THANKSGIVING

Monday gave rather ideal autumn weather for a Thanksgiving Day. The spirit of thanksgiving was abroad. Thanks for the bountiful harvest safely garnered and now gradually being threshed and the golden grain filling the granary bins; gratitude for general prosperity and financial ability in almost every home to invest in another Victory Bond and thus do another "bit" in helping our Government to do their quota in securing lasting peace; sincere thanksgiving for the bright prospects of an early termination of the war with the German Kaiser and his war lords on their knees imploring mercy and forgiveness. Truly October 14th, 1918, will be a Thanksgiving Day long to be remembered. The fifth and last Thanksgiving during the great war will go down in history with the record of the sincere spirit of thanksgiving in the hearts of all the people.

Editorial Notes

Provision having already been made for prompt and equitable settlement of all matters of dispute between employers and employees an order-in-Council has been passed forbidding, for the duration of the war, strikes and lockouts, and imposing severe penalties for violation of the law. Any person violating any of the regulations is made liable upon summary conviction to penalty not exceeding $10,000, or to imprisonment for a period not exceeding six months, or to both fine and imprisonment.

Canadians hardly realize what a impetus their large subscription to the last Victory Loan imparted to business. It enabled the Government to make advances to industries which, without the $400,000,000 subscribed, would have been impossible. Great Britain wanted our beef, bacon, cheese, wheat, hay, oats, and munitions; but she could not pay cash for them. Canada could not borrow abroad the money she wanted, so if she were to sell her surplus products, she had to give credits to Britain and advance the money for the purchases.

The returns relating to the jails and district lock-ups for Ontario for the year 1917 are a very gratifying evidence of the improved morality of the province. Very substatial decreases are shown for nearly every branch of crime. In 1917, 3,907 persons were convicted for drunkenness in the province, as compared with 8,845 in 1914. The total number of commitments to jails for the year 1917 was 12,44445, being a decrease of 3,655 as compared with the pervious year. This is certainly a remarkable record. The decrease is largely owing to the enactment of prohibition.

The general outcry last week for liquor to combat influenza was deplorable, when so many physicians of high renown decry its use under any circumstances. It is just as well for the public to understand frankly that the suggestion to withhold the enforcement of the penalties of the prohibition laws during the outbreak of Spanish influenza originated with the liquor dealers themselves. Their propoganda is ever alert to adopt any enterprize to open the way to the sale of their prohibited products. The public has not been slow to see the trail of the serpent in the suggestion. The authorities will not be caught by the whiskeymen's Prussian trick.

The most sinister purpose believed to be behind the threat of the Huns to make the territory which they pass in retreat so completely desert that the advancing allies will be unable to live there, is the hope to create in France a sentiment favoring stoppage of the war, as a means of saving the historic cities and towns of France and Belgium from sacking, burning and dynamiting. The slow mines wrecking Cambrai have sent a wave of rage throughout the country. The Germans have made another blunder in judging the pschycology of people. Had the French or their allies ever entertained the slightest idea of holding out to Germany any peace proposition, not the slightest vestige of any such idea remains. The Temps says the public is beginning to wonder why it is necessary that retaliatory chastisement of the enemy shall be withheld. "We have to thank God for the fact that the necessary weapons are in our hands to make the Germans feel our anger," the newspaper says. "Let them be employed at the earliest possible moment."

WELCOME TO PTE. SCARROW

Cordial Reception Tendered Him and Beautiful Gold Watch Presented

The regular fortnightly session of the Council was, owing to the holiday, held on Tuesday evening this week. All the members were present and the Reeve in the chair.

The twentieth report of the Finance Committee recommended payment of the following accounts:

Hydro Account

Hydro Electric Power Com.	$2 30

General Account

N. Forbes, labor	$18 25
Blow & Overholt, supplies	2 50
Goldsmith Co., supplies	16 59
	$37 34

The report was adopted.

The question of various societies meeting in the Council Chamber was brought before the Council. A slight misunderstanding has occurred in this matter. The societies are at liberty for the present to hold sessions in this room, but owing to the scarcity of fuel it was deemed wise to advise the ladies to make arrangements to double up their meetings for the same days and if necessary later on the Council will have to withdraw the privilege of any meetings being held there.

The regular business session of the Council then adjourned but the big event of the evening was, however, yet before the meeting—a welcome to Pte. J. P. Scarrow.

Owing to the Board of Health orders no public meeting can be held at this time and accordingly a small gathering of prominent citizens, returned men with their wives and families and those who have lost dear ones, were invited to attend this session.

Reeve Hynds brought the meeting to order, and in very fitting terms introduced the important subject, speaking in complimentary terms of all that Pte. Scarrow has done in his service for his country, and the fine example he had shown in being one of the first to enlist here in the 164th Battalion. He then called upon Rev. J. C. Wilson, B. A., who further expressed words of welcome and appreciation on behalf of the citizens of Acton to Pte. Scarrow for his sacrifices in the service he endeavored to render in France and presented him with a gold watch.

