editor? In case you do not happen to meet him in the telephone or the mail. You will be helping to make your town paper of greater interest and thereby serve the general community, as well as have a good feeling of helpfulness yourself.

Mrs. John C. Watson Critically Ill

For several weeks Mrs. John C. Watson, of the fifth line, was troubled with an ulcerated tooth. Blood poisoning followed and the week gangrene set in. As a result Mrs. Watson is in a critical condition and very slight hopes are entertained for her recovery. The case calls for general sympathy.

Clean Up for Spring

Now that Spring is at hand it is desirable that every household should arrange for a general clean up of the house. The Board of Health is anxious to ensure good sanitary conditions in town and citizens generally can lend a hand so that the good work will be thorough and satisfactory.

Burned Church Mortgage

At the after July services of the Methodist church, Milton, which were held last week, one of the most interesting features was the burning of the mortgage. The pastor, Rev. C. D. Draper, and the members of the Trustee and Official Boards have been most gratified at the success of marking the jubilee services as a milestone of progress.

Methodist Missionary Anniversary

Missionary Anniversary services will be held in the Methodist Church next Sunday. Much interest is felt in the visit of Rev. A. T. Crotcher, missionary from Changai, China, who will preach morning and evening. The presence of an active missionary from the foreign field will add a zest to the healthy missionary activities of the Church on Sunday.

Real Bad Roads Now

The mild weather and rain have precipitated bad roads with a rush. The deep snow and the absence of frozen bottoms after the thaw in February, made the roads dangerous on Monday and Tuesday. Some of the farmers who attempted to get to town found it unsafe travelling and returned home. Bad roads are likely to prevail in some quarters until the frost is out.

Destroy the First Fly

The bright sunny days of March and April are an inducement for the house fly to appear. An early start in destroying these pests should be made on the first fly seen, and the good work should be consistently and effectively carried on. The destruction of the early fly will mean the saving of valuable lives, as there is no more persistent carrier and distributor of disease than the house fly.

Liout. A. G. Henderson Injured

Liout. A. G. Henderson of the 20th Hibernian Rifles, who met with an accident at the School of Instruction, Toronto, last Friday and has been in the emergency hospital ever since, is reported to be making satisfactory progress. Liout. Henderson had a bad fall as the result of which the vertebrae of his neck were broken but fortunately without injury to the spinal cord. He is expected to recover.

Got Position in Georgetown

Mr. James Lackey has been appointed caretaker of the High School building and grounds at Georgetown. He commenced his duties in the new position on Tuesday and will remove to Georgetown shortly. Mr. and Mrs. Lackey have been residents of Acton for twenty years and will leave many warm friends here. Mr. Lackey has been a useful citizen and has done "his bit" in public office, as well in church and friendly society circles. The best wishes of all go with him.

Paris, France, Illustrated

Mr. Alban's Church has arranged with the publisher of the Illustrated Paris, France, to publish a beautiful and interesting volume in the town hall, on Monday evening, 16th April. Those who heard Mr. Davidson's lecture on London a couple of months ago are very anxious to see this volume and see the pictures of the beautiful city, so prominent just now because of its intimate relation to the War. The volume will be well worthy the attention of the general public.

Boys and Girls' Send us News

Home of the boys and girls who have made a success of their education through correspondence for newspapers. There are few better ways that a person can help develop his or her education than by corresponding for a home paper like the FIVE PAGES. At the same time the publishing of the news from a locality, advertises it and helps to build it up. You will be doing the community in which you live a good service, if you write the local news to your home paper.

From General Militia Orders

Regiment (Hilton Rifles). To be Captain's Assistant W. J. Popple, at July, 1915. To be professional Lieutenants (superannuated): Hugh Leonard Landon, Frederick Henry Reid, Frank Robertson, McCannell, Hugh Buchanan MacPherson, Walter F. Robertson, Joseph Hugo Hunter, James Henry Peck, Edward James Moore, Harry Grover Brooke, John Gordon Kennedy, William Edward Case, Herbert Wesley Powell, Sydney Wilson Orr, James MacLeod Hutchison, William Andrew Robinson.

Big G. T. R. Wreck at Georgetown

There was a big wreck on the Grand Trunk at Georgetown, early Friday morning, which completely blocked the road for eight hours. It was a freight car and collision, demolishing several cars and sending one of the engines into scrap in the ditch. The wreckage was piled high for some distance, but fortunately no person was hurt. The passengers from Toronto were transferred from one side of the wreck to the other, and those due in Acton reached here about noon. There was no trouble in getting the train back to Georgetown and consequently many were disappointed. The seven, nine and 11.15 a.m. trains from the west came as far as Acton and then returned to Guelph.

