Editorial Notes

This Free Press is favored with a new and observant writer, whose first contribution appears in this issue on the front page. If his effusions continue as interesting and as easily digestible as the first article, the Free Press and all local readers will cordially welcome his interesting paragraphs from week to week.

Our soldier heroes are coming home every week, but on a meeting of the Executive Committee has been called to arrange for further gatherings of citizens to publicly welcome them. Many citizens are annoyed at this delay in giving fitting appreciation of the services of these brave men, and it is our hope that the friends of our heroes will see to it that they receive the recognition to which they are entitled.

The town of Thorold has adopted what looks like a feasible plan for the reception of returned soldiers. They set apart one day a week for publicly welcoming men who have returned during the previous seven days. Why not try this plan in Acton? It would save much confusion and uncertainty, and would give the townspeople a better opportunity of turning out to show their appreciation of the men in khaki who are now returning home in considerable numbers.

There is widespread opposition throughout the country against the resumption of the Daylight Saving enactment for the coming summer months. While there were undoubtedly some advantages in the carrying out of this plan last year, the disadvantages were considerably more numerous. Farmers and fruit-growers very generally advance arguments which conclusively show loss of time in the pursuit of their work, instead of gain. It was a substantial loss to the daylight saving plan in the Government may wisely leave the calendar alone this year, so far as the hours of sunrise and sunset are concerned.

A number of articles on subjects of national importance appear in the Canadian Magazine for February. One is on "Educational Preparedness," by Prof. Iva A. Mackay, of the University of Saskatchewan. It is a very timely article, and while it is not an original, it is a valuable contribution to the education of the public. It is an article that should be read by every Canadian, and it is an article that should be read by every Canadian.

There is a movement throughout the country favoring the establishment of Children's Peace Parks in the towns and cities of Canada as war memorials. No better method could be adopted to perpetuate the noble and heroic deeds of our soldiers in the great war for freedom and the rights of all. The Ontario Horticultural Society in session at Toronto last week went on record as strongly favoring memorial parks in every town and city. They have a committee of Mrs. Robert Scott, ex-Chairman of the Board of Education, suggested by the Free Press just such a memorial for Acton. This is the best of the memorial parks for Acton, and it is the best of the memorial parks for Acton.