Pte. Scarrow replied to these expressions in suitable terms. He explained the work of the various organizations in the hospitals in England and France enlightening the audience on the work being done there and expressed his regret at being unable to reach France. He thanked the speakers for their kind words on behalf of he and Mrs. Scarrow and the citizens for the beautiful gift and the genuiness of his welcome home, which although not quite as large as some had been was none the less cordial.

Mr. John Cameron, Clerk A. J. MacKinnon, Mr. John R. Kennedy, Lance Corporal George Lantz, Sergt. Fred Coles, Mr. A. T. Brown, Dr. H. A. Coxe also spoke on war conditions and words of welcome to Pte. Scarrow and appreciation of all that he had sacrificed in his effort to be of the greatest service to his country and humanity.

The meeting closed with the national anthem.

GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Rolph M. Lambert Celebrate Fifty Years of Happy Life on Thanksgiving Day

A happy family reunion was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rolph M. Lambert, Main Street, on Monday afternoon, October 14, in celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage. During the afternoon the family presented their parents with a well filled purse.

Rev. J. C. Wilson, B. A., who was present, acted as chairman for the occasion and after a few congratulatory words called upon Mrs. Forbes, the third daughter, who read the following address:

Dear Father and Mother:—

It is a very happy occasion, our gathering here to-day to celebrate with you your golden wedding. To few is accorded the privilege of commemorating such an event and we want to extend to you our congratulations and best wishes. For the past fifty years you have shared your joys and sorrows and have cared for and brought up a large family of sons and daughters. Your love and sympathy have meant much to us and as a token of this appreciation and love we have would ask you to accept this purse. We trust it may be God's will to spare you to each other and to us for many years to come.

YOUR LOVING FAMILY.

Herbert Lambert, the youngest son, presented the purse and immediately after their granddaughter, Mrs. R. C. Law, of Detroit, sang "Let me Come to Thee."

Mr. Lambert, who is now seventy years of age was born on lot 4, concession 3, Erin township. It was to his home there he brought his bride, Miss Jane Campbell, daughter of Robt. Campbell, at one time Reeve of Erin township. Twelve children were born to them, nine of whom are still living. They are James, of Ospringe; Thomas and Howard, of Guelph; Herbert, of Acton; Andrew and Lorne, of Toronto; Mrs. James Near, of Detroit, Mich.; Mrs. Robert Dron, of Erin township, and Mrs. Forbes, of London. All of these along with seventeen grandchildren and two great grand-children were present.

For the past three years Mr. and Mrs. Lambert have been highly esteemed residents of Acton and their many friends join with the family in offering their congratulations and best wishes.

GEORGETOWN

Mr. Wm. Skirrow, of Todmorden, spent the week with friends in town and took in the fair.

J. H. Jackson is in Buffalo this week, attending Canadian Railway and Steamship Ticket Agents Convention.

Miss L. Harrison, of California, arrived in town last week to be with her sister, Mrs. J. Manahan, who is quite ill.

Lieut. H. G. Brooke, an old Georgetown boy and son of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Brooke now of Toronto, is reported in the hospital for the second time suffering from gas poisoning.

When the rumor got abroad here last Sunday night that Turkey and Austria had made unconditional surrender to the Allies, there was considerable of a celebration. The bells in town were rang and a band composed of Georgetown and Glenwilliams musicians rendered numerous patriotic airs.

Dr. J. R. Nixon died at Georgetown last Friday from pneumonia. He was in his 47th year. He was born at Ashgrove. On reaching maturity he was a school teacher for a short time, after which he entered Toronto University as a medical student. He graduated with honors. He first practiced at Malven. He removed to Georgetown thirteen years ago to practice in association with his cousin, D. A. W. Nixon, M. P. P.—Herald.

The 1917 Victory Loan made possible the advancing of $100,000,000 to finance the 1917 wheat crop. Another 100,000,000 was similarly advanced to finance the sale of our exportable surplus of beef and pork products to Great Britain. Nearly $40,000,000 went to finance the sale of cheese to Britain. In addition large sales of hay and oats were also provided for.

JOTTINGS FROM GENERAL CONFERENCE

Incidents and Features of Interest to All Readers

The total membership of the Methodist Church now is 388,210. The number of new members received during the past quadrennium was 83,664.

There are now 2,759 ministers and probationers in the church. Of these 583 were received since last General Conference. There are 532 Methodist ministers and probationers enlisted as soldiers.

The church raises a considerable amount of money for its various activities. During the past four years the congregations paid for local church purposes $12,320,613; for ministers' salaries, $7,273,210; for connexional funds, $6,009,811, and for missions nearly $3,000,000.