CATARRH CANNOT BE CURED

with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a local disease, greatly influenced by constitutional conditions, and is not cured by internal medicine. It is cured by the use of the Catarrh Cure, which is applied directly to the seat of the disease. It is the only cure that has been known to cure the disease. It is the only cure that has been known to cure the disease. It is the only cure that has been known to cure the disease.

OBITUARY

HANUEL JOHN MACKENZIE

When Mr. H. J. Mackenzie left Acton with his son and family last June for Georgetown, his friends here felt that it was not likely he would return. Two years ago in January he suffered from a stroke of paralysis, and while he was able to be about he never was very smart afterwards. His weeks before his death he was completely paralyzed on one side. Tenderly he was ministered to during his weeks of helplessness and he passed peacefully away on Thursday evening, 23rd inst. Deceased was a native of Esquimaux township and was born on lot 21, con. 1, on the farm which his father, the late John Mackenzie, received from the crown for his services as a British soldier. His father fought in the battle of Waterloo and later as a member of the Royal Artillery and Miners was sent to do garrison duty at Quebec. In 1834 he received the above farm, and there, in 1839 his son, Hanuel John, the subject of this sketch, was born. He was married in 1873 to Barbara Boyd, of Huron County. Their family consisted of a son and a daughter, John Boyd, architect and contractor of the above farm, and Mrs. John Boyd, who with her husband, reside on the homestead. Mr. Mackenzie died twenty years ago last June. Twelve years ago the family left the farm and came to Acton. Most of that time Mr. Mackenzie has resided with his wife. He was a man of quiet disposition, a good neighbor and highly esteemed. He was a member of the Presbyterian Church. The funeral was held on Saturday afternoon from the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Boyd, and the interment took place at the Westview Cemetery. Rev. Mr. Cameron, of Georgetown, and Rev. Mr. Wilson, of Acton, conducted the funeral services.

NOT ANXIOUS FOR LIQUOR BUSINESS

Many Druggists Would Generally Prefer not to be Public Dispensers

The new prohibition law, as introduced last week, practically hands over such sales of liquor as are permitted to the drug stores of the province, each sale to be registered in the name of the purchaser. Druggists generally do not relish this section of the law, many of them having discontinued the sale of liquor and excluded it from their stock. The Guelph Mercury interviewed the druggists of that city last week and the various druggists interviewed expressed themselves as follows: J. D. McKee—"The new law makes no difference to us. It is eight years now since I quit handling liquor in any form. Liquor has no place in a drug store. I do not want the business." Mr. Broadfoot—"I have always steered clear of it, and certainly am not keen to enter the business at all. As a matter of fact there is very little in prescription work." Mr. Hogerous—"In the last 12 years we have had none here except what little might be in prescriptions, and that was very little. It remains very largely with the druggists themselves. If they do not want that class of business they can put their feet down on it very fast. We are not compelled to fill a prescription from a doctor."

Mr. Alex. Stewart—"I think the new provision is a mistake. I have already written to several of the members of the Legislature in Toronto with reference to it, and have taken it up as a member of the council of Pharmacy. I don't suppose we have sold a gallon of liquor here in the last two years in prescriptions, in fact we have always discontinued the sale."

Mr. A. B. Pettie—"I haven't sold any liquor here for the last nine years, and I don't want the business at all. We don't even have it here for prescription purposes, and there is not a drop in this store. We have even discontinued the sale of liquor in invalid medicines for the same reason. I do not want the business at all."

Mr. Sib Stewart—"I have never had any liquor here since I started in business. The demand for it is often for it in a drug store is legitimate. It only takes one-half the time to tell a person that you have not got any in stock that it does to explain to him the reasons why you cannot sell it to him. Having it for sale would only get a druggist into hot water. A drug store is much better without it."

Mr. W. H. Beattie—"Druggists generally do not want the business, but I am certain they would do their utmost to outlaw the sale as much as possible."

Mr. A. E. Brown, Acton, says: "I have always discontinued the sale of liquor in druggists. Some years ago I decided to discontinue to stock liquor for any purpose but the doctors requested that I keep a little for prescriptions. The new law will make no difference to me and sale of liquor will not be increased in my store when the new law goes into effect."