The total number of lay officials in the church is 40,985, an increase of 461. This includes stewards, representatives, trustees, local preachers, class leaders, Sunday School and Epworth League workers.

The quadrennial report shows that the Methodist Churches in Canada raised $24,627,309 for all purposes, an increase of $212,516 over the period four years ago.

The churches, parsonages, furnishings, colleges, rescue homes, publishing houses, etc., are to-day valued at $44,178,371; an increase of $2,338,791 in the four years.

Without a word of debate the Methodist General Conference voted unanimously to raise the minimum salary of the Canadian Methodist pastors to $1,200 for married men, $1,000 for unmarried men, and $800 for probationers.

After all the talk for months, yea, for years, of the probable extension or removal of the pastoral term limit, the conference has left the question practically where it was. It was, however, enacted that by a two-thirds vote of the stationing committee a minister may be stationed for a longer term year by year.

The Methodist Church of Canada owns and had on exhibition at the Conference the finest child welfare exhibit on the continent of America.

"Two fundamentals of Christian conquest are intercessory prayer and Christian stewardship," said Bishop Berry, of New York, in his fraternal address.

"Two national capitals are bone-dry Washington and Ottawa—and I am proud of it," said one of the fraternal delegates from the United States in his public address.

The allowance for superannuated ministers is to be increased from $12 to $15 per year for each year served. A minister who has served for 40 years will now receive a retiring allowance of $600 instead of $480.

"Tell the Canadian people that the British have been always kept in most warm regard by the Japanese. All British subjects are esteemed. The people of Japan know the British have always been true friends, and they hope that relationship may never be changed."—The Bishop of the Methodist Church, Japan.

The Conference decided not to open the pulpit to women yet. The Quarterly Boards of the Church will decide during the next four years whether they will be made eligible for ordination. A unanimous vote, however, opened all other doors of the courts of the church to the women. They may be members of either annual or General Conference.

The Methodist Church is vitally interested in the rural sections of Canada. She has more church buildings in purely agricultural districts than any other denomination. Her recommendations in regard to this important question should therefore be received with respect. Social community centres and consolidated schools were recommended as a means for betterment of local conditions.

A great movement for missions has been inaugurated at this conference. The financial objective is the raising of $8,000,000 for missionary work at home and abroad in five years. This will mean that the churches will have to double their ordinary contributions each year for the next five years, that is, to raise a sum of $1,600,00 a year while the drive is on.

A resolution was passed with acclaimmation protesting against the Dominion or Provincial Governments taking any action in the proposal to lift the ban on liquor on account of the influenza epidemic. The Conference declared itself against any relaxing of the enforcement of the prohibition law. The resolution was ordered to be sent to all the Premiers in Canada and Newfoundland.

A letter was received by Rev. Dr. T. Albert Moore, as Secretary of the conference, from the White House, Washington, in answer to the message of the conference to President Wilson's reply to the German peace note. the letter was as follows: "The President asks me to thank you very warmly for your telegram and to tell you and all concerned that he greatly appreciates your generous approbation."

The lay delegates in conference have formed a central organization, to be known as the General Conference Lay Association of the Methodist Church. The purpose of the Association is to enlist the co-operation of all lay agencies in a forward movement for aggressive evangelistic and missionary effort, to assist the church in a progressive policy of Christian leadership in meeting the first problem of the hour. The following officers were elected: Hon. Pres., Hon. E. J. Davis, Newmarket; Pres., F. B. Holtby, St. Thomas; Vice-Pres., E. R. Chapman, Winnipeg; Sec.-Treas., H. W. Mix, Ottawa.

Very happy re-unions of students and friends of Albert College, Belleville; Alberta College, Edmonton; Wesleyan College, Montreal, and Stanstead College, Mt. Allison, N. B. are taking place at the conference. The spirit of loyalty to the respective alma maters was in each strongly manifest. Dr. Baker's scheme for a fine new group of college buildings on the 48-acre site on the Bay of Quinte, donated by the city of Belleville for Albert College, was enthusiastically received.

THE HALTON COUNTY FAIR

Successful Event at Milton Tuesday and Wednesday, Last Week

The annual fair of the Halton Agricultural Society was favored with beautiful weather and good roads. The directors say the attendance was between ten and eleven thousand.

In the morning there was a parade of public school pupils, headed by the band and followed by a number of motor cars, several of which were decorated. Later, in the grounds, the singing of the children was a feature. The show of horses, though good, was hardly up to the Halton standard of former years, but the exhibits of cattle and sheep were exceedingly good. About three hundred cattle were entered.

All classes in grain, roots and fruit were well filled, with quality the highest. There was quite a midway and the refreshment booths of the Red Cross and I. O. D. E. did a huge business.

The speeding contests were a big attraction. A number of fast trotters competed and the finishes were close. There was also a running race, a half-mile dash, an exciting au the trots. A new and popular feature was a hurdle race, in which some of the most noted high jumpers competed.

MEETING OF THE OFFICERS OF ACTON FALL FAIR

Secretary's Report Shows a Balance on Hand, after Allowing for all Expenditures, of $772.39.

The meeting of the Directors and Officers of Acton Fall Fair called by the President to hear the Secretary's report and authorize the payment of prize money was held in the Council Chamber on Tuesday afternoon. President Pearen occupied the chair.

The Secretary was able to report that not a single protest had been entered. This was extremely satisfactory to those in charge as it is seldom that such fairness in judging is experienced.

The Secretary's report of receipts and expenditures showed the Society to be in the best of financial condition. The heavy expenditures and increased costs of this year did not leave as large a surplus as is usually the case, but a splendid balance of $772.39 is now in the bank to the credit of the Society.

It was moved and seconded that the report of the Secretary be received and that he be authorized to pay the prize money and accounts due.

The gate receipts, contrary to first reports, were practically the same as those of last year, there being only a few dollars difference.

All the officers expressed their satisfaction at the successful manner in which the fair had been conducted and reported that as far as they were able to find out, all exhibitors and those in attendance were perfectly satisfied with the way they had been treated.

Checks to those prize winners whose address has been supplied to the Secretary will be mailed to-morrow and those who have not supplied their address may receive the money by calling on Mr. Hynds.

Teach the Children to Save

Habits are acquired early in life. Children, who are taught the value of money and the habit of saving, grow up into good business men and capable women.

The easiest way to teach children to save, is to start a Savings Account for each child ($1.00 each is sufficient). After a child has saved another dollar to make an additional deposit, he or she will have a better appreciation of just what a dollar stands for, and how much work and self-denial it represents.

NEGLECT

Every newspaper, every periodical and every public speaker mentions and orates on the "High Cost of Living," so called. This has gone on for years and with redoubled energy since the war made further spectacular boosts in the prices of foodstuffs, already seemingly as high as they could go.

And what reduction has occurred in consequence of all this agitation? Nothing, absolutely nothing. The increase continued.

Apparently what the public would like is to see beefsteaks at twenty cents a pound and bacon at a quarter. We know now that this is impossible. Why not try a new way—The use of Substitutes?

Let's be a consumer for a moment. Our income is strictly defined at a certain amount per week. It's just enough with great care to make ends meet by the time rent, clothing, fuel and food is provided for, and of the food bill the meat cost is an extremely heavy drain. We try everywhere but prices are pretty much alike. Is there no way we can get around this heavy expense? Let's see now, how about Fish?

The Consumer Hunts for Fish—Mrs. Consumer goes out to hunt up the fish possibilities. At Jones' shop she sees some haddies lying in an open box in the sun at the front, uncovered, a prey for the flies and a receptacle for dust. Does she fall upon the aforementioned Jones and press silver upon his palm and accept in return one of the unsightly fish? Nay—Nay—Pauline. Slowly and sadly she wends her way to the meat man and purchases his product, even at a high price.

Meantime Mrs. Number Two Consumer reaches another shop. A box of fresh caught fish has arrived a few hours previously. Were they nicely arranged to best advantage in fresh clean ice, laid out carefully side by side in an ice filled platter in a show window, or special ice box? They were not. Mr. Brown led her to the box, just as they arrived. The box naturally was rough, water soaked, ice gone, fish helter-skelter every way. Did she buy anything from this "wreck?" She did not.

The Remedy—The above incidents are typical not isolated by any means. A hundred other similar conditions can be described by anyone with eyes.

By the holy, pink toed prophet, as "Cappy Ricks" would say, we can't understand why retailers trained in the ways of the public and taking pains and precautions with every other food product, display fish (if they display at all) like pig iron or junk. Even hardware is given far better treatment. A boot and shoe dealer would blush if his product looked so neglected. A dry goods dealer would insist on self-burial enveloped in some of his own stock. And if fish is not displayed it is hidden away in a place as unsightly as the kerosene receptacle.

Fish a Prime Food—Don't forget that. If this fact is not lost sight of, if you will always remember that they are destined to be eaten by particular people you won't manhandle them. They are delicate in texture. In fact by proper display the greatest desire to purchase is made on the ultimate consumer. Nothing else equals it. Remember that a millionaire in tramp's clothing is perhaps just as good as in a frock coat, but he has got to prove it to a policeman

Fish Cooking—Of course there is a smell when fish is being cooked. How about onions, cabbages, etc? Surely they have a smell and yet everybody eats them. The fact of the matter is that a retail dealer must have a variety and caution ble customers about cooking properly. Nearly every cook book gives recipes. It is all important that the consumer cooks fish so that it satisfies. The finest fish in the world when improperly cooked may be as tasteless as sawdust.