A FORMER ACTON BOY ENLISTS

Pvt. Wm. Andrew, Jr., of Burnbank, Man., Sends Following Interesting Note

Two years ago Mr. James Andrew left Acton and settled at Burnbank, Man. He has numerous friends here who have been pleased to learn from time to time of his success in the West. The following letter from his son, William, who enlisted some time ago at Winnipeg, will be read with interest: Editor Acton Free Press, Dear Mr. Moore: Being a former Acton boy I thought I would drop you a line to say that I had enlisted with the 100th L. I. B. Battalion, which is stationed at Winnipeg. Recruiting is being done very fast in the Western provinces. You will perhaps know my father, James Andrew, better than you do now. I was just twelve years of age when we left Acton. I visited Acton two winters ago and I gave you a call one day while I was there. I am now twenty-two years of age. I see by the FIVE PAGES that a lot of Acton boys have gone. I think it is every man's duty to fight for king and country if he can possibly do so. We are going to have a late spring this year. We had a terrible lot of snow last winter and it hasn't gone yet. This is the first day of spring but it is not much like it. I am on leave just now for ten days and I have to report next Monday. With kind regards and fond memories of old Acton, I am, Your sincere friend, Wm. Andrew, Burnbank, Man., March 21st, 1914.

When a woman rides bareback like a man she ought to know enough not to get off a street car backwards.

THE IRON MAIDEN.

Her Dread Embrace Meant Cruel and Certain Death.

In an unusual fever at Nuremberg a strange figure is shown to visitors. It is called the Elzabe Jungfrau (Iron Maiden) because it looks like a woman through its rusty iron. At about the middle of two hundred by means of which the front of the figure is opened on hinges, the two doors, from the chest down, leaving the face unopened.

The heavy and massive doors bristle inside with spikes no sharp no danger, about twenty of which point inward toward the chest and two of which, longer than the others, are fixed inside the face behind the eyes.

The Elzabe Jungfrau was an instrument of execution reserved for shameless women. When one of these was condemned to death she was placed inside the figure, and the doors were closed. The force of the spikes into her vital organs and through her eyes into her brain. Death was quick and slow, according to the speed with which the doors were closed.

The lines of the figure in a trapdoor. When the doors were opened and the victim freed from the iron body dropped through a deep hole into a torrent that still flows under the castle. A tip of a few plumes will insure the body being with electric lamps, and the visitor can look down and see the dark water, thus completing the tragedy in his imagination.—New York World.

SNAILS AS FOOD.

They Are as Nourishing as Calf's Foot Jelly and Easy to Eat.

"All snails are edible and nutritious," says Canon Horley in a book on British land and fresh water mollusks. He goes on to say that even the common garden snail, though it is not so nourishing as calf's foot jelly. There is a large white shelled snail called Helix pomatia that is commonly eaten by connoisseurs in the south of England, while all over France, Italy and Spain several species are used as food. In France there are many small farms which yield a good profit to their owners. In the French and Italian quarters of New York snails may be brought either alive or cooked, and at most of the French restaurants they are served, "recruteurs forcés" being the most usual form of the dish. Snails are easy to raise in large quantities. They need little for making their shells, but do not have to be fed, as they can find their own food, which is exclusively the leaves of many plants. They are most delicious when properly prepared and cooked and, as Canon Horley says, are nourishing as calf's foot jelly.

Something Wrong Somewhere.

A mendicant stood forth arrayed in a cloud of gloom and a placard bearing the legend of "An Drow and Dumb." Comes old Foster Peeler, bearing a grudge that would have put a hyena to shame. "Tuh!" he snarled. "What's the need of that sign? I see you are deaf and dumb!"

"Ho! ho!" he snarled. "What's the need of that sign? I see you are deaf and dumb, you picked head-foot; you hear it!"—Kansas City Star.

The Blue of Sapphires.

Star sapphires are generally of a grayish blue tint, and the star is exhibited in its greatest perfection when looked at by the light of the sun or a candle. The sapphire is found of all tints and shades of blue, but the color which approximates to the shade for sapphire called "blue de roi" is the most valuable. A really fine sapphire should appear blue by artificial light as well as by day. This stone is found in crystals generally of much larger size than the ruby. The name sapphire is perhaps the only one which runs through all languages with very slight variations—the Hebrew name saphir, the Chinese sapphire, the Greek saphira, the Latin sapphire, etc.

Mississippi Steamboating.

The steamboat ago on the Mississippi began about 1821 and flourished for fifty years. As early as 1834 the number of steamboats on the Mississippi and its tributaries is estimated at 230, and in 1852 there were 450 vessels, with a value of $25,000,000. But the golden era was from 1841 till the war. Now old the valley and steamboating proper more than that. Thousands of bales of cotton were annually shipped to southern markets, and the wharves of St. Louis and Memphis and Victoria and other large ports were stacked with piles of merchandise and lined with scores of steamers.—Travel Magazine.

He Knew Her.

She—Heggie, dear, there is something of the old time tonight. I've aye thought—something about you that reminds me of those sweet days of long ago. I hope you have— He—Yes, I have a little left. How much do you want this time?
